

THREAT TO MURDER OTHER GAMBLERS

Alleged to Have Been Made by Agents of Men "Higher Up" in Police Dept.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Threatened with death if they revealed information regarding the three men "higher up" in the gambling graft scandal, "Bridge" Webber and Harry Vallon, two of the associates of "Boss" James J. Sullivan, may prove to be recalcitrant witnesses. The prisoners are confronted on the charges that they were the murder of Herman Rosenthal unless they tell the whole truth. The two prisoners tried to determine today what course to pursue.

Webber and Vallon have been "reached" and told, according to Vallon's counsel, to "throw Police Lieutenant Becker to the wolves," but to shield the names of the three men who are regarded by the state's attorney as directors of the graft system.

District Attorney Whitman is letting the two prisoners themselves decide what attitude they will take. Their indictments depend largely on the testimony they give. Rose insists that he will go through with the case until the end and that pressure or threats will not swerve him from telling the secret of the gambling and police system.

James M. Sullivan, Vallon's lawyer, says that for some time messengers from those "higher up" and from certain police inspectors have surreptitiously visited Vallon and Webber in their cells and told them that they might tell what they please about Becker, but if they informed on the fellow they might as well make away with themselves, as they would meet death later. Sullivan said, after seeing Whitman:

"Whitman has made a case against Becker and none of Becker's blackmailing employers seems to care a hang about Becker's situation. In fact, they have sent word to Rose, Webber and Vallon to throw Becker to the wolves. But they are determined that their names shall not be brought out. Rose will make good, but Webber and Vallon have been reached. I have told Vallon that he is not playing square and that I will no longer act as his counsel."

In the confession of Rose, as prepared by the gambler for Whitman and printed this morning with Rose's own spelling and punctuation, Rose declares that Becker had decided to kill Rosenthal himself if others had not done the job. After the murder Rose says he met Becker by appointment near the scene of the killing. In his written confession, Rose says:

"I opened the conversation by saying: 'My God, Charley, this is horrible. There will be hell to pay.' He said, 'What is the matter, Doc? Don't worry. All that has to be done is to get the fellow seen him and he said, 'You saw the squealing.' I would have liked to take my knife out and cut a piece of his tongue out and hang it on the building as a warning to possible future squealers," he said. "Well, I was saved the trouble of doing it myself. I asked him how, 'Well,' he said, 'for you to do it to get the gang to do it so decided tonight to do it myself.' I asked him how, 'Well,' he said, 'after I left Jack Sullivan I instructed Otto to drive by the Metropolitan and to slow down without stopping. I intended if Rosenthal was there to take out my gun, blaze away at him and then tell Otto to keep going, but he wasn't there.' I said, 'Well, about these fellows?' He said, 'I will take good care of everybody concerned.'"

Webber he said, "See that these fellows get enough money to get out of town, say about a thousand dollars between them," which Webber said he would, which makes fifteen hundred from Webber."

The grand jury was prepared to resume its investigation today. District Attorney Whitman's assistants are making an investigation of real estate transactions, information having been to the state's attorney that within the last year one police inspector has invested over $200,000 in choice uptown lots.

The coroner's inquest was late in getting under way. Many prominent men appeared in court in the panel of jurors. Daniel Friedman, the theatrical manager, was foreman, and among others on the panel who signified their willingness to serve were Arthur Hertz, J. B. Harriman, Harry Duryea, and F. W. Duryea. Coroner Feinberg presided and "Dago Frank" and "Whitey" Lewis were in court. The understanding was that the proceedings would be adjourned in view of the impending indictments.

This turn of affairs came suddenly after Assistant District Attorney Moss had announced confidently that they had practically a complete case against all the defendants before the grand jury. On the strength of this statement, it had been predicted that indictments would be returned this afternoon against the four gamblers involved and against Jack Sullivan and Abby and Shapira, owners of the murder car. It was also understood that a superseding indictment would be returned against Becker to cover a possible flaw in the indictment already found. All these plans went astray, however, when the grand jurors insisted on hearing the testimony of Schepps and matters will be more or less at a standstill until he reaches the city.

THE PRISONERS IN ROSENTHAL CASE WERE ARRAIGNED IN COURT

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Before a representative jury of prominent men with Daniel Frohman as foreman, the prisoners, with the exception of Lieut. Becker, involved in the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, were arraigned today before Coroner Feinberg for the formal inquest into the murder. But at the request of Assistant District Attorney Moss, who said, "a practically complete case has been made out against all the defendants by the grand jury now in session," the hearing was postponed until Aug. 22.

An eager crowd assembled in court to catch a glimpse of the prisoners, all of whom were there from "Dago Frank" and his gunmen to "Bald Jack" Rose, "Bridge" Webber and other go-betweens.

Mr. Moss' reference to a "practically complete case" referred to the deliberations of the Rosenthal grand jury which is expected to hand up indictments against all the prisoners including a indictment against Becker, before Judge Mulqueen some time this afternoon.

SCHEPP REFUSED TO TALK WHEN HE LEFT HOT SPRINGS TODAY

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Aug. 15.—Sam Schepps, wanted as a material witness in the Rosenthal case in New York, left Hot Springs at 7:15 this morning in charge of Assistant District Attorney Rubin and his detectives.

Rubin maintained his decision to obey literally the instructions of District Attorney Whitman not to announce the hour of his departure, the route to be taken or the probable time of arrival in New York.

The Schepps party left Hot Springs on a train of the St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern road.

It was not until late yesterday that Schepps made up his mind to return to New York with Rubin. Probably the arrival of Stewart, a prosecutor's detective with credentials impelled the decision.

Schepps seemed to have made many partisans during his visit in Hot Springs. Led by Mrs. Pettit, the wife of the acting mayor, many of the most prominent women of the city bade the New York gambler good bye yesterday afternoon. They invited him to visit Hot Springs when he could come under more agreeable circumstances.

ODGENSBURG, N. Y., Aug. 15.—News just reached here telling that acting Mayor R. L. They had motored over to Watrous lake from Lansing to spend the day.

WOMAN WINS WILL SUIT

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—The will of Alexander Rubel of 5 East Fifty-fourth street, who died at Glen Springs, N. Y., on June 18 leaving an estate of $2,500,000, will be admitted to probate by Surrogate Coburn today as the result of the settlement of a contest brought by the widow, Mrs. Florence Teel Rubel. She will get a larger share of the estate than she would have had under the will.

Mrs. Rubel executed his will on June 9, 1908, and a codicil on June 9 last, by which he left his wife a trust fund of $150,000 with the provision that if she remarried the income would cease. The rest of the estate was divided among two sons and one daughter.

OUTING OF THE BOARDS OF TRADE HELD TODAY

Of Lowell and the Surrounding Towns-- Enjoyable Affair

ARTHUR L. GRAY
Chairman Lowell Board of Trade

The boards of trade of Lowell, Billerica, Chelmsford, Dunstable, Tewksbury and Westford held their annual outing at Canobie Lake park today and the occasion was a very enjoyable one.

Among those noticed on the cars in the square, just before the start to the park was made, were the following: Mayor O'Donnell, Patrick Condon, Dennis Quinn, Eragon Barlow, Charles Holmes, Daniel W. Shanshan, A. M. Churchill, George H. Taylor, Dr. Hugh Walker, John Brien, John Buckley, Edward Fisher, John Peabody, Edward F. Cawley, Supt. Lees, John J. Rogers, Patrick O'Hearn, Bart Ryan, George Trull, Judge Fisher, Charles Roberts, Eugene Russell, Mildred F. Wood, Jas.

one and very instructive, too. Four special cars left Merrimack square at 12:15, noon, and the cars were well filled.

On arrival at the park dinner was served on the pavilion and the boys were served by Graves and Hammsell and they did themselves proud. The menu included clam chowder, boiled salmon with green peas, fried cucumbers and radishes, baked bluefish with mashed potatoes, fried clams, lobster salad, ice cream, cake, cigars and other refreshments.

Seated at the head table were: Arthur L. Gray, Rev. C. H. Williams, Dr. H. N. Larrabee, James Quigley, Edward Fisher, esq., Hon. James D. O'Donnell, Hon. Joseph H. Walker, Hon. Samuel W. McCall, Hon. Butler Ames, Harvey B. Greene and Alonzo G. Walsh.

The principal after-dinner speakers were Congressman McCall and Hon. Joseph Walker, former speaker of the Massachusetts house of representatives. An outing of this nature would be incomplete without a few words from out mutual friend, Delacey Corkum of Billerica, and he entertained with witty and timely after-dinner remarks.

After the good things provided by the caterers had been disposed of and the soul had had its fill of wit and oratory, a ball game was in order and it was followed by a series of athletic events, including hopstep and jump, fat men's races, three-legged races, etc.

Among those noticed on the cars in the square, just before the start to the park was made, were the following: Mayor O'Donnell, Patrick Condon, Dennis Quinn, Eragon Barlow, Charles Holmes, Daniel W. A DECISIVE BATTLE EXPECTED TOMORROW

Engagements Will Take Place at Newtown

WEATHER IS AFFECTING THE MEN

Great Activity in Headquarters Camp

MANEUVER HEADQUARTERS, Stratford, Conn., Aug. 15.—The general engagement for possession of New York city will be fought tomorrow probably at Newtown. Today the respective commanders began shifting their units in order to get better positions. Neither dared to go into a general engagement on the strength of last night's dispositions, which were on parallel lines running north and south, the roads through the holding Walnut Tree hill, which they won yesterday as the key to their center, and the blues testing their main body in Stepany with the left wing at Upper Stepany.

The weather is affecting the men. Yesterday was the most trying day since the "crucial war" began. The thermometer stood at 90 in the shade most of the day and there was no breeze except on the hilltops.

The morning sun found officers poring over their maps. Neither General Smith of the reds nor Gen. Mills of the blues was ready to bring on the expected engagement. Each wanted to get a better position. The early playing showed that each commander was trying to move his units to strategic positions and to mask their numbers. The outposts were aggressive and cavalry of both colors was scurrying around as if to give the opposing force the impression that an advance was about to be made. The changes in positions of brigades showed that both armies were working slightly to the north. This would bring the blues directly east of their Dunbury base, with an inclination southwest. They have the interior lines and this means that Gen. Smith will have to spread out his forces if he has any idea of making the fight on the flanks.

In the headquarters camp all was activity. The signal corps was busy with the troops of the tenth cavalry marched out. It presumably was going to Newtown to establish a new headquarters for Gen. Bliss, who as chief umpire will simply watch the fighting Friday and Saturday.

The delay in bringing about a general engagement today was due in part to the failure of many small units to join with the larger force. Many small detachments had been scattered over considerable area and when the concentration began in earnest, these were called in.

The heat yesterday told on the transports and horses had to be rested frequently. A more potent reason for delay was that many regiments had only two horses on their field wagons when they should have had four. When wagons struck the steep grades the horses could not pull them. The four-in-hands of army mules took the hills with a rush. The horses gave out on the road and soldiers had to lend a hand. Even motor trucks got stalled on some hills because of the size of their loads.

Some regiments had a good deal of

PENSION AGENCIES TO BE ABOLISHED

Pres. Taft Expected to Sign the Bill

HOUSE AGREED TO SENATE'S DEMAND

One Minor Amendment to be Adjusted

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Pensions for thousands of veterans, held up by disagreement between the house and senate over the $160,000,000 pension appropriation bill, may be paid Saturday. The house today agreed to the senate's demand to abolish the 18 outlying pension agencies on Feb. 1 and passed the bill with one minor amendment which will be adjusted today. President Taft is expected to sign it immediately.

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—Chairman Hilles of the republican national committee departed for New York today after two days of conferences with republican leaders at western headquarters here. Just before his departure Hilles said he had received encouraging reports from nearly all the national committee-men.

Mr. Hilles said that as a result of the conference here it was expected that Chicago would be made the headquarters of the national committee during the campaign.

Work at the Chicago headquarters of the progressive party marked time today awaiting the return of Senator Dixon, McNeill McCormick and leaders from New York.

No arrangements have been completed as yet for the opening of democratic headquarters in Chicago. Joseph G. Davies of Wisconsin, who had been expected to arrive here in advance of Chairman McCombs of New York, still is in the east.

R. O. MEN ARE ORGANIZED

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—A good deal of interest was manifested yesterday among the employees of the post office and its branches in this city in the new post office appropriation bill under which the employees are permitted to organize.

The only real concession, however, that they could see in this bill was that it permits them to petition members of congress to vote for measures correcting grievances under which they labor.

As far as organization is concerned the employees are already organized. The new bill prohibits them from joining the American Federation of Labor or any other labor body which would draw them into sympathetic strikes. The present organizations have no such affiliations, with one exception—the Railway Mail Clerks' union.

Assistant Postmaster Thomas F. Murphy said that the bill left the post employees as if there had been no amendment to the appropriation bill. The post office clerks throughout the country are organized for the most part as the United National Association of Post Office Clerks, of which the New York local is branch No. 1.

THE ANNUAL REUNION WAS GREAT EVENT

ST. JOSEPH'S COLLEGE

Former Pupils of St. Joseph's College Had Great Time— Banquet Tonight

The first annual reunion of L'Association des Anciens Elèves du College St. Joseph, an organization recently founded among the former pupils of this popular place of education, is today being held in this city. Inasmuch as this is the first gathering of the pupils since the college was founded 20 years ago by the late Rev. Andre M. Garin, O. M. I., the celebration is being held on a very large scale. Invitations were sent out to about 500 of the former pupils scattered all over the states, and one was mailed to the Hawaiian Islands, and a large number of the young men have responded favorably. In the association are represented nearly every trade and profession, while there is also a large number of clergymen. A telegram of regret was received yesterday from Judge Victor Boire of the probate court of Pittsburg, N. Y., who expresses his regret for not being able to participate in the festivities this side by side, for some distance, Podge pulled away from his opponent when Stanley's dance hall was reached and he increased his lead, finishing way ahead of McCormack. He reached the water station at Lawrence at just 12:13 o'clock, and ex-McCormack Day was at the finishing point with the watch. At that time McCormack was not in sight, but it was learned that he was still in the water and would continue to the end.

Murphy was in excellent condition after the stunt and after receiving a rub down, hoarded a car for home and collected the twenty bucks. He said: "Now I claim the title at champion of Lowell and think that I am justified in doing so. Everyone had a chance to enter and while McCormack was the only opponent I had, I am of the opinion that all others were afraid to compete and I still stand ready to defend my claim."

Murphy then paid a high tribute to McCormack, his opponent, saying that for quite a distance down the stream the latter gave him a good tussle to stay with him, and considers that he defeated one of Lowell's best men by winning from Mack.

The time made by Murphy was exceptionally fast, being just four hours and thirty-three minutes. While no official record of former matches is obtainable Murphy's time is the fastest known to local authorities on swimming.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—The senate commission investigating campaign expenditures will request George W. SUFFRAGISTS SCORE SUCCESS

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 15.—Another suffrage success was scored by Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont here this afternoon when the meeting that she had arranged at the dance hall at Newport beach turned out to be the largest that has been held this summer.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Stanley McCormack of Boston. Mrs. Belmont was the first to speak. Other speakers were Mrs. Alice Daer Miller of New York and Mrs. Susan Fitzgerald of Boston. Mrs. Inez M. Holland of New York answered many questions that the audience asked.

CITIZENS HOLD A MEETING TO PUT AN END TO GRAFT

Thousands Declare for Law Enforcement at Meeting in New York

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—At an old-fashioned town meeting in Greater Union last night people in all walks of life set the seal of disapproval on the system of organized graft in the police department as disclosed by the killing of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler.

After listening to speeches by District Attorney Whitman; Emory R. Buckner, who has been one of Mr. Whitman's assistants and is now counsel to the attorney's police investigating committee; the Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott, editor of the Outlook; Rabbi Schulman of the Temple Beth-El and others, the meeting adopted a resolution by a very determined and noisy chorus of ayes to an ugly sounding and no two feeble measures, calling upon the police department to "put forth additional efforts looking to the arrest of all those implicated in the Rosenthal murder," calling upon the district attorney to continue in the case as he has been doing; urging the board of estimate and apportionment to appropriate $25,000 for a special investigation into police conditions; calling upon the city board of investigation to "make a thorough non-partisan and unswerving examination into existing conditions and into the causes which have led to systems of blackmail and graft and to systems of remedies by which these causes may be removed," and urging citizens having information concerning these conditions to lay it before the district attorney and the attorney's committee.

In order to make the resolutions effective a committee was appointed to see that the public demands of the citizens assembled in mass meeting "without regard to race, creed or party politics," be made effective.

The committee consists of Eugene H. Outerbridge, Jacob H. Schiff, Eugene A. Philbin, Dr. Henry Moskowitz, Allan Robinson, F. S. Fenimore, Raymond V. Lorrain, Mrs. Charles H. Israel and George B. Agnew.

It was also decided that the committee shall have power to increase its membership to thirty, including representatives from every borough and that it may solicit funds, engage counsel and do whatever "is necessary to vindicate law and order in the city and to bring about such changes as will make more difficult, if not impossible, the recurrence of conditions like the present."

"The brutal murder of Rosenthal when he was on the point of making important disclosures to the district attorney," the preamble sets forth, indicated that "there has again developed a treacherous connection between some of the members of the police department and organized crime."

The meeting was a remarkable demonstration and gave indisputable evidence that the people are much stirred by the events of the past month and are determined that something shall be done.

Although the night was warm people began to gather outside of Cooper Union nearly two hours before the time set for the meeting. At 7 o'clock the sidewalks on the four sides of the building were thronged with perspiring men and women. When the doors opened at 7:30 there was a great rush to get in and soon seats were given out and no more. It was then estimated that over 2000 persons were inside and many more than that number outside. Over a thousand lingered on the sidewalk until after the adjournment.

The audience was cosmopolitan. In it were noticed the usual Cooper Union crowd, as well as fashionably dressed people from all parts of the city. There was a fair sprinkling of women in shirt waists and many made themselves comfortable by removing their coats. A number of those who had seats on the platform said they had come from their country and seaside homes to lend their presence to the support of the movement and to put graft out of existence.

Charles P. Howland presided and Dr. Henry Moskowitz acted as secretary. In opening the meeting Mr. Howland said it had been called and organized by 100 representatives of different interests in the city. He added:

"It is a solemn occasion. I think we all feel that. I think every one here feels his sense of responsibility at this time. We have an important task before us, perhaps the highest task that confronts the duty of the citizen—the task of maintaining the fundamental elements of civilization."

"Municipal government, which for many years was on trial in the cities of this country, and which we thought had been saved, is again on a desperate trial, and it is the duty of each of us to do his share, be that much or little, in the work of rescue."

"We come to this task without partisan bias and actuated by no sectarian or racial motives. We do not come here to denounce any man. We do not come here to prejudice any man. We come here to rescue organized society from the clutches of savagery."

District Attorney Whitman was the last speaker and he was received with a tremendous demonstration. The big crowd shouted and whistled and howled and finally got up and waved their hats to a chorus of cheers.

TO CHANGE GOLF RULES
BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 15.—As a result of the "unlawful" field that swamped the United States Golf association officials in the recent national open championship here, it is believed that the association will adopt several changes in the conditions for next year's meeting. The changes now being considered are along lines in force in Great Britain, where the open tournament last year attracted 125 starters, a number far too large to be handled under the American system.

The English golf officials allotted five days to the tournament instead of the two days allowed on this side. The field is divided into three sections, section A playing two rounds on the first day, section B two rounds on the second day, and section C two rounds on the third day. From each of these sections the 20 best scores, including ties for twentieth place qualify to play in the championship proper on subsequent days.

COOLER WEATHER IS PROMISED BY THE WEATHER CLERK

BOSTON, Aug. 15.—After still another day of heat and humidity, with its record of two deaths and four prosecutions, relief is at last promised for today.

Last night, which saw the last of the shower-producing low pressure area in New England, showed an area of high pressure about the Great Lakes, accompanied by temperatures considerably lower than those prevailing in other sections of the country.

Thus, while the maximum temperature yesterday was 83 at Philadelphia, 87 at Boston, and 86 at New York and Albany, at Detroit and Chicago it was only 80, and at Buffalo 74. For this reason, today's local forecast is fair and somewhat cooler weather with west to northwest winds.

Great as the heat was in Boston yesterday, and unbearable as was the day, conditions would unquestionably have been much worse and the number of prosecutions and deaths greater but for two showers, the first after noon and the second about 5 p. m., both of which caused temporary drops in the temperature.

While on Monday and Tuesday the 80 outfit was not reached until 7 a. m. yesterday it was 80 at 3 o'clock, 85 an hour later, and 87 at noon. Then came the first shower, and with it a sudden drop in the temperature, so that at 1 p. m. it was only 75.

Soon, however, the mercury started up again, and at 2 o'clock it was 80 and going fast. The humidity, too, which at 8 a. m. registered only 72 per cent., had increased to 82 per cent. But the second shower lowered the temperature from 85 at 5 o'clock to 81 at 6, and the day's heat was over.

During the evening, though, the fall of the temperature was very slow. At 8 o'clock it was only down to 78, and at this figure it remained until after 10, making the evening hours far from pleasant.

The total rainfall was only .02 inch, according to the gauge of the weather bureau, though to the man on the street it seemed much greater. The first shower was preceded by clouds so dark that lights had to be turned on in many office buildings.

HOSPITAL FOR ANIMALS
NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—The new hospital and dispensary of the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, located on Avenue A in the East Side hospital district, began its work of ministering to dogs, cats and horses. The institution is the most complete of its kind in the world. Medicine and professional advice are given free to those who are unable to pay. The building includes a series of wards, private rooms, pharmacies, operating rooms, exercise rooms, and isolation wards for animals suffering from contagious diseases. The ground floor has a garage equipped with 15 automobile ambulances and wagons.

IMMENSE CROWD TO SEE THE CHICAGO-NEW YORK GAMES

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—It is estimated by the officials at the West Side baseball grounds that 90,000 persons will witness the series of three games between New York and Chicago and for this privilege they will pay $70,000.

The old time rivalry between the teams, the closeness of the races for the National League pennant and the suspension of John Evers, the Cub second baseman, by President Lynch, have aroused Chicago fans and the management expressed the opinion that the biggest crowd that has assembled at the park this season will see the game today.

President Murphy of the Cubs was somewhat downcast over the suspension of Evers. He said:

"The suspension of Johnny Evers at this critical time is discouraging. We all realize that as a league head president Lynch is placed in many trying positions. But I am sorry that he should have found it necessary to mete out the penalty he did."

TO DISSOLVE TRUST
CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—U. S. Dist. Atty. Wilkerson will file suit within a couple of days for dissolution of the Elgin-Buffet Board of Trade, the Tribune today says.

The charge will be violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

The government alleged that the board is able to control prices not only in the territory tributary to Elgin but in a large outlying territory.

Mme. D'Almeida's Beauty Hints
(From the Journal of Fashion)

"No woman who prizes true beauty will neglect her eyebrows and eyelashes. Brushing the eyebrows tends them to grow arch-shaped and applying pyroxin will make them grow thick and silky. Pyroxin applied to roots will make the lashes grow long and silky."

"To keep the skin clear, smooth, fair and pliant, use a simple complexion beauty made by dissolving an ounce of glycerine in a half pint of water. Gently massage face, neck and arms with this and you will have a lovely, soft and youthful complexion."

"Any person desiring abundant glossy hair should use a dry shampoo frequently. Mix four ounces of powdered orange blossom water with a half ounce of ether and sprinkle a teaspoonful of this mixture on the head and brush it thoroughly through the hair. The hair will be light and fluffy and beautifully lustrous."

"Paste made by mixing water with a little powdered detanant and applied to a hairy surface will remove every trace of superfluous hair or fuzz. Leave the paste on a minute or two, then remove and wash the surface. This treatment is safe, sure and speedy and leaves the skin hairless, firm and smooth."

LYNN WOMAN
ATTACKS BURGLAR AND PUTS HIM TO FLIGHT

LYNN, Aug. 15.—A single-handed fight with a burglar who entered her bedroom early yesterday, resulted in a complete victory for Mrs. Annie DeRosier, of 4 Friend street place, who, after knocking the burglar over the head, drove him out of the house via a window.

Two other women, sleeping in the house, were aroused by the noise of the conflict and arrived on the scene in time to see the intruder's back disappearing through the window.

Mrs. DeRosier advised to find a man standing over her. He told her to make no noise. She was able to make out that he was short and thick-set and of dark complexion. He wore a slouch hat and dark clothing, she says.

Valuable Beauty Aids for the Heated Term
Tan and freckles can be banished from the skin. Keep clear, smooth and radiantly beautiful right through the summer by daily applications of a purifying lotion, which is prepared at home for a small sum by stirring 7 teaspoonfuls glycerine into 1-2 pint white habel (or hot water), then adding 1 ounce spiritus.

This lotion is invaluable when on a hot streak from perspiration. It is especially nice to rub out lines and dispel the oily, shiny condition.

Canthrox shampoos are wonderful aids to keep the hair lovely during summer. Just dissolve a teaspoonful canthrox in a cup of hot water and your shampoo is ready. This creates a wealth of rich, white lather that dissolves every atom of dust, dandruff and excess oil. Rinsing leaves the scalp and hair immaculately clean.

After a canthrox shampoo the hair dries evenly and quickly, and takes on a charming lustre and silkiness.

THE WORK ESTATE WORTH $14,000,000

Daughter to Have Income of $2,000,000

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Frank Work left an estate valued at $14,000,000, after payment of all administrative expenses. The gross estate is $14,258,808.

The report of the state tax appraiser yesterday shows that of this amount Mrs. Frank Roche, divorced wife of Aurel Batonyi and daughter of Mr. Work, will receive the income of $2,000,000. The present value in cash of her life interest is $1,400,000.

Mr. Work made elaborate provisions in his will for the distribution of his estate. He wrote for no less than 15 codicils, in which he traced the marital history of his daughter, Mrs. Roche. He at one time cut her off altogether, and later provided that the trustees should have power to give her an adequate income.

The will provided that Edmund and Frank Roche, grandsons, should become American citizens and change their name to Work. So far as is known neither of the boys has taken steps to change his name. Their share of the estate is $2,716,917 each.

Mr. Work provided in his will that his granddaughter, Cynthia Roche Burden, should not share in the estate if she married a foreigner or visited England during the lifetime of her father, James Jeffery Burke Roche. She is married to Arthur Scott Burden, an American. Her share of the estate is $2,522,400.

Mrs. Peter Cooper Hewitt, another daughter of Mr. Work, inherits $1,417,257.

The share of Ellen Burden, a great-granddaughter, is valued at $878,533. The residue of the estate is appraised at $3,530,154.

The cost of Mrs. Roche's divorce from Batonyi is shown by the report of the appraiser. The detective agency which obtained the incriminating evidence received $29,992. W. M. K. O'Connor, counsel for Mrs. Batonyi, received a fee of $35,000.

Mr. Work bequeathed $1000 a year to Frank Work, a nephew, and a similar annuity to his partner, Charles D. Chapman. His two nieces receive $1,300 a year. He also provided for gifts to his servants.

The only real estate owned by Mr. Work was his home at No. 13 East Twenty-eighth street. This is valued at $255,410. The most valuable room was the parlor, estimated at $1248.

LOWELL BOY MAKES GREAT FLIGHT

William F. Higgins Performed at Fairlee, Vermont

WILLIAM F. HIGGINS

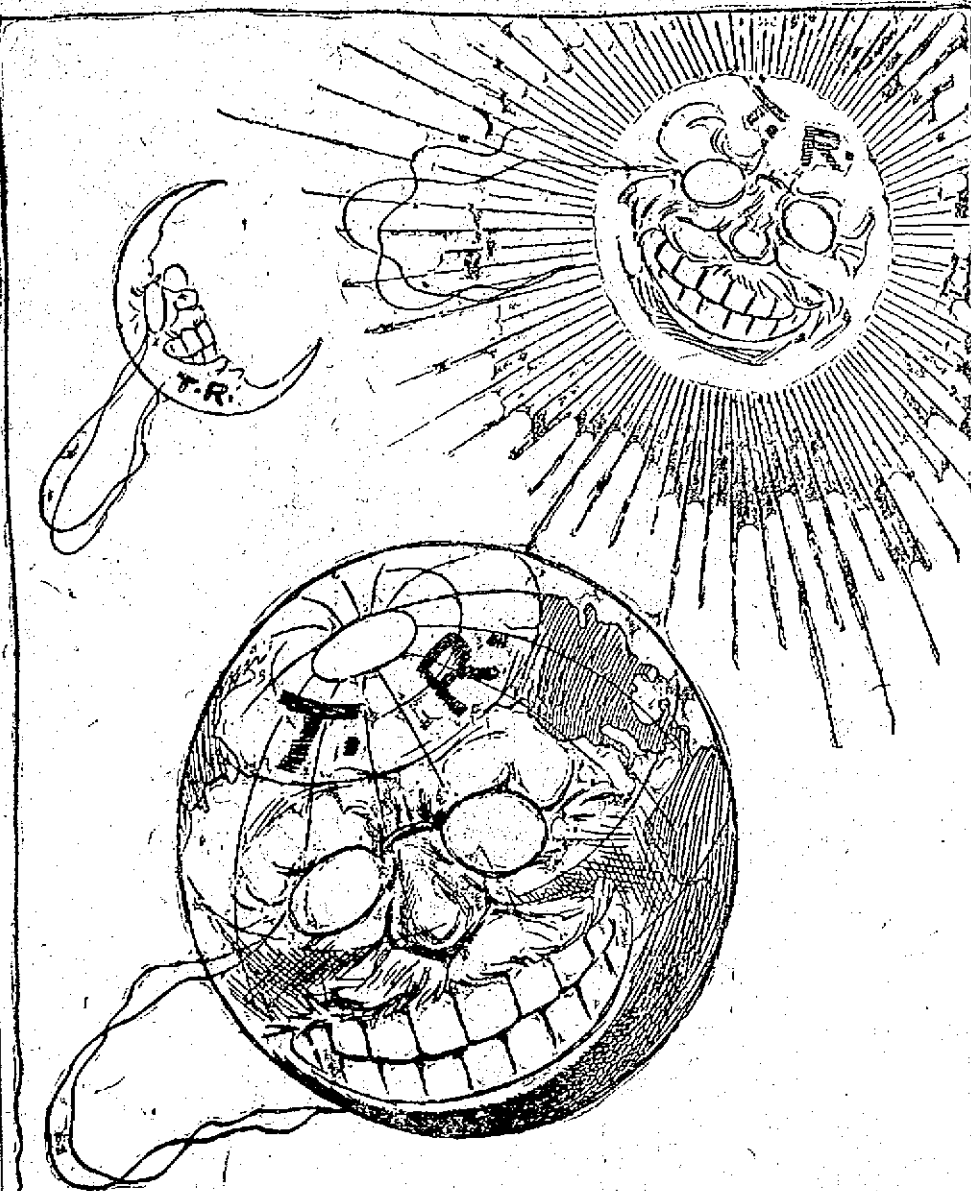

William F. Higgins, better known as "Billy," former president of the Eagles, member of the Kitchen club and general all around man, is at it again. Like most gentlemen of his profession, Billy likes to kick up his heels after working hours, but as he has a reputation to zealously maintain, while in Lowell, he waits until he is many miles from the Spindle City before he makes things sizzle.

Aeroplaneing: this is the sport in which W. F. has become interested. Speeding, with plenty of it; high flying, with the sky as the limit—these pastimes are now taking up all his spare time while on a vacation in Fairlee, Vermont, and incidentally taking up all the time of the people of the town in watching him cavort through the air in his new monoplane.

Fairlee is a quiet little burg with a lot of nice sociable folks in it. They're the kind that don't stand off before an introduction, but just wade in on seeing a new face and salute him, or her, with "Howdy, stranger," wai this is a fair to middle sort of day, he's in it. As Fairlee is not a densely populated community it follows that affairs in the amusement line come almost as frequently as do sunstrokes in winter.

He Won't Limp Now
No more limping for Tom Moore of Cochran, Ga. "I had a bad sore on my instep that nothing seemed to help till I used Buckler's Arnica Salve," he writes, "but this wonderful healer soon cured me." Heals old, running sores, ulcers, boils, burns, cuts, bruises, etc. or piles. Try it. Only 25 cents at A. W. Dows & Co.

Consequently when the burgomaster decided that the village would conduct a fair this week every one in that section sat up, roll their chaw of tobacco to the other side, and took notice. In fact the village cutups became so excited over the innovation that one evening they did not leave the store for home until eight o'clock. One thing, however, kept the Fairlee folks scratching their heads. They wanted, but did not have, a startling attraction. Now Billy Higgins is a thoughtful sort of man, so, to help the Fairlee fair along, he decided that he'd let its managers exhibit himself, William F. Higgins, sailing through the air; that is, sailing in a monoplane. The fair managers figured it out that the sight of Billy in a monoplane ought to be worth at least a quarter to any fair attendant, and, naturally, they jumped at Billy's kind offer, and immediately "set 'em up" with cider. After the refreshments had been liquidated, so to speak, W. F. telephoned to his Lowell office and had the monoplane forwarded. In its arrival, however, he noticed that the spectacular carnap of the motor had been tampered with by some one of the Acre boys and as it was necessary to secure the services of an expert mechanic, he asked for aid from his old friend, Capt. Obadiah Ezekiel Lucas, better known as "Ozeké."

This gentleman bears his title through the fact that in his early days he used to turn an honest dollar by captaining the "Skull and Crossbones Special," a pirate clipper that roamed the Indian seas. As piracy, on the advent of the steam-driven cruisers, became a rather unhealthful profession, the captain had, the "Skull and Crossbones Special" insured for full and a half value and then lit the kerosene. With the insurance money he had gently but emphatically urged to wallow the plank, Capt. Lucas, a dozen years ago purchased estate in Fairlee, and he now occupies his time in bestowing his superfluous change on country libraries, social welfare institutions and other organizations fighting the good fight in the cause of human happiness.

Ozeké tinkered around the spectacular carnap for a time, patted some of its joints and ribs with a monkey wrench and made it do a monkey bran new. Seeing that the "mono" was in ship shape—being in fact tuned up to high G—our mutual friend William F. Higgins announced to the committee on airships that the flying exhibition would take place at two o'clock in the afternoon. This information was immediately conveyed to Mrs. Miranda Squallperson, a widow lady and head of the Fairlee Ladies' sewing assembly. In fifteen minutes everybody in Fairlee and its suburbs had heard all particulars regarding Mr. William F. Higgins' monoplane flight.

Two o'clock arrived at the Fairlee fairgrounds, and on time, and with it arrived two thousand women, men and children. Two thousand tongues echoed and re-echoed the name of William F. Higgins, aviator. Four thousand eyes—except one of 13 glass ones—were on the hangar where Mr. Higgins was working with a pair of pliers, trying to pull off the stopper from a coco cola bottle. Four thousand feet—with 750 bunions, restlessly patted the greenward waiting for the fateful moment.

Finally there was a fanfare of trumpet and at its conclusion William F. Higgins thrummed the monoplane from its hangar to the center of the fair grounds. Dignity and confidence marked his bearing. A prolonged buzz of smothered buzzes steamed from the teeth of the two thousand raptly attentive spectators. These child-like people would have cheered and hurraed and yelled, would have rent the air with various brands of whoopee but for the lofty deportment of William F., which filled them with awe and with a feeling even akin to veneration.

After the two thousand worshippers at the shrine of Mr. Higgins had used up their individual supplies of breath through continuous buzz-applause the aviator stepped onto the running board of the monoplane and waved a mute but graceful "I thank you one and all" to the multitude.

Among these one fair, beautiful face gazed upon that of William with tender yet anxious solicitude. Sympathetic friends nearby adjured her to be calm but vain were their adjurements. More and more agitated grew the fair one. Convulsive tremors swayed the willow-like form; the whiteness of falling snow o'erspread the Diana-like features. "Evidently," said one sympathetic meeting between them. "For there's something between them." "For certain, Lizzie" replied the other gazelle. "It's most possible; for her friend, Mr. Higgins, is a real handsome fellow." Whether any grain of truth lay behind these suppositions it is difficult to determine; certain it is, however, that the fair young creature was visibly agitated at the time of the preparations of Billy. Possibly, though, this may have been brought on by her eating cucumbers and shrimps for luncheon, which would undoubtedly give her the stomach-ache.

But we must not forget the intrepid aviator. That gentleman, after waving the gracious acknowledgment to the multitude, put his feet into the stirrups of his airy steed, and lighted a Turkish Trophy. All was ready for the ascension when the proceedings were halted by the arrival of Lowell boys to bid the daring aviator "Bon voyage."

These expressions of good will were delivered in an unusually sober manner, in fact in a tone of voice charged with that quality generally heard at a wake. But this by no means depressed the spirits of the dauntless birdman, for on his "honk," "honking" the horn and pulling the lever, he calmly drew a fast drag from the Turkish Trophy and then flicked the butt in the direction of one of the nearby village cutups. And so he left the earth.

The "mono" glided into the atmosphere with swanlike grace. Perfect control was immediately noticeable. One hundred feet it rose; two hundred; three hundred; four hundred. At that stage, so it was afterward learned from Mr. Higgins, the yeast cakes in its thingamagig compartment became softened by the heat—so the "mono" stopped rising. However, it circled about, gliding from the east to the west like a dove, and from the south to the north like a sparrow. A half burnt match that fluttered to earth muley told a tale—the intrepid aviator was having another drag. Suddenly the "mono" shot through space with the speed of Mercury. The cause was soon noticed. Billy was pursuing a philoos bird. But the chase was a stern one. For several miles the hand-made bird sped after the nature-made one. Slowly but surely it was overhauling its prey. Another mile was covered and then W. F. could be faintly discerned hitting the huge bird over the head with the butt of a Blackstone. Enraged, the philoos bird swooped at the machine. All was over. The powerful propeller ground it into friessae. Emerging from this conflict with flying colors, Billy headed the monoplane back to the fair grounds zone, where on arriving over the heads of the multitude he varied the entertainment by going through a Turkey Trot. The intricate evolutions of this classic dance were carried out with the grace and precision of a professional danseuse. Then the machine dropped to within twenty feet of the ground, where it skipped around elm trees, telephone poles and other projections in a truly amazing manner. It seemed to be playing "You're it" all by its lonesome. After these cavortings it rose about a hundred feet and turned flip-flops, double somersaults and other aerial flutins until it had the multitude cross-eyed looking at it. All this, of course, was hot work, and, as ill luck would happen, the only liquid muley on board was gasoline. Not caring to wet his whistle with this beverage, yet wishing for a glass of something cool, like buttermilk, he decided to end the fight. So, with a warning "Honk, honk," he sailed gracefully through the atmosphere for a minute or two—and then, like a wild duck sliding onto a pool, Billy and his "mono" glided back to earth.

Immediately the ship was surrounded by dense masses of people, each and every one fighting for a chance to grasp the hand of the dare-devil navigator. Indeed, some of the fairer members of the throng vowed they would not be content with such a tame, matter-of-fact form of salutation. Be as it may, these village beauties were doomed to disappointment, for, after blushingly acknowledging the salutations of a dozen or so of the men folks on the throng, William F. begged to be excused and hurried away to the privacy of the hangar. There he was joined by Captain Lucas, John J. Reagan, Patrick Kelley, E. A. McQuade, Michael F. Gookin, Andrew L. Pendergast and Maurice O'Donnell, who, one and all, drank a glass of cider to the Dauntless Navigator of the Fairlee Air Region.

Mr. Higgins has agreed to attempt to establish a track record at the auto races at Burlington next week. He will be paced by his manager, Horndale Gervais, and he is confident he will make fast time.

HEALTH DEPARTMENT REVOKES PERMIT

To Show the Death Chair Victims

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—The health department yesterday revoked the permit issued by Dr. Alonso Blauvelt, sanitary superintendent for Manhattan, to Latone & Guidetti, the Italian undertakers at 238 Mulberry street, which allowed them to keep in their shop for public exhibition until next Saturday the bodies of the five young Italians put to death in the electric chair early on Monday morning for the murder last November of Mrs. Mary Hall in Westchester county.

At the health department offices and at Sing Sing prison it was said yesterday that the officials concerned had no notion until they read yesterday that Latone & Guidetti were displaying the bodies for advertising purposes. Dr. Walter C. Bensen sent Dr. Blauvelt to the undertaking shop to investigate and then summoned Paul Guidetti, the youthful member of the undertaking firm, to the health department.

"Dr. Blauvelt, sanitary superintendent for Manhattan," said Dr. Bensen yesterday that the state prison department, sanitary superintendent of the greater city, revoked it. I told the undertakers that if they do not bury the bodies by tomorrow morning they will be liable to imprisonment of from six months to a year or a fine of $500 and imprisonment. And if they don't bury them by tomorrow my department will go to the shop and bury them."

Shortly after word came from Albany yesterday that the state prison department had begun an investigation of the manner in which Latone & Guidetti had obtained the bodies from the Sing Sing authorities it was announced to inquirers at Sing Sing that Warden Kennedy had "just been called up on the state." Undertaker Paul Guidetti told a reporter yesterday that he had obtained the bodies without trouble at Sing Sing upon presenting five printed slips of which only the slip asking for the body of Salvatore Di Marco contained the signature—really a cross mark signed by Di Marco's brother, who cannot write—of a relative of the dead.

"Guidetti came here with five slips all signed by relatives," said a Sing Sing official yesterday who spoke for the manner in which Latone & Guidetti had obtained the bodies from the Sing Sing authorities it was announced to inquirers at Sing Sing that Warden Kennedy had "just been called up on the state."

Undertaker Paul Guidetti told a reporter yesterday that he had obtained the bodies without trouble at Sing Sing upon presenting five printed slips of which only the slip asking for the body of Salvatore Di Marco contained the signature—really a cross mark signed by Di Marco's brother, who cannot write—of a relative of the dead.

"I told the Sing Sing people, plainly," said Paul Guidetti while long lines of persons were filing past the bodies yesterday afternoon and clicking coins upon the trays resting upon the coffins in which the five had just been placed, "that only Di Marco had relatives in this country and the other slips were signed by friends." That Dr. Bensen interfered with us. We won't have a chance to raise much money now and so we have to cut out the brass band we were going to have at the funeral. Why didn't Dr. Bensen or Dr. Blauvelt interfere with another Italian undertaker on the East Side who had a "Black Hand" murder man on exhibition in his store for twelve days? I told Dr. Bensen about that. The undertaker stopped the exhibition a few days ago and then shipped the body to Italy."

When Dr. Bensen's attention was called to the twelve day exhibition at another shop he said he had been told of it by Guidetti but that he had not taken down the name of the undertaker. If the story is verified, he said, he would prosecute the undertaking firm.

Police men from the Mulberry street station had to work all day in front of Latone & Guidetti's shop yesterday to help out the undertakers in their advertising scheme by keeping in some semblance or orderliness the men, women and little children who were pressing toward the door from early morning until late at night to see the five dead murderers. The doors were closed in the afternoon for a short time while the bodies were being placed in coffins of oak and while the line waited the crowd swelled so that it blocked the street.

Paul Guidetti says the practice of publicly displaying bodies of men and women whose manner of death caused publicity is common among East Side undertakers in need of advertisement. Guidetti said last night that he would obey orders and bury the five men today.

WOMAN IS HELD ON FORGERY CHARGE

She Has Been Committed to Tombs

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Miss Rosa Zindel, once a $12,000 a year factory manager, then president of the concern where she was once an employee, and now a bankrupt, was arrested yesterday afternoon and put in the Tombs prison on a charge of forgery.

Her arrest followed an indictment in which it is alleged that Miss Zindel forged the name of E. & R. Quinn, Philadelphia manufacturers, to a note for $3795.36 and borrowed money on the note from the Century bank.

Miss Zindel, the head of the Zindel Manufacturing Company, shell goods makers of 373 Fourth avenue, was arrested in her rooms at the Schermerhorn apartments, Madison avenue and Eighty-second street.

Despite Miss Zindel's appeal that she was ill the arrest was made, but her physician was called in before the woman was taken away. It was too late to get bail when she reached the prison.

On Aug. 7 last petitions in bankruptcy were filed against the Zindel Manufacturing Company and against Miss Zindel by creditors who alleged that she had obtained loans from banks and individuals on notes to the extent of $30,000, part of which she must have known were bad. She was to have appeared before United States Commissioner Gilchrist in bankruptcy proceedings Tuesday, but sent a certificate from her doctor saying that she was too ill to come.

Yesterday the case was up again and she was still too much indisposed, her physician certified, to appear. A judgment by default was taken yesterday.

The note which Miss Zindel is alleged to have forged was presented to the Century bank on April 11, 1912, and when it was not paid on its maturity in August inquiry was made. E. & R. Quinn denied the signature and the matter was taken before the grand jury. It is charged that in April Miss Zindel informed the bank that her assets amounted to $230,000 and her liabilities were $16,500, although she was indebted to various banks for more than $60,000 at that time. Miss Zindel has been identified with the business of which she became the head since 1877, when she was first employed there, and on the death of the owner bought the concern, which was incorporated as the Zindel Manufacturing Company, in 1906. She recently moved the business uptown and leased the entire building at 373 Fourth avenue.

Miss Zindel said, when the bankruptcy proceedings were first brought that the drain of fitting out and renting a building and exorbitant sums charged by money lenders put her in financial straits.

THE TRIP TO CALIFORNIA UNDER SPECIAL CARE

"You feel like sorting out and tying together the memories of this trip and keeping them separate from all other trips." A woman recently said this after a pleasant experience on a Burlington Route Through Tourist Car excursion party to California. She traveled alone, but met many agreeable people on the car, which was in charge of a special conductor. This good natured official was a well-informed, courteous man who went all the way through with the party, looking after everyone's comfort and attending to all the little details of the trip. Thus a woman or child in one of these parties can travel with perfect safety and freedom from care. If you would like to know more about the Burlington's comfortable and inexpensive personally conducted excursions, please write me a postal and I'll send you maps, booklets, pictures, etc. by return mail. Cannot Call Witnesses to Prove Innocence

SEOUL, Corea, Aug. 15.—In the trial of more than a hundred Christians who are charged with conspiracy against the life of Governor-General Terauchi the judges brought charges against numerous missionaries, refusing, however, to allow the latter to call witnesses or take any other means of clearing themselves.

Counsel for the defence then impeached the judges and demanded a new trial, maintaining that the present trial was merely a farce. The supreme court yesterday refused the application of the defence and the trial will be resumed Aug. 23.

NON SUPPORT CASES HEARD IN THE POLICE COURT TODAY

Man Admitted He Struck His Wife and Was Sentenced to Four Months in Jail

Narcisse Benoit, charged with neglecting to support his wife from January 1st, 1912 to August 14th, 1912, was among those who were tried before Judge Enright in the police court this morning.

Mrs. Benoit took the stand and testified that the couple have been married for thirty-one years and that since the first of January Benoit had neglected to provide for her support. She stated further that she is employed in the mills and in this way made a living for herself and her little girl. The woman showed the marks on her face and neck which she alleged were caused by her husband striking her with a chair. She related several occasions on which she was cruelly beaten by the man. Benoit admitted striking his wife, but said that drink had got him out of his head and that he did not know what he was doing. His kidneys were out of work, he said, and he was too weak to work. He admitted drinking a great deal and when asked what he drank replied, "anything I can get." He admitted striking his wife on these occasions. He also admitted that he had not given his wife a cent for a year. Benoit was found guilty and was sentenced to serve four months in jail.

Two Other Cases

There were two other cases of non-support. Simon Templeton charged with neglecting to provide for his wife pleaded guilty and was sentenced to four months in jail. The sentence, however, was suspended and he was placed in the care of the probation officer, James P. Campbell, charged with neglecting to support his wife from May first to August 14, was ordered by the court to pay the probation officer seven dollars a week which will go to his wife. The couple have a child about five or six years old and with the latter taking care of them by the hand, they left the court room.

Assault and Battery

Alexander Fawcett appeared before Judge Enright, and pleaded not guilty to the charge of assault and battery, the victim being David Gerrior. Fawcett was allowed to go on his own personal recognizance, and his case will be tried tomorrow morning. Bertrand Antonio, charged with bringing two charges and the second assaulting a police officer on the 14th of this month. He was held in $100 for the first charge and $200 for the other, and his case will come before the police court tomorrow morning.

Alfred E. Clark and Mary K. McGinn were sentenced to serve six months in jail for alleged illegal cohabitation.

The following appeared before the court, charged with drunkenness on August 13, was fined $5. John Michlin, who was arrested for disturbing the whole neighborhood, shouting, singing, etc., was sentenced to two months in jail. He had previously been placed on probation for a similar offense.

Effective, Economical Complexion Beautifier

(Julia Orr in The Clubwoman)

One reason I so strongly recommend mercerized wax is that it really takes the place of several different cosmetics, saving time and money. It is better than any cleansing cream, better than any massage cream, and better than any rouge, for accomplishing the results for which such articles are used. As the wax actually absorbs an old, faded or discolored article, a little each day, the underlying skin which gradually becomes clearer, softer, healthier and more youthful than any cosmetic made complexion. Spreading on a thin coat of mercerized wax, and using it off mercerized, in a week or so produces a marvelous transformation. Just one ounce of mercerized wax, obtainable at any drugstore, will do the work. There is nothing better to remove freckles, tan, sallowness, blotches, pimples or blemishes. For wrinkles and other saggy skin, I invariably recommend a face bath made by dissolving 1 ounce powdered cerate in 1 pint witch hazel. This has remarkable skin softening and toning properties.

THE NASHUA FAIR

The announcement of officials of the New Hampshire Fair association, that the second annual state fair would be held in Nashua, beginning Labor day, September 2, and continue for three days following, is accompanied by much activity and present indications are that the fair will surpass that of last year when more than 10,000 people attended on one day alone.

Such is being done on the spacious grounds, with its large exhibition halls, its mammoth grandstand and outdoor stage, its accommodations for thousands of horses, cattle, poultry and livestock and its fast half-mile track. Carpenters and laborers are at work everywhere about the grounds, and the management is sparing neither time nor money in attending to the requisites for the fair, which they propose to hold on a bigger and grander scale.

Attractions that will be new to attendants of agricultural fairs and cat shows are being contracted for. There will be the usual daily track events, the big midway, interesting exhibits, the outdoor shows and it is safe to say that one of the world's best aviators will fly.

BROOKLINE WOMAN

WAS BARRED

BOSTON, Aug. 15.—Learning that her pet dog would not be allowed to land in England owing to the strict regulations there regarding the admission of dogs from America, Miss Clara Chamberlain of Brookline, canceled her booking by the steamship Olympic of the White Star line, sailing for Liverpool last Tuesday. She will sail for Italy instead, leaving by the liner Canopic this noon.

Miss Chamberlain, it is believed, had in mind to make a more or less extended tour of Europe, including some time spent in the British Isles. But she refused to leave her pet behind and changed her route, deciding to visit Great Britain entirely. The laws of Italy are not so severe with dogs as those of England, and without doubt that of Miss Chamberlain will be allowed immediate entry.

BITTEN BY DOG

LYNN GIRL WAS TRYING TO SAVE PLAYMATES

LYNN, Aug. 15.—In an attempt to save her chum from the murderous attack of a dog believed to have rabies, a little 7-year-old Angelina Belotti of 15 Suffolk street received a dangerous wound from the infuriated animal yesterday afternoon.

The two children, Grace Siskhan, 8, of 13 Suffolk street, and the little girl, were playing in the yard of the house at 30 Suffolk street. Grace was riding a velocipede around the yard for the admiration of her little playmates. Suddenly a dog rushed into the yard and seized the boy by his right wrist, pulled him from the machine.

Throwing the boy to the ground, the animal started to worry him. The little girl, seeing the plight of her chum, rushed up and tried to drive the dog away. She kicked him, and the maddened beast turned and sank his teeth in her side, just under the heart. Men who were in the yard at the time drove the dog under a piazza and called Dr. Martin, who cauterized the wounds and ordered the dog quarantined for examination. If hydrophobia does not set in the brave little girl stands a good chance of recovery.

ATTACK ON ROOSEVELT MADE BY REP. STANLEY

Perkins Also Given Attention— Some of His Characterizations Were Extremely Bitter

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—The personal and political relations of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt and George W. Perkins, formerly of J. P. Morgan & Co., were bitterly attacked on the floor of the house today by Representative A. O. Stanley of Kentucky, who is chairman of the steel trust investigation committee. In a speech supporting his bill to make the reports of the commissioner of corporations available for congress, Representative Stanley charged that Perkins had protected the Harvester Trust from government prosecution, and described Perkins as the "Go-between" of "big business" and the government.

Representative Stanley's characterizations of the former Morgan associate were extremely bitter. He dealt at length on the absorption of the Tennessee Coal & Iron Company by the United States Steel Corporation and charged that Perkins had been able to secure for Herbert Knox Smith, former commissioner of corporations, information which was denied congress. The new progressive party came in for an extended discussion at the hands of Stanley.

"I hear that this new party of progressive capitalism," he said, "will sing hymns to the virtues of Roosevelt and the plottings of Perkins; and that they paraphrase the war cry of the Mussolman and adopt with slight modification, as the battle hymn of the 'Faithful from Wall Street,' the chant of the Turkish Genocides: 'Allah! Allah! Mammoun is Allah!'"

"There is no God but Mammoun and Morgan is his prophet."

In his attack on Perkins, Mr. Stanley said:

"For several years the chief intermediary between big business and those who were invested by the executive department with the duty of investigating it has been a gentleman by the name of George W. Perkins. For years this fanatically ardent partisan has broken through all restraints which deter better men, and has unhesitatingly sacrificed every other obligation to society and to himself in the secret service of his party. In 1904, Mr. Perkins, in his eagerness to aid his party and his hero, Mr. Roosevelt, actually donated $50,000 of the people's money to the good cause. He gave his personal check to Mr. Blise and was reimbursed by check of the New York Life Insurance Company—No. 7233—payable to J. P. Morgan & Co. The proceeds of this check were traced to Mr. Perkins and for this eminent service he was arrested under a warrant charging him with grand larceny."

"Perkins knew the consent of the policyholders was necessary to save this appropriation of their funds from the guilt of common larceny and that consent was not and could not have been obtained."

"Who were these pilfered policyholders? The most pathetic and helpless figures in all this vale of tears. The young mother wept in the black habitations of woe, prostrate upon the new made grave of her once loving lord, orphaned waiting the name of father above the silent dead. He robbed the widow of her slender patrimony and snatched the last crumb from the pinched fingers of helpless childhood. In all the loathsome annals of greed and graft there is nothing so sordid and pitiless as the creatures who did it."

"This man escaped a prison cell by the skin of his teeth, for having picked the pockets of a shroud for the use and benefit of the republican party."

Representative Stanley declared that later Mr. Perkins came to Washington as "envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary from J. P. Morgan & Co., the Harvester and Steel trusts."

Wanted an Investigation

After reciting that Senator Hansborough was at that time demanding an investigation of the International Harvester Co., Stanley said:

"It was to stay the department of justice and to silence the demands of Senator Hansborough and to solicit the aid of the commissioner of corporations and of the president of the United States that Mr. Perkins made his unheralded appearance in the city of Washington. Here he remained for weeks, oscillating between the department of commerce and labor and the White House with a familiarity of a friend and the insolence of an ally. Upon the commissioner of corporations he exhausted all his powers of cajoling and coaxing. He reminded him of his great services and unique liberality to the party and the precious and long-standing friendship which had been so beneficial to the house of J. P. Morgan & Co. and to the administration of Roosevelt."

So impressed was the commissioner of corporations with the necessity of suppressing the Harvester investigation and preventing any further procedure against the other far reaching Morgan interests that he forgot the seal which the law had placed upon his lips. Facts which were withheld from the highest law making body of the land were freely revealed to the superstitious emissary of the steel and harvester trusts."

Scores Roosevelt

Reviewing the information as to the absorption of the Tennessee Coal & Iron company, by the steel corporation, secured by the Stanley Steel investigating committee, Mr. Stanley said:

"The severest critic of Colonel Roosevelt can hardly conceive that he would in twenty minutes have commissioned the steel corporation to crush its most competitor had he possessed one-tenth of the information which the commissioner of corporations was afterwards forced by the investigations of this committee and the pressure of public opinion to publish to the world. As suggested by the commissioner of corporations, the investigation of the Harvester Trust was summarily stopped."

"The assurances of Mr. Perkins that the far reaching influences of the Morgan company, the Harvester and Steel trusts were not to be sneezed at appears to have had great weight with the chief executive."

"On this occasion," concluded Mr. Stanley, "the colonel assumed the same relative position toward the masters from Wall Street that the Lord assumed toward the devil. The Saviour said 'Get thee behind me, Satan' and Roosevelt said 'I will stand in front of you, O steel trust, I will paralyze the strong arm of steel, and I will deliver the voice of bound and helpless, the industrial dominance of the south, and for that service worth multiplied millions to the United States Steel corporation, it has not been lacking in gratitude for the day of the merger until this good hour. Perkins and Gary, brothers of the steel corporation, have been absolutely at the command of the ex-president of the United States."

"They were with him in the old party and they have staged and supported this political 'punch and Judy' performance lately pulled off in Chicago in which they fantastically caricatured Roosevelt, McCormick and their exits and entrances and take their cue from this insolent combination of political and financial high-binders which did not hesitate to rob a grave for the campaign fund in 1904 and which is now entrusted with the duty of providing provender for the 'bull moose.'"

SUFFRAGISTS PELTED AT POLICE PICNIC

DAYTON, Ohio, Aug. 15.—Dayton policemen and firemen on their annual outing mobbed five women suffragists who attempted to talk to them on the question of votes for women.

Miss Margaret Foley of Boston mounted a table and was in full swing with a suffrage argument when a loaf of bread knocked off her hat. But that was not enough to dampen her ardor. She talked on. Finally banana skins, chicken bones, lemon rinds and other refuse from the table came in a regular torrent and she retired.

Safety Director Dodds said he would look into the case to find out where the trouble started.

MISS ADDAMS

MAY BE MEMBER OF PROGRESSIVE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—One of the results of the two days' conference at Oyster Bay between Col. Roosevelt, Senator Dixon and George W. Perkins is the probable selection of Miss Jane Addams as a member of the executive committee of which Mr. Perkins is chairman. This committee will have nine members and will virtually run the progressive campaign. Miss Addams is expected to take charge of the women's movement for the progressive party throughout the country and will have headquarters here.

WIDOW CONTESTS WILL

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—A contest of the will of John Krell, who died on June 11 leaving an estate of over $50,000, was filed yesterday by Mrs. Helen Miller Krell, the widow, of 205 West Eighth-third street, alleging fraud and undue influence. Krell cut his wife off with $100 for the reason that during her married life she was wasteful and extravagant and brought upon me much unnecessary suffering.

HELD IN $7000

BOSTON, Aug. 15.—Charged with conspiring to bring English mill operatives into this country in violation of the contract labor law, Francis W. Willey and Arthur T. Willey and Saville waived examination and were held in $7000 bonds each for the September term of the United States district court. Both furnished bail.

INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—The bill creating a commission on industrial relations to investigate labor conditions and the relations of employers and employees passed the senate today with practically no debate. It has passed the house.

In outlining the duties of the commission the bill says:

"The commission shall seek to discover the underlying causes of dissatisfaction in the industrial situation and report its conclusions thereon."

The measure appropriates $100,000 for the first year's expenses of the commission and provides for a report at the end of two years. The president will appoint its nine members.

CHICAGO MUSICIANS MAY QUIT

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—Joseph P. Winiker, president of the Chicago Federation of Musicians, threatened today to tie up half of the theatres in the downtown district as a result of the breach between the theatre managers and the union. He threatened the number of men to be employed.

The scale calls for a minimum of 11 men and unless it is lived up to the head of the musicians' organization asserts he will precipitate a strike that will include stage hands, electricians and bill posters. The auditorium, where grand opera is given, is involved.

TO CALL OFF STRIKE

NEW BEDFORD, Aug. 15.—As a result of a conference between W. H. Langshaw, president of the Dartmouth mill and a committee of his fixers, the fixers' strike against that mill is to be declared off. Former action by the union has not been taken but assurances that the union will call the strike off are given. The ending of the Dartmouth loomfixers' strike simplifies the strike situation in this city, eliminating as it has one of the causes of difference which caused the closing of the Dartmouth mill. The general weavers' strike still continues, however, and accordingly the mill will not be opened immediately. Mr. Langshaw has accepted to his fixers on most of their complaints.

SMITH WAS DEFEATED BY "PORKY" FLYNN

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—By skillful maneuvering for ten rounds, Daniel "Porky" Flynn of Boston set back Gunboat Smith a step in his progress to the heavyweight crown, in their bout at the St. Nicholas A. C. last night.

Flynn showed the way in the first, third, fourth, seventh and eighth rounds, while Smith showed to advantage in the second, fifth and sixth rounds.

The other two rounds were a toss-up. Smith was entirely too wild for the experienced Hub heavyweight. Gunboat failed to land a broadside of blows even once during the bout. His best work was confined to landing a stunning blow every other round or so.

In the sixth Smith knocked his clever antagonist into a sitting posture with a long right swing. It was the first time Flynn connected with this wallop. Flynn was ready for action again after taking a count of seven.

This was the only time Flynn was in imminent danger. Flynn's jaw collided with a snappy right in the tenth, but the visiting boxer came right back at his man and evened accounts by ramming a left to the stomach and a right uppercut to the jaw. Flynn fought in masterly fashion.

He judged Smith's blows to the second and timed his own wallops perfectly. Flynn fought deliberately all the time and never was confused, as was Smith whenever Gunboat failed to land.

"Rough Robert" Fitzsimmons was accorded a tremendous ovation when he was introduced. Fitz says he is still the undefeated middleweight and light heavyweight champion, and you would believe it if Fitz said he was ready to defend these titles. He also mentioned the fact that he would like to battle Thomas Sharkey, who is thinking seriously of "coming back."

Willie Beecher forced his way to a victory over Frank Picato in the second ten-round bout. Beecher's aggressiveness and constant punching more than discounted Picato's clean wallops. Picato did little fighting in the first half of the bout, and only in the eighth and ninth rounds did he hold the master hand. Picato's right eye was completely closed at the end of the bout.

Joe Stein, the Harlem lad, and Young McCartney, the Philadelphia floundered through ten rounds in the opening bout, with the honors going to Stein, although McCartney made a grandstand finish. Stein pulled up such an enormous lead in the first seven rounds that McCartney's good work in the last three rounds failed to overcome the advantage.

Stein landed four blows to McCartney's one in the first seven rounds and became arm weary from his own exertion. McCartney closed strong and Stein had all he could do to get away from the visitor's southpaw slams.

JACK JOHNSON

SIGNS TO BOX JOE JEANETTE IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Jack Johnson and Joe Jeanette, the two foremost heavyweights of the present time, will box ten rounds before the St. Nicholas A. C. of this city on the evening of September 25.

Final arrangements for the meeting of the dusky gladiators were completed in Chicago yesterday afternoon, by Jesse McMahon, one of the promoters of the St. Nicholas A. C. McMahon guarantees the champion, Jack Johnson, $25,000, with a privilege of 50 per cent. of the first $50,000 of the receipts, and 35 per cent. of all over that amount. Johnson was further granted half of the moving picture earnings.

Both Johnson and McMahon have posted forfeits with Al Tarnsey of Chicago. No referee has been named as yet, though McMahon favors Dan Toner, the club's official.

That Johnson was insincere in his announced retirement a short time ago was proven by the alacrity with which he accepted McMahon's offer when the figures assumed satisfactory proportions. Johnson seems to have driven a pretty good bargain, at that. If in any sort of shape, the heavyweight champion is not likely to seriously jeopardize his crown in a ten-round tilt.

McMahon, for the St. Nicholas A. C., has succeeded where others failed. A few days ago Johnson was offered $20,000 to meet Jeanette in this city, but Earl Arthur would listen to nothing under $25,000. McMahon went to Chicago with Jeanette already signed up. As soon as he met Johnson's terms the match was on.

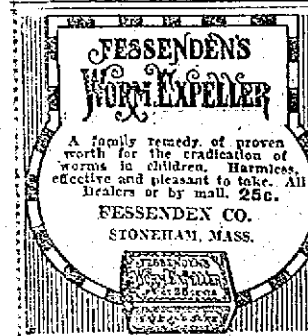

INTENT ON SUICIDE

NEPHEW OF FORMER MAYOR IS STAVING TO DEATH

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Selah B. Whitney, son of Dr. D. B. Whitney of East Norwich, L. I. who was a brother of former Mayor Daniel D. Whitney of Brooklyn, is practically committing suicide by starvation, after failing in an attempt to end his life by taking poison. It is expected Whitney will succeed in ending his life if he persists a day or two longer in his refusal to take nourishment.

Whitney, who is 53 years old, is dying at the home of Mrs. Esther Smith, in East Norwich, where he has boarded for many years. For the past forty years he has been totally blind, having lost his sight in a railroad accident. Up to a short time ago he has always seemed cheerful.

On Monday night Mrs. Smith heard him moving about in his room. At day-break, however, the room was empty. Whitney was found in a clump of bushes in the garden, groaning with pain. He had swallowed a large dose of chloral.

ACROSS FROM CITY HALL

BLACK HAND AGENT WAS ROUTED BY MAN WHO SAT IN WAIT

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Despite the fact that Vincenzo Valentine, lot it be known to the "black hand," that they would meet with a warm reception if they attempted to carry out their threat to place a bomb under his home, at 321 East One Hundred and Fourteenth street, a man, presumably a member of the extorting band, sought to test Valentine's assertion. As a result he met a volley of shots which sent him back to his companions with the declaration that Valentine "meant business."

As was told Tuesday, the Valentine home resembles a frontier blockhouse. Behind the closed shutters during every minute of the day there is an armed member of the household. At night the guard is doubled.

Everything went along peacefully until early yesterday morning, when one of the guards saw a man acting suspiciously across the street. A watchful eye was kept on the stranger. Presently he sought to enter the house. Four shots were fired at him. None of them hit their mark, but they served their purpose.

BULLET IN BRAIN GIRL OF NINE YEARS FOUND DEAD

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Josephine Nagel, nine years old, was found yesterday afternoon dead in her yard at 349 Linden street, Williamsburg. The child was thought to have fallen from the fire escape of her home. No one heard her cries. Dr. Jaeger was called from the German hospital.

An examination showed that, instead of a fall, Josephine's death was due to a bullet that had lodged in her brain. Detective Woodie of the Hamburg street station went with the doctor and searched the little girl's house. In the yard they found a target with several bullets identical to the one taken from the child's head. They discovered that her brother George, aged 12, had a rifle and had been shooting in the afternoon. Since the death of the girl George had not been seen.

EMERGENCY RATIONS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Alaska has not yet recovered from the effects of the volcanic eruption of Mount Katmai in June and the federal government will be obliged to furnish emergency rations and supplies to many people for some time to come. The people of Kodiak need the quickest aid. Their vegetable crops were ruined. Secretary MacVeagh has ordered tons of potatoes from Seattle to prevent scurvy breaking out among the inhabitants.

MAN TOO TALL TO GET INTO CELL IN MELROSE JAIL

MELROSE, Aug. 15.—The tallest man ever arrested in Melrose was locked up last night in the police station. So tall is he that the cot or even the cell itself is not long enough for him, and as he lies there his feet stick out through the grating in the cell door.

The man's name is Fred B. Pratt and he gives Lynn as his home. He is 35 years old and 7 feet 2 inches tall. Five years ago he was arrested in Melrose on a charge of drunkenness, but at the time he was allowed to go because he said he had not been arrested before for a year.

Later, however, the Melrose police learned that he had been arrested on the same charge only a few days before, so they got out a warrant and have had their eyes out for him ever since.

SEARCH FOR BRYCE CONDUCTED BY POLICE

He is Accused of Larceny of Funds

WORCESTER, Aug. 15.—The police are searching for John W. L. Bryce of 181 Belmont street, a former bookkeeper in the main bank of the Worcester Trust company. Chief Matthews is authority for the statement that Bryce is wanted on the charge of larceny of a considerable sum of money from the bank.

The search follows the arraignment in the district court yesterday of R. Allen Norton, another former bookkeeper of the company, on a charge of the larceny of $365. This case was placed on file as counsel for the bank and for Norton told the court that Norton was a dupe of Bryce. It was explained that Norton was not guilty of taking the amount alleged, but falsified his accounts so that Bryce got away with the money.

His counsel said that Norton was under obligations to Bryce for small loans. Some time ago Bryce, who had an account in the bank, overdraw his deposits by eight cents. Norton informed him of it and Bryce made that good. It is claimed that Bryce said he did not have that much with him at the time, but promised to bring it in the morning.

Instead of making good he showed Norton how he could manipulate his figures so the shortage would not show through Bryce's account. It is charged that Bryce, once he had Norton in his power, used him to check out a considerable sum of money.

Norton disappeared from Worcester. He was captured in Edgarton on Aug. 4 and brought back to Worcester. The bank officials had been given to understand that Norton was the principal in the case, but an investigation since his return shows them that he was not.

His relatives and friends made good the shortage in his accounts.

Bryce has disappeared and it is reported at his home that he has not been there for several days. The warrant for his arrest was issued at the request of the company that was on his bond. While the bank officials will not say how much is missing through his alleged manipulation, it is reported that the shortage is about $2500.

CASEY AND HORSE KILLED DURING LIGHTNING STORM

Hospital at North Weymouth Caught Fire—Other Damage Caused by the Storm

ATTLEBORO, Aug. 15.—During a heavy thunder shower yesterday afternoon lightning struck a horse and wagon driven by John J. Casey of Plainville, in Scotland, killing both Mr. Casey and the horse.

Mr. Casey and his wife and two children had attended the clam bake at Rehoboth church at Rehoboth and were on their way home when overtaken by the shower. They drove into the yard at the farm of Charles E. Allen, near Baker's corner. All had left the wagon and were about to seek shelter in Mr. Allen's house when there was a terrific crash of thunder. Mr. Casey was struck by the bolt of lightning and fell dead on the ground.

Mr. Allen, Mrs. Casey and the two children, who were standing near, were stunned to a certain extent, though none were hurt. A large tree near the house was struck and the lightning struck the body of Mr. Casey. The victim was about 40 years old. For several years he had conducted an overland express business between the Attleboro and Providence.

HOSPITAL TAKES FIRE—DAMAGE AT NORTH WEYMOUTH ABOUT $2000

WEYMOUTH, Aug. 15.—A severe thunder storm passed over Weymouth between 5 and 6 yesterday afternoon. Lightning shattered a large tree near the high grammar school on Broad street, Weymouth landing, and struck the town hall at East Weymouth, the only damage being the displacement of a few shingles on the roof.

The electricity caused a short circuit of the wires in Weymouth hospital on East street, North Weymouth, and the building took fire.

The roof was burned off and a portion of the attic destroyed. The fire was confined to that portion of the building, which is of two stories. The damage by fire, smoke and water is estimated at about $2000.

The only patient in the hospital was taken to the annex.

STORM HITS DEDHAM—LIGHT- NING STRIKES IN SEVERAL PLACES

DEDHAM, Aug. 15.—A severe thunder storm visited Dedham shortly before 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon and during its two-hour stay caused considerable damage. Lightning struck in several places. It struck a stable on the estate of J. W. Clark, corner of East and Auburn streets, causing damage of $500.

The house of Monty Potter on Wilton avenue was also struck, the bolt entering a kitchen window and ripping out considerable plaster.

A bolt struck the roof of the house occupied by William Murphy at the corner of Highland and Bates streets. It tore the shingles from a bedroom and going down the side of the house knocked off chandeliers, ripped the ceiling on the kitchen door and caused other damage to the kitchen, the total damage being about $200.

A big tree on Washington street near Vine street was also struck. The fire alarm service was put out of commission, as was the electric light service. Many telephones failed to work and car service on the Westwood and East Walpole lines was interrupted.

CHILDREN STUNNED—SHATTERED CHIMNEY PASSED THROUGH ROOM OF HOUSE

QUINCY, Aug. 15.—A short but vicious thunder storm passed over this city about 5 yesterday afternoon. A bolt of lightning struck a small barn on the estate of John Rose, Center street, West Quincy. The blaze was extinguished by a hand chemical from house 4.

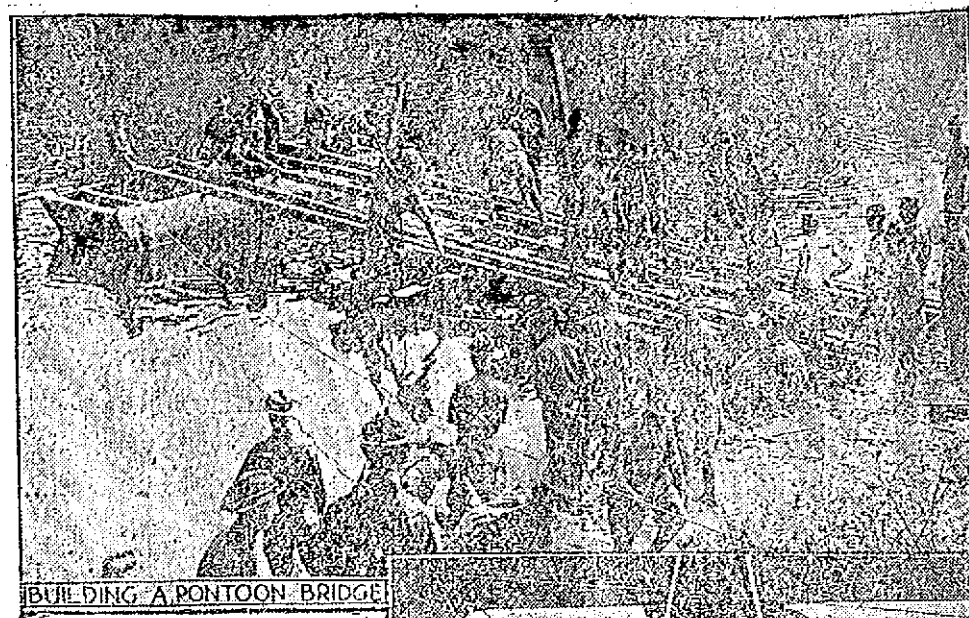

The house of A. N. LaBrecque, Adams shore, was struck, and the chimney was shattered, while a hole was torn through the roof. Nobody was home at the time. Across lots on Albion road a bolt of lightning entered the kitchen of the house of Daniel Worcester. Mrs. Worcester was overcome by the shock.

The chimney of the house of William H. Shaw, Sea avenue, Houghs beach, was shattered. Two little children playing in one of the rooms through which the chimney passed were stunned for a few minutes.

A bolt went into the Tubular River works in Wollaston, where hundreds of young women are employed. The bolt followed a wire in, and burnt out a cone connected with the wire. The girls were greatly frightened, but no one was injured.

The Connecticut War Maneuvers Demonstrate The Value of the U. S. Engineer's Corps

BUILDING A PONTOON BRIDGE

STRATFORD, Conn., Aug. 15.—The work of the army aviation squadron and of the engineers' corps is among the most interesting features of the maneuvers being held in this section. Lieuts. Foulis and Milling, U. S. A., have made a number of flights in the new double control biplane. They carried map making apparatus, and while one operated the machine the other obtained records of the positions and movements of the troops. The military authorities are highly pleased with the results as, absolutely demonstrating the practicability of the aeroplane as a war scout. Why the engineers' branch of the service ranks high was demonstrated in the construction of a light pontoon bridge with which they spanned the Housatonic river, enabling the troops to push across with little delay after the destruction of Zear bridge by the opposing force.

MAN CURED OF PARALYSIS WHILE PRAYING IN CHURCH

At Elevation of the Host the Stricken Man Recovered Use of Limbs

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—For more than three months—ever since he was stricken with paralysis in his office last April—the family of Patrick Jones, superintendent of supplies for the board of education, had offered daily prayers for his recovery.

The devout wife, with her three daughters and two sons, chose as the special recipient of their pleadings the spirit of Saint Rita, "the Saint of the Impossible," to whom the hopeless of many centuries have made supplication.

Even while the condition of the husband and father grew daily grave, even after he had lost the use of his limbs and had to be wheeled about in a chair, the family in devoted faith continued to ask the miracle.

Dr. Strong, of No. 287 West Fifty-second street, attended the patient regularly, but he found no warrant for encouraging the wife and children to hope for his recovery. In fact, all but those nearest and dearest to him believed that Mr. Jones could never be cured.

The Miracle Performed

His own faith remained firm throughout his months of suffering and helplessness. On the first Friday of this month he insisted on attending the mass in the church of St. Rose of Lima, at Rockaway beach. He had to be almost carried into the edifice from his chair after the slow trip from his summer home on Oceanus avenue.

Among his beloved ones, who were on their knees, he sat with bowed head at the elevation of the host. He could not kneel.

The priest slowly lifted the holy wafer of the body of Christ. And in that instant the wife of the sick man felt him lean forward and sink gently to his knees.

A sudden fear seized her and the daughters. But as they saw him slowly bow his head upon his hands, their fear changed to joy that was mingled with awe.

The prayer ended, they moved to lift him to his seat. But to their amazement he raised himself with little effort. At the end of the service, he arose and walked unaided from the church.

Has Steadily Improved

Astonished friends surrounded him and clasped his hand. His happy family made him ride home in the wheel chair, but when he had arrived he insisted on walking about the house. Each day since then he has taken longer and longer walks, and is quite able to go about alone.

Dr. Strong went out Sunday to see his patient more for old friendship's sake than with any hope of aiding him. He nearly fell off the steps of the car at the Holland station, for there, smiling and calling a greeting, was Mr. Jones, who had come down to meet him.

Sister Rita of Cascia in Italy was famed in the middle ages for the miracles said to have been brought about by her intercession—especially, the healing of the stricken.

As a woman, she had taken holy orders after the murder of her husband and the death of her children. She died in the Augustinian convent of Cascia in 1456. It was in Spain that, because of the many miracles recorded in her name, she received the title of La Santa de los Imposibles.

She was canonized on May 21, 1909. And thus the present case becomes unique as representing to the many who believe in the occult intervention of holy power, a modern miracle by a modern saint.

TWYFORD'S SUICIDE

IS SAID TO BE DUE TO GAMBLING LOSSES

PARIS, Aug. 15.—Instructions were received at Aix les Bains yesterday to bury the body of Albert Twyford of New York in the public cemetery there, in a lot purchased by Arnold Cheney & Co. of 21 Mincing lane, London, acting on behalf of friends in America.

Twyford's suicide is now known to have been the result of heavy losses in the Casino. He had been playing and losing heavily for several days, but the crisis came the day King George of Greece paid his first visit to the Casino. The gambling place was crowded with well known Americans, and Twyford, playing more recklessly than usual, lost all he had. He tried to borrow, but failed. Then, in a dazed condition, he wandered off by the banks of the River Allier and put three bullets in his head.

There he was found last Wednesday, brought back to the hospital and placed in the wing built by J. Pierpont Morgan. The best that medical aid could do was done for him, as Americans are very popular in Aix owing to Mr. Morgan's generosity to the Alpine town, but he never recovered consciousness.

He was egged on to play by numerous well dressed women who frequented such places. On the night in question he was an easy victim, as he had dined well.

STANDS BY HUSBAND

WIFE WILLING TO BEAR HER TROUBLES

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—When I married him it was for better or worse. The way things turned out it was for worse, but I believe that I should bear my troubles and hope for the best."

Mrs. Lawrence Pfeiffer, of No. 18 Linden street, Massport, made this statement to Magistrate Leach yesterday in the police court at Flushing, when she was summoned as a witness against her husband, who was accused of shooting and seriously wounding her on May 11. Mrs. Pfeiffer lost the sight of her left eye from the bullet and her jaw is paralyzed. At the present time she is being fed with a tube.

Her husband, who is a printer, walked twenty miles to the Nassau county jail at Mineola to give himself up after the shooting.

After explaining that she did not think her marriage vows would permit her to testify against her husband, she became a reluctant witness, and proceeded to relate her story in a faint whisper, owing to her injuries.

She testified that she was with her husband in the dining room of their home when the shot was fired. But she would not admit that he fired the shot, although on cross-examination she admitted that she saw a revolver in his hand.

The husband was held for the grand jury.

FOOT BROKEN

MAN FIRED AT WOMAN TO SHOW HIS SKILL

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—A man, who was overheard by several women to declare that he could, with a revolver, shoot the heels from the shoes of pedestrians without injuring them, was sought last night by detectives from the East 104th street police station on the charge of having fired a shot from the vestibule of 171 East 99th street, which lodged in the right foot of Miss Rebecca Sussman, 15 years old, of 115 East 108th street.

In the reception hospital, where Miss Sussman was later taken, it was said the bullet was of large calibre and would be extracted with difficulty. It was the opinion of physicians that several bones in the young woman's foot had been broken.

According to the story told by the women, an Italian appeared in the vestibule of the East 99th street tenement a few minutes before Miss Sussman passed on her way home. He flourished, they said, a revolver in the faces of several children, who were playing in the street and laughed heartily when the youngsters, panic-stricken, fled.

OWES BOSTON FIRM

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—Examination of the schedule of liabilities aggregating more than $1,500,000 filed in the United States district court yesterday by Franklin A. Umsted, who listed only $219 in assets, although he sought to organize a $15,000,000 steel company, disclosed that he alleges that he is indebted to the amount of $255,000 to the Union Trust company of Boston.

Umsted sought to combine independent steel companies to fight the United States Steel corporation. His venture was incorporated in 1903 under the laws of Maine. The attempt failed, and memory of it was revived by the filing of the petition for judicial relief from the enormous debt.

BOXING, GOLF
AND ATHLETICSBROCKTON BROKE LOWELL'S
LONG RUN OF VICTORIESGrays Tried New Pitcher With Fatal Result—Wadleigh
Makes 4 Hits

After winning eight straight games, Lowell lost to Brockton yesterday afternoon by the score of six to four, in a game that had a "regular" worked, the result would have undoubtedly been different. The principal offender was Norman Weaver, the new pitcher, who though displaying great speed at pretty good shots, was unable to keep the ball away from the center. Consequently, the Brockton batters banged his disposition around in great style for the five innings that he was on the rubber. In that time the visitors had made nine hits, and piled up five runs. Zeiser was then sent in and in the remaining innings one run was added by the home team. Anderson pitched 5 1-3 innings for the visitors, and until the final inning held Lowell well in check. Then after two long hits had been made off his delivery, he was pulled out and Thompson finished the game. The features of the game were the batting of Wadleigh and McGamwell and the fielding of Dee. The game:

First Inning
Smith singled to Magee, who made a beautiful running catch. Dowd was thrown out. Dee to McGamwell. Barry singled to center field and Howard singled to right field. Boardman hit to Dee, who threw Howard out at second. Clemens went out. Dowd to Barry. Magee was thrown out. Boardman to Barry. De Groff nipped a scratch single and McGamwell closed by flying out to Howard.

Second Inning
Shea went out. Boutles to McGamwell and Sullivan did the same. Wadleigh hit one that was too hot for Weaver to handle and got to first. Anderson hit a grounder to Dee, who tagged second, getting Wadleigh. Miller went out. Boardman to Barry. Boutles was given a pass to first. Dee and Lavigne both were thrown out. Sullivan to Barry.

Third Inning
Smith singled to left field, and went to second on Dowd's sacrifice. McGamwell to Miller. Barry walked. Howard slammed out a three base hit to center field, scoring Smith and Barry. Boardman flied out to De Groff and Howard scored on his sacrifice. Shea struck out.

Fourth Inning
Sullivan flied out to Lavigne, who waded through a puddle of water before catching the ball. Wadleigh singled to left field. Anderson hit a hot one over second and Barry, a sensational stop, touching second and throwing Anderson out at first, for a double. The stop was a beautiful exhibition of classy baseball and Dee received a lusty round of applause.

Fifth Inning
Smith hit a foul fly to Lavigne. Dowd walked. Barry hit out a two-bagger to center field, scoring Dowd. How and was thrown out. Miller to McGamwell and Barry went to third. Boardman then singled to center field and Barry scored. Shea singled to left field and Sullivan fanned.

Sixth Inning
In the first of the sixth, Zeiser went in to replace Weaver in the box. Wadleigh singled to right field. Anderson struck out. Smith hit to Miller, who threw Wadleigh out to Dee. Dowd fanned.

Seventh Inning
Barry drew a pass. Howard went out. McGamwell to Miller and Barry went to second on the sacrifice. Boardman knocked an easy grounder to McGamwell and Barry went to third. Shea singled to right field and Barry scored. Shea ran over second and was cornered and finally thrown out. De Groff to Dee.

Eighth Inning
Sullivan fanned. Wadleigh got a single. Anderson flied out to De Groff. Smith struck out. McGamwell singled to right and Miller got an infield hit. Boutles hit to Dowd who threw Miller out to Sullivan. Dee flied out to Howard and McGamwell scored on the put out. Lavigne walked. Zeiser flied out to Shea.

Ninth Inning
Dowd flied out to Magee. Barry hit a hot one through Zeiser, which

Four Members of the Chicago Cubs Who Are Pushing the Team Pennantward

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—Manager Frank Chance says the Cubs are going to win the National league pennant. The "peerless leader" declares that his team is the strongest on the circuit and is now playing better ball than at any time this season. For the past month the Cubs have been putting up a classy exhibition of ball and are within balling distance of the Giants. Chance says that McGraw's men are showing be in the points for the Lincoln, while Donnelly will twirl for the Bleachers.

The Y. M. C. A. Indians lost a hard fought game to the Beacens by the score of 7 to 5. The Indians want a game for Aug. 17 and 24. Send all challenges to Y. M. C. A.

The Rockdales accept the challenge of the Young All Stars of Pawtucketville, the game to be played on the North common Saturday, Aug. 17, at 2 o'clock for two quarter balls. Reply if date is satisfactory.

The Manhattans will journey to Westford on Saturday, where they will play the strong team representing that town.

The Rangers accept the game with the Tiger A. C. of North Billerica for Saturday, on the latter grounds.

The Salem A. C. would like to play the West Chelmsford Reds Saturday, Aug. 24, for $5 a side to decide which is the better team, the game to be played on the North common. Send challenges to Lawrence Roark, 24 Salem street.

The Buffaloes, formerly the Belvidere A. C., would like to arrange a game with the Ledgers for any sum of money or honor on any good baseball field. The Ledgers are the only team to defeat the Buffaloes. We have not received an answer of our acceptance for Saturday's game with the Y. M. C. A. Indians. Send challenges to F. Shea, 50 Stackpole street.

The Hustlers of Lowell would like games with any 18 or 20 year old team in the city, particularly the Belvidere A. C., O. M. I. Cadets, Grimsens, Cardinals, Tiger A. C. or the Beacments. Send all challenges to Warren White, 45 Hudson street, city.

Beverly will be the attraction at Bunting park Saturday. The team selected to play for the Buntings is: Albert Briggs, captain; S. J. Nichol, T. Shirks, F. Chapman, H. Marsh, J. McKenzie, J. O'Connell, J. Mitchell, I. Shaw, R. Marland, G. Bailey, J. T. Whitaker, reserve; J. H. Mills, umpire; J. W. Foster, scorer. All players are requested to be on the grounds early as game is called at 2.30.

Worcester and New Bedford will play a doubleheader at Boulevard park Saturday, according to an announcement of Business Manager of the Busters John J. O'Donnell. The game is one which the Whalers have owed the home club for some time.

Lynn may have its Logan, Fall River its Bowcock and New Bedford its Frank Connaughton, but when it comes to classy middle sackers, stay around and see Roy Campbell play a game. He makes his errors, but it is because he goes after everything—Beverly Record. And you might take a peep at our middle guardian.

Hickman didn't play in Monday's Fall River-Worcester contest and word comes from Fall River that probably he has figured in his last game for the O'Brien team. This recalls Hicks' recent remark at Ocean park that he would give a lot to be settled in his city as a member of the Lynn club. It looks as though Charles had been playing for his release by Fall River. He hasn't been straining himself in his playing of late, that's sure. Last Saturday he didn't show up at the Fall River grounds at all—Exchange.

Says the Lawrence Telegram: "Joe Briggs is first getting himself disliked by the local baseball fans, and the once popular idol of the bleachers has lost his hold. He has no one but himself to blame for this, his indifferent playing being the cause. Manager Pieper should take summary action to make signs of the strain of battle, and he is playing a grand game at first base. Chance thinks this youngster is one of the best men holding down the position in the parent baseball organization. Johnny Evers is putting up a wonderful all-around game. The Chicago infield on its toes and has done much to keep the Cubs on the heels of the Giants.

Briggs forget his babyish tactics and play ball. His attitude is a detriment to the team, which has a lot to worry it on the outside without being handicapped by Briggs. He is doing more to out the locals from first place than anyone else, but it seems to the writer that if a good still fine were tacked onto him he would be made to realize that he is out there to play ball. Briggs for the past week has been in a terrible batting slump, and when he does not get them safe, there's war in the air. If he does not hit them safe now he positively refuses to run to first base, and this was the cause of allowing Haverhill to make an easy double play yesterday and cheat the home team of a possible run. But Briggs didn't care for that apparently. The individual record of Joe Briggs is more to him than the standing of the Lawrence team in the race. Briggs is in all probability getting as much money as any player on the local team this year, but he is not earning half of what he is getting. During a game he comes to bat on an average of four times. This is four times a day, and it seems as if his "exercise" off the field could not hurt him to such an extent that he could not run to first base a distance of 90 feet, at least four times each day."

Regarding Sim Murch's fielding average of .960, the Haverhill Record remarks that it's pretty good for a "hot corner" guardian.

"Swatt" DeGroff doubled, tripled and "home-runned" or "home-ran" off Pruitt of New Bedford, Monday, but he didn't have much on Halsteln, who peeled off a two-bagger and a three-spot—Lynn Item.

South American Rubber Vulcanized With Human Blood, Report Says

Story of the Sufferings of the People in That Part of the Country

Pick up a rubber eraser, a fountain pen, a telephone receiver—anything, in fact, that is made of rubber. Examine it closely. Is it an innocent article of everyday use, or is it stained and soaked with human blood? Not your own or that of any member of your family, but the blood of some poor native of South America or the Congo, wantonly spilled in the business of supplying to the world its indispensable rubber.

Again civilization reads with horror well authenticated stories of rubber gatherers maimed and murdered, tortured and torn, by those who exploit their labor. Not this time in the Congo, the African hinterland of hideous atrocities a few years ago. This time the call of the bloodshed for the sake of rubber comes from the South American backwoods, from the unexplored regions which are so wild that even in recent times they are marked with no towns or villages or rivers, but simply as wide spaces, lettered "vast forests." That is, all that is known to the geographers of the headwaters of the Amazon, in Peru and Brazil and Bolivia, South America. Only the rubber gatherer and his employer know those dark countries. But light is beginning to filter in from the torch of civilization as the nations, led by the United States, investigate the terrible tales of slaughter and torture.

American Government Investigating

The American government has sent to the scene of its close the scene as he can penetrate. Stuart J. Fuller, a special agent. Recent dispatches announced his arrival at Iquitos, the head of deep water navigation on the Amazon, and his purpose to establish a base there and proceed up the river to the Putumayo valley, where it is alleged, the atrocities have taken place. Mr. Fuller is not expected to make an original investigation, for the state department in Washington has accepted the British report as quite sufficient to establish the facts. The Peruvian government having undertaken to bring to justice the guilty persons, Mr. Fuller is charged with the duty of seeing that its promise is redeemed and that the awful conditions in the rubber country are ended. It is said, however, that the Peruvian government's investigation will not be able to report before January.

Peruvians of high standing, including Senator Pardo, minister to the United States, assert that the stories of rubber horrors are old and that the government of the South American country has remedied most of the conditions of which complaint has been made. But the foreign investigators, at the head of whom stands Sir Roger Casement, British consul general at Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, deny this and declare that no really serious efforts are being made to prosecute the persons responsible for the atrocities in the Putumayo region.

Political Corruption Charged

Sir Roger reported to his government a few months ago that the officials charged with the judicial investigation of the matter, although in possession of conclusive and sufficient evidence against well known rubber gatherers, have been forced to drop action by corrupt local influence and the entire case threatens to terminate in the great discredit of Peru with perfunctory punishment of a few underlings detained at Iquitos, while those responsible for the iniquitous system are seen daily on the streets and remain unpunished.

Nothing else that the world has ever heard exceeds in horror the tales of torture and murder perpetrated on the South American natives by the rubber concessionaires and their henchmen. These latter are, for the most part, South Americans of Spanish or mixed Spanish and Indian descent. But the company accused of the worst offenses—it is now in liquidation—is a British company, with British directors. Therein is to be found the explanation of the British activity in the matter.

Thousands of Natives Murdered

The torturers and murderers of natives have hired natives of Barbados, in the British West Indies, to assist them in their horrid work. In some cases the British negroes have been victims as well as slave drivers and murderers. The British government got wind of the matter and sent Casement to investigate. It is his report, recently made, that has stirred the matter up anew.

Without discrimination thousands of men, women and children have been beaten, maimed and mutilated. Their limbs have been hacked off, they have been drowned, poisoned, beaten to death, imprisoned in chains, starved. No native woman has been safe from the brutality of the rubber gatherers. The natives have been enslaved and no recompense has been given to them for their labors in the swampy, fever haunted, reptile infested jungles. All this has been possible because the natives of these regions are simple, docile, lazy folk, subject to the fevers and the sleeping sickness, which rob them of the energy either to work hard enough for their masters or to fight against murder and torture.

In his report Sir Roger Casement, a man of experience in the Congo and elsewhere, states that in the past twelve years 4000 tons of rubber have come to England from Putumayo. He calculates that the price of that total is 20,000 Indians killed by starvation, beheading, bullet and burning, accompanied by every variety of atrocious torture. "Taking 140 pounds as the average weight of an Indian; close upon 1000 tons of Indians were slaughtered to gain 4000 tons of rubber. I leave it to the holders of shares in rubber companies to work out how much per pound this comes to for human flesh at the current price of rubber," says a letter to an English newspaper.

America Uses Most Rubber

America and the United States and Canada are far in the lead as regards the yearly consumption of rubber, with 4,000 tons, or almost as much as the rest of the world combined. England, for example, takes only 12,000 tons, and Germany and Austria together 14,000 tons. Of the 85,000 tons 14,200 are "plantation" rubber—that is, rubber from trees that have been planted. Even if the natives of the South American rubber districts were, governed and employed by humane white men, with a proper regard for human life and decency, the lot of the rubber gatherers would be a hard one. They are compelled to labor in fever infested swamps, haunted by wild beasts and immense serpents.

The natives start out in the morning with forty or fifty tin cups slung over their shoulders. On reaching the rubber tree they make a V shaped cut in the rough outer bark. At the point of the V they fasten a tin cup with a piece of gum, and this operation is repeated from ten to forty times on the tree. A day's work consists of the care of a hundred such trees for each man. In the evening, and at certain seasons of the year at noon, a ton is made with a large pan or jug into which the "milk" collected in the cups is poured. It is not easy work like tapping a sugar maple, in which case the incision remains open and sap runs for several days. In the case of the rubber tree, in the tropical climate, the cut heals rapidly and sometimes is sealed in three or four hours. This means that new cuts have to be made and cutting has to be done each day. After the milk is collected it is carried back to camp and then coagulated, or hardened, on wooden paddles held over the smoke made by burning the nuts or the mercury palm. A mature tree will yield an average of five gallons of milk during the season. This will coagulate into five pounds of raw rubber, valued, according to recent quotations at $2.50 in gold.

If the tree is tapped carefully it will give this yield for forty years without injury to itself and without cost of cultivation other than the collection of the milk. But careless incision results in the penetration of the inner bark of the tree, and its death follows. Sometimes hasty gatherers, anxious to have a large accumulation of "milk" at one time, will cut down a tree and tap it, destroying it, of course, in the process.

A GIRL'S COMPLEXION

In Summer is an Important Matter

Every girl who stays at the seashore, summers in the mountains or vegetables in the country, knows that the good things have to be paid for in a bountiful crop of freckles, tan and sunburn. But the game is usually worth the candle, and a few applications of cream, or better still, doses of old fashioned complexion remedies, soon put an end to beauty's blight.

Cucumber juice is the easiest thing in the world to make, for all you have to do is to crush the sliced vegetable into a pulp and strain the juice through this muslin. One ounce of alcohol to eight ounces of the juice adds to the long life of this complexion cure, and a few drops of benzoin usually improve it as a lotion. The juice extracted in this way is said to be better than when cucumbers are boiled.

Lettuce Cream

Lettuce cream is another one of our grandmothers' remedies for preserving the complexion that have come into vogue again. It is made by soaking a head of lettuce with boiling water and allowing it to stand for half an hour. Pour off the water, pound the lettuce to a pulp with a potato masher, then strain through cheesecloth. Now add one ounce of white wax, four ounces of almond oil and one ounce of spermaceti in a double boiler. Do not let these ingredients come to a boil. Just melt them and then drop by drop add the lettuce juice, beating constantly with a fork until the cream is perfectly smooth and cold.

Fig Paste

Fig paste is still another old world remedy that kept the cheeks of the belles of long ago as beautiful pink and white. Take one coffee cupful of chopped figs, the same quantity of raisins and one ounce of soda leaves. Put them all in an enameled earthenware with one cup of water and two tablespoonfuls of sugar. Boil very slowly until it becomes a thick paste. Immediately before taking from the fire add a few drops of lemon juice. When properly made it has the consistency of Turkish paste. An inch square is to be eaten each night.

BONNET FOR LITTLE MAID

MODEL OF BLUE UNCUT VELVET

Little roses made of white silk that lend a festive air to the confection. The leaves at the side and streamer passing beneath the chin are effective and graceful.

SACHETS OF LINEN

A pretty, dainty sachet is made from a triangular shaped piece of linen, folded on both sides by narrow torches. To make, cut a square piece of fine white linen, 8 by 8 inches, and line it with a similar square of wadding, through which is scattered a liberal supply of essent. oil and one's favorite sachet powder mixed.

Draw on the line some simple conventional floral spray and work the design in natural color.

Put the squares of linen and scented wadding together and fold into a triangular piece. Sew up the seams and gather the lace in a soft ruffle around the two oblique sides.

TOUCHES FOR WAIST

One of the much talked about features of the new waists is the sleeves. The consensus of opinion is all in favor of the long shoulder line, which is carried out in various ways. The effect is very much like that of a kimono sleeve cut off just below the round of the arm. This sleeve is an ideal affair to apply to an old-fashioned waist as it is not difficult to get this effect with an old blouse. All you have to do is to cut off the sleeve at this depth and either tuck or pipe the edge, then add the long sleeve, which is slightly full, but the fullness is carefully held in over the forearm by a deep cuff or line of buttons. Cuffs edged with a plaited drill both at the top and over the hands are new and add a modish touch to the waist. The fact that sleeves may be of a contrasting material, such as lace or net, adds in remodeling old ones.

Another easy method of freshening a blouse is by adding a vest or biblike portion of net or chiffon. Some of these are round, while others are more pointed. The latter, however, are more becoming to stout figures. These vests are tucked. Sometimes they fancy crocheted or glass buttons are used. Again they are quite severely plain, softened at the edges with a plaited or ruffled trim. The cuffs, with their plaited frills at the top and over the hands, match the vest.

Another "dress up" addition to a blouse is a fichu of lace or sheer material brought down under the belt front and back and finished off either square or in a V shape. The lace crochets and jumpers of taffeta or the fancy silks are very effective in making the old blouse take on an air of newness.

Cadum is a safe and effective remedy for rashes, pimples, blotches, eruptions, chafing, ringworm, etc. It is gratifying for mothers to know that these troubles can be quickly relieved by this remarkable healing salve. It is antiseptic and destroys disease germs. Trial box free.

Ing the old blouse take on an air of newness. Chiffon or net overblouses, although not one of the things one considers as being new, are so delightful for rejuvenating purposes that they should not be forgotten.

SECY NAGEL'S RULING

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Secretary Nagel's recent ruling that the citizenship of a naturalized alien automatically conferred citizenship on all of his minor children is to be called into question in the case of the wife and two small children of F. Risk of Cedar Rapids, who are detained at La Salle suspected of trachoma. Rep. Good has appealed to Secretary Nagel to investigate the case and raise the question that the recent ruling may admit them without test of the immigration law. The Risks are Syrians.

ACCUSED OF MURDER

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 15.—Mrs. Alva Cave, daughter-in-law of Rev. R. A. Cave, chaplain of the United Confederate Veterans, was murdered last night, and Mrs. J. G. Jones, aged 24, is in jail, accused of the killing, which is said to have been impelled by jealousy. The victim was a widow, 30 years old, and well known in southern cities.

Mrs. Jones had fled a suit for divorce, and was living apart from her husband. The killing occurred in Mrs. Cave's home. Mrs. Jones gained admission to Mrs. Cave's room and without preliminaries began shooting.

NEED CARPENTERS

LYNN MAN TOOK SOME FROM THIS CITY TODAY

A. W. Clark, business agent for the carpenters of Lynn, Mass., came to Lowell this morning in his auto and called at the office of Michael E. Lee, local business agent in search of men. He said that he heard of the strike of the millmen here and as they are in great demand in his city, he talked over matters and informed the Lowell man of the different departments that needed employees and when he returned to Lynn this afternoon he carried the required number.

The Lowell mill carpenters are on strike since July 3, and while the majority has been working in other places for some time there were still a few idle. Mr. Lee encountered some difficulty in securing a sufficient number to accommodate the demands of the Lynn man, but he did succeed.

Mr. Clark said that cabinet-makers, bench-makers and in fact all kinds of inside carpenters are wanted in Lynn as well as Boston and Worcester. The conditions there are booming and owing to the fact that the outside men are so busy the demands on the interior workmen are great. The pay there is much higher than here and the hours are shorter.

The average pay there, according to Mr. Clark, is 40 cents per hour, while here 30 cents is said to be the maximum. In Lynn the men work 50 hours a week, while in Lowell 35 hours constitute a week's work.

In leaving, Mr. Clark informed Mr. Lee that if he secured any more men to send them along. There will be a meeting of the district council of the Carpenters' union in this city tonight. The session will be held in Carpenters' hall, Runnels building, and will start at 8 o'clock.

The bride wore a gown of white silk and carried white peonies. Music was furnished by Mr. James L. Brown and Miss Belle Hutchinson. Mr. and Mrs. Holt left on an extended wedding trip which will include New York city and Niagara Falls, and expect to be at home to friends after September 15.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Senator Pomerene's resolution directing Attorney General Wickham to bring criminal prosecutions against officials of the Standard Oil and American Tobacco companies was forced to a place on the senate calendar today after a short filibuster and a sharp debate during which Mr. Pomerene declared Wickham had failed to do his duty.

DEPORT NEWS

The largest party of immigrants to arrive in this city for some time came here this morning. The visitors came from the old country via New York and Fall River, taking the boat from the Metropolitan to the latter city. There they boarded the boat train and continued directly to Lowell, reaching this city at 8:40 this morning.

There were sixty-five in the party, with but two women. The remaining members of the party were men well along in years. They attracted considerable attention, owing to the unique manner in which they were attired, and also for the large assortment of traveling bags that they carried.

After exchanging greetings with a number of friends who were waiting their arrival at the depot, they all boarded trains for other places. Seven went to Lawrence and the others went to Nashua, Manchester and Concord, N. H.

All trains carried their complete capacity today, and especially heavy was the baggage, but the latter was capably handled by the employees of the baggage department.

The 10:33 train was 15 minutes late and the 11:05 was 10 minutes behind time. Heavy travel was the cause of the delay.

A number of new cards, pertaining to the weighing, checking and recording of baggage were received at the local station this morning with the order that they be conspicuously posted.

The latter were issued by General Passenger Agent A. B. Smith and state that all persons doing business with the baggage department must have their parcels at the depot a reasonable time before the starting time of the trains.

ROSENTHAL CASE

Rosenthal, denied to his counsel yesterday that he had ever possessed the sum of $58,845 credited to his name. That of his wife in various New York banks, District Attorney Whitman yesterday obtained from the officials of the Chelsea Exchange bank records showing that the police officer had deposited $3500 in that institution during April, bringing the recorded total of Becker deposits up to $62,345.

The securing of this record was another result of the aid which had been promised by powerful banking interests in the district attorney's efforts to expose blackmail in the police force, the bankers having promised to furnish him with the amounts of deposits of any high police official whom he suspected of collecting graft.

The prosecutor heard also yesterday of still another deposit of $3500 which was recently withdrawn by Becker's wife. Four more banks are to be heard from. Mr. Whitman had originally intended to subpoena the officials of these banks as witnesses, but this is no longer necessary, as it is understood that the officials have acquiesced in the request made to them by leading members of the clearing house to aid the district attorney in every way.

Rosenthal's alleged slayers will be brought to trial by the district attorney without delay. His present plan is to try them separately and to begin the first trial in September. Lieut. Becker will probably be the last to be tried.

Mr. Whitman believes that he has an easy case against "Dago Frank" Ciroli and "Whitey" Lewis, two of the alleged actual murderers, and that their conviction will be but a matter of a few days.

Transfer Louis Libby

Louis Libby, part owner of the murder car, was transferred yesterday from the Tombs to the West Side prison, where he will be in company with "Jack" Jones, "Bogie" Webster and Harry Wallon, who have confessed their part in the crime. William Shapiro, his partner, who the district attorney believes has not been telling the whole truth, will remain in the Tombs practically in solitary confinement.

Shapiro has said that he was unable to identify the men who were the alleged murder "crew," although Assistant District Attorney Morse unearthed the fact yesterday that Shapiro took a part in the management some months ago of an East Side gang dance for which "Lefty" Louis was one of the dance committee and where at least one other of the "crew" was. The district attorney thinks that solitary confinement, away from the influence of his partner, will help to refresh his memory. Mr. Morse, however, found two more eye-witnesses to the murder yesterday, making six who are able to identify the men who fired the shots.

Expects Seven Indictments

In response to a telegram from Assistant District Attorney R. G. Rubin, Mr. Whitman wired last night to the authorities in Hot Springs a description of his representative in order that they might be satisfied that he is the proper person to whom they should deliver Sam Schepps, under arrest there as a material witness.

Mr. Whitman said he had no objection if Rubin allowed Schepps to remain there until the arrival of his counsel. Bernard Sanders, should Schepps, however, refuse to return voluntarily, steps would be taken. Mr. Whitman intimated to indict him in order that he would be extradited.

The district attorney made his statement regarding Schepps before news yesterday, it is expected that Schepps had consented to return with Rubin.

The grand jury did not meet yesterday, but after hearing additional witnesses tomorrow, it is expected that seven indictments will be handed down.

WIFE OF SCHEPPS SAYS HE TOLD HER TO STARVE TO DEATH

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Leona Schepps, wife of Sam Schepps, alleged paymaster of the men who murdered Herman Rosenthal, charged her husband with being "universally cruel and abusive" in the action for separation she brought against him in the supreme court. Justice Gavegan awarded her $10 a week alimony and $30 counsel fees last July.

Mrs. Schepps stated in her complaint that she was married in October, 1906, and had lived "in divers places by reason of her husband's unsettled and roving disposition." The first six months of their married life they resided at No. 912 De Kalb ave., Brooklyn. In this house Mrs. Schepps repeatedly and constantly requested Mr. Schepps to enter some legitimate business. He wholly refused to do so, stating he could make more money working in gambling houses.

In 1908 Schepps was offered a position by one Geschert as salesman of picture frames. He became a salesman at a salary of $65 a week and traveled through Canada, British Columbia and the western part of the United States. Mrs. Schepps went with him.

Lost His Money in West
In June, 1909, they returned to New York. The following October Schepps went west again and in December, 1909, settled in Los Angeles with his wife. He remained there nine months and he lost what money he had.

Later on Mrs. Schepps came to New York to live with her parents. He sent her from $5 to $5 a week. When he returned to New York last January, Mrs. Schepps told the court in her petition for alimony he said to her: "I hope you will give me another chance so that we can begin all over again."

Mrs. Schepps replied that she had about lost faith in her husband and that she intended to take $400 that she had and start in the millinery business. She rented an apartment at No. 22 Lenox avenue, fitted it out for $250 and moved there with her father and mother. Mrs. Schepps paid $10 a week board for a while and for two months contributed $20 a month toward the rent. He gave his wife $150 to help her in the millinery business.

Last April, "without cause or provocation he became extremely abusive and failed to come home to his meals." He admitted he was again in the gambling business. "At that time," Mrs. Schepps informed the court, "my husband was associating with two men, neither of whom had any visible means of support, and both were alleged to be common gamblers."

Schepps said to his wife late in April: "The gambling business is no good. I have no money. I can't care for you. The best thing for you to do is to get another man. I want a divorce."

continued to come home to sleep, but just before the first of June he packed up all his belongings, except two suits of clothes, and told his wife he didn't intend to return. Mrs. Schepps visited the Harlem Casino about this time one evening and found her husband with another woman. She says he called her vile names and said: "I'll get rid of you. I'd like to kill you."

Mrs. Schepps ran home and her father protected her. Later Schepps came to the house and is alleged to have shouted: "I don't want to live with you. I won't give you a cent. I don't care if you croak."

Mrs. Schepps met him in the street a few days later and asked him for money.

He Hoped "She'd Choke."
"I'll give you nothing," Schepps retorted. "I don't care if you starve." On May 19 Schepps told his wife he'd send her $5 a week.
"But I need money to pay the rent," she complained.
"I don't care if they throw you into the street," his wife asserts her husband answered. "I hope you choke."

At that time, according to Mrs. Schepps, she had in her possession a letter from Geschert, offering Schepps $55 a week and his railroad fare to sell picture frames. Schepps, however, refused, and continued to associate with gamblers and spend most of his time in "fourteenth street." He was frequently in a gambling place there when the police entered the place on a so-called raid.

S. M., of Poughkeepsie, N. Y.; Rev. Bro. Sylvain, S. M., of Manchester, N. H.; Rev. Bro. Lirette, S. M., of Poughkeepsie, N. Y.; as well as several other Marist brothers from Lawrence and Haverhill; Rev. Blais, Winoski, Vt., and many others.

The members of the association assembled at St. Joseph's church in Lee street, where, at 9 o'clock this morning a solemn high mass was celebrated by the former pupils of the school, the celebrant being Rev. Julien Racette, O. M. L., who was assisted by Rev. Eugene Turcotte, O. M. L., as deacon and Rev. Edmond Oulmette, O. M. L., as sub-deacon.

The interior of the old temple presented a very attractive spectacle, the artistic decorations having been set by the sexton, Mr. Henri Blanchette. They consisted of large streamers of red, white and blue, from one end of the church to the other, while the sanctuary was decorated with cardinal colors. The altar was aglow with incense and circled with petals. The church was literally filled with people, the two main aisles being reserved for the association.

The choir which consisted of members of the association, augmented by several members of all the French church choirs of the city, rendered under the able direction of Bro. Chrysostom, the harmonized mass of the second tone, Mr. Joseph A. Bernard presiding at the organ. The solos of the mass were sustained by Bro. Chrysostom, Bro. Priscillan, Voltaire P. Calise, Jr., Dr. Geo. E. Calise and Raymond Blais. At the offertory the Bro. Priscillan, who possesses a rich tenor voice, rendered in a splendid manner Faure's "Sancta Maria" while the communion E. J. Laroche sang

Holden's "O Salutaris." At the close of the mass the choir rendered "Ave Maria."

The sermon, a forceful one on the occasion was delivered by Rev. Joseph M. Blais, O. M. L., who spoke of the good derived from Catholic schools.

The ushers at the church were: Edmond A. Desmarais, Eugene Richard, Henri V. Charbonneau, Esq.; Rodrique E. Jodoin, while the servants at the mass were Emile Borden and Arthur L. Eno.

At one o'clock this afternoon the party boarded special electric cars and were conveyed to the spacious grounds of Mr. J. Omer Allard in Hudson, N.

H., the out-of-town guests being taken there in automobiles graciously furnished by Messrs. E. S. Desmarais, Charles E. Bournet, Joseph Marin and Joseph Albert.

A varied list of sports and athletics was gone through, while the feature of the afternoon was a baseball game between two strong teams. Over 40 attractive prizes were awarded the winners and everything was done in a very satisfactory manner to all those present.

Refreshments were served and many old acquaintances were renewed during the afternoon. The closing number of the program was a race between Bro. Priscillan, who by the way tips the scale at 330, and another member of the order, whose name is omitted on account of his defeat.

The piece de resistance of the event is the banquet which will be held to-night.

The executive committee which is responsible for the success of the fête is as follows: Rev. Henri Watelle, O. M. L., honorary chaplain; Rev. Julien Racette, O. M. L., chaplain; Rev. Bro. Chrysostom, S. M., honorary president; Wolfred P. Calise, Jr., president; Henri V. Charbonneau, Esq., vice president; Joseph F. Montminy, treasurer; William Trotter, secretary; Edmond S. Desmarais, Rodrique E. Jodoin, Arthur L. Eno, Eugene Richard and E. J. Laroche, directors.

MAN ARRESTED

ON A CHARGE OF HOLDING UP A CAR

GALVESTON, Texas, Aug. 15.—Geo. Sweeney, a young man of this city, was arrested on his arrival here yesterday on the charge of holding up an interurban car, kidnapping and carrying a pistol. Sweeney obtained a marriage license here Tuesday and boarded an interurban car on which his wealthy young divorced wife, accompanied by her brother, was bound for Houston, Texas.

Twenty miles out Sweeney with a pistol held up the conductor, forced him to stop the train, and when the train stopped, jumped with his divorced wife into a waiting automobile, in which they were driven to a justice of the peace awaiting them in a lonely cabin, where the couple were remarried.

The couple had eloped when they were first married, but the bride was lured to her mother's home, where she remained until Mrs. Sweeney divorced him.

FUNERAL FOR DOG HERO
COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 15.—Tige, the dog hero of a fire three years ago which threatened the hotel of his master, will be buried tomorrow with fitting ceremonies. The canine last night rests in a silver casket in the hotel where he made himself a hero. Today the little corpse will be borne to a real cemetery in a real hearse and laid down into a little grave by mourners.

The whole expense of the funeral is to be paid out of a bank account which amounts to $500. This account was started shortly after the dog proved himself a hero.

He was given an allowance and besides this was paid ten cents for every rat he killed.

BREWER ACCUSES MRS. TROST
PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 15.—Christian Hartmann, a brewer, of 331 East Eighty-fifth street, New York, the brother of Mrs. Frieda Trost's first husband, yesterday demanded that the coroner and district attorney investigate the death of Frederick Hartmann and made charges against Mrs. Trost.

Mrs. Trost is now under arrest charged with having killed her husband after ten days of married life by giving him arsenic in order to obtain $6,000 in cash and two insurance policies aggregating $15,000.

The New York man says that his brother, who had apparently always enjoyed perfect health, died after an illness of four days. The coroner expects to exhume the body of Hartmann and also Mrs. Trost's two children.

BARBER ARRESTED

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 15.—Franklin B. Forrest, of Lancaster, was the complainant yesterday against E. J. Townsend, proprietor of one of the largest barber shops here, on the ground that he had been charged $1.25 for a plain, everyday ordinary haircut and shave without the usual frills.

When he could not pay the $1.25, he says, the barber made him leave a $65 gold watch and a silver match safe. Forrest reported the occurrence to the police and swore out a warrant for the Barber. Priscillan, who possesses a rich tenor voice, rendered in a splendid manner Faure's "Sancta Maria" while the communion E. J. Laroche sang

DARROW TRIAL

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 15.—In order to give more time for the final argument of Clarence Darrow in his own behalf, the Darrow bribery trial was convened one hour and a half earlier than usual today. Darrow was expected to speak until noon, when the time allotted the defense expired, and District Attorney Fredericks was scheduled to begin the concluding argument at the opening of the afternoon session. Darrow declared that the blowing up of the Times building was not the result of a plot to destroy lives. He absolved the McNamuras of any guilt of murder. The dynamite was placed there criminally, he said, but with no thought of taking human life. The explosion stopped the printing press," he said. "Unfortunately there was gas or oil that ignited and the fire destroyed the human lives."

"There never was a man charged with crime," said Darrow, "that I was not sorry for; that I could not find motives that moved his poor, weak brain, and I tell you today there will come a time when crime will disappear, but it will never come by building jails and penitentiaries and scaffolds, but by changes in the conditions of life under which men have lived and died."

THE DOUBLE BOTTOMED LINER

The Titanic disaster will result in stouter vessels, more precaution for safety in case of accident, more life-boats and stricter regulations so that every official will have to be more attentive to duty. The lesson of the great disaster has led the White Star company to fortify the sister ship, the Gigantic, by a double bottom. This will involve the loss of 250,000 cubic feet of carrying capacity and an increased expense of $350,000; but the increased safety will be worth it all. The change will be an additional safeguard in case of a collision such as proved fatal to the Titanic. The double bottom was tried in the Great Eastern, built in 1859, and for nearly fifty years the largest passenger vessel afloat. In 1901 the double bottom was put to a severe test when the vessel struck submerged rocks at Montauk Point. While a bent eighty feet long and ten feet wide was made in the vessel, she made her way to New York. It is believed that the hole in the Titanic was no bigger than that made in the Great Eastern and that thus the double bottom alone saved the latter.

The principle of the double bottom is applied in the construction of battleships and on various occasions it has proved of great value in keeping vessels afloat. This expensive method of securing greater safety is of more importance than the luxurious appointments of the first cabin and the arrangements for amusement. The passengers will willingly forego the amusement features for the greater guarantee of safety.

CONCORD RIVER A MENACE TO HEALTH

The municipal board on motion of Alderman Cummings voted to authorize the board of health to investigate whether the lower Concord river is dangerous to the public health and to report at the next meeting of the council.

The cleaning up of the Concord river is much needed for at present it is choked with filth and rubbish of every kind. It is hinted even that sewage is finding its way into the river, thus making it little better than an open sewer. As a result of the accumulation of filth an island has been formed above the Rogers street bridge and another below. Neither island has been named but they might well be designated "Mud Islands Nos. 1 and 2." The river is in great need of dredging and has been for years past; but as neither the local nor the state board of health acted in the matter nothing was done.

THE UNACCOUNTABLE WATER SURPLUS

The presence in the city water mains of from 6,000,000 to 10,000,000 gallons a month more than is pumped in must be explained in one of two ways. Either the water enters a conduit between the driven wells and the Sixth street station or else the meters indicating the amount pumped do not accurately measure the work of the pumps. Considering the laws of pressure all the probabilities are against the assumption that this surplus water enters the conduit, unless it is forced in by the pressure of a superimposed mass from above or behind. If this be so, the fact should be easily determined by simple tests. The well known tendency in such cases is leakage outward not inward. We are inclined to believe that the discrepancy is due to some defect in the meters that measure the amount of water pumped at one of the stations.

PRESIDENT TAFT'S VETO OVERRIDDEN

President Taft's veto of the wool tariff bill was overruled in the house by the assistance of republican votes. The president has thus been taught a lesson that he should long remember. But it is now too late. He can carry with him to retirement the report of his tariff board on which he placed such reliance. But the people cannot await the further investigations which Mr. Taft had planned to justify delay. For the last eight years the standpat republicans have fooled the people by promising tariff revision downward and then violating their promises. The national house represents popular sentiment on this question, and it is sternly set against Taft and his standpat supporters. The matter is now put up to the senate which will have an opportunity to go on record on the popular side.

THE AUDACITY OF IT

It is now proposed to have the federal government help Lorimer to pay the expenses of his defense. Lorimer has submitted bills aggregating about $125,000 and some of his friends in the senate have proposed to give him $30,000 or $40,000 to help out.

If Mr. Lorimer had money to purchase an election he should have enough to pay his expenses, or if others purchased his election they should now come to his rescue in helping him to foot the bills.

MOTOR BOAT ACCIDENTS

The motor boat when upset in the water is almost as bad as the aeroplane that refuses to work in the air. In Boston harbor, Sunday, a large party was dumped into the water from a motor boat and a score of people would have been drowned but for the prompt assistance rendered by other crafts close by. The drowning in the Merrimack river Tuesday night as a result of a motor boat hitting a floating log will teach motorists that it is not safe to run at high speed in the darkness.

THE BULL MOOSE TICKET

The Roosevelt party is to put up a full ticket in this state, New Hampshire and wherever else the leaders may deem advisable. This will complicate the choice of members of the legislature and of congress, helping to defeat the republican candidates and to break up the republican party. This move on the part of the Bull Moose leaders may help to elect a democratic legislature which might make Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston United States senator.

The tax rate of $10, just ten cents more than last year, is not so bad as it might have been considering the fact that we have recently been paying a much higher rate. But for the overlays from last year, the rate would have been slightly reduced but that is of slight importance. The loss in poll taxes is quite noticeable and is difficult to explain. Have the people left the city or have the collectors failed to collect?

When the federal commissioner of education finds that seventy-five per cent of the school children of the country show physical defects likely to impair their health in some degree, the need of thorough medical inspection is apparent.

Seen and Heard

Several natives of Indiana, traveling on a railroad train, differed on the question whether a man born in the state could be distinguished at a glance.

They resolved to put it to a test, going through the train with the champion of the affirmative in command. He paused in the first car and looked a passenger over narrowly. "Then he went up to him and said: 'Weren't you born in Indiana?'"

"I know I look that way," was the answer, "but I've been sick a long time."

John H. Kimble, secretary of the Farmers' National congress, said the other day at Port Deposit:

"This Fourth of July offers the farmer the prospect of unusually fine crops. Such crops as we may hope to have this year bring to mind an Abe Lincoln story."

"A farmer once told Lincoln a whopper big fib about his hay crop. Lincoln, smiling his melancholy smile, drawled:

"I've been cutting hay, too."

"Good crop?" the farmer asked.

"Fine, very fine," said Lincoln.

"How many tons?"

"Well, I don't know just how many tons," said Lincoln carelessly; "but my men stacked all they could outdoors and then stored the rest in the barn."

In Virginia, the state famous for its oratory, pedigree and pride, their lives are an old man, who, although rather shy on education himself, appreciates the value of culture in others.

He sent his daughter to a Maryland boarding school where the young ladies are taught everything from arithmetic up to how to manage a gown with a train to it. A few months later he received a letter from the daughter telling him that she was "simply infatuated with pin-point."

That was too much for the old man. He indignantly telegraphed to the principal of the school instructing her never to allow his daughter to associate with a chinaman.

Tom McNeal tells of a Kansas man who stutters badly, who visited Chicago and got into the elevator of one of the sky-scrapers. He worked his jaw frantically, but couldn't get the elevator boy to understand what floor he wanted until he had been carried up fourteen stories above where he wanted to go. Then he came down to the lower floor and started up again.

After he had gone through this performance several times he stepped out in disgust and hunted up the gent who was directing the running of the elevators. "S-s-say," he stammered, "W-w-would y-you m-m-mind speaking to t-th-that f-f-feller in t-th-that cage? I I wa-w-wa-wa-dant t-to-st-stop at the s-s-say s-s-say b-b-b-he has me up t-t-t-the t-t-twenty-s-seventh."

While Congressman Wm. Kent was campaigning in the mountains of Mendocino county, California, he stopped at the wayside inn one evening, joined the group of mountaineers round the big fireplace, and listened to the general conversation, which in that section is limited to two topics—sheep-raids and deer-hounds.

"The best dog I ever knew," observed one of the old settlers, "was a kind o' mixture of hound, shepherd and water spaniel; an' an' Injun owned 'em."

"The Injun used to make good money hitin' it out to follow that come up from city huntin' dog—gettin' his $5 a day. He'd go 'long with the dog, beat up a canon, jump a deer an' chase it up where the fellers could get a shot at it—the Injun yipin' right 'long with the dog. After while it got old an' fat, an' couldn't run no more; so the Injun used to hire himself out to do it. He wasn't so fast as the dog, but he was surer, 'cause he carried a little better which way to herd 'em."

"I'd like to see that Indian," observed Kent. "Is he round here?"

"No!" The old man shook his head regretfully. "You see, deer got scarce after while an' the Injun got to chasin' jackrabbits—so they had to kill him!"

A SUMMER MEMORY
I am gazing through the humid,
Spiral, smoke-enwreathed rings,
And a sweet face comes to view,
Ghosts of days and nights the
Roses growed her white surcingle,
Jewels glistened in each ear,
When loud waves upon the shingle
Hoarsely crashed and dashed—last year.

How we danced and swam and bled
In the realms we floated
On the shallop of a kiss.
Every vow we pledged, sub rosa,
Now sounds rather sad and queer;
So, at least, she said—last year.

Homage meet for queens I paid her
"Neath those skies of amethyst,
And the presents that I made her
Gave my purse a doleful twist.
That old phrase "Festina Lento"
Only brought a joyful tear,
With enchanting sweet-and-twenty
On the shelving strand—last year.

Now her lineaments grow fainter
As the smoke wreaths clear away,
Memory's smoky chimney painter
Its prevailing hues are gray.
That stray shaft from Cupid's quiver
Men call Love is naught, I fear,
But smoky trails with the year—
Was my case, I think—last year.

CHORUS GIRL IS ACCUSED OF BEING THE ASSAILANT

Police Say Veiled Woman in the Haverhill Shooting Case Was Margaret Trevor

Haverhill, Aug. 15.—Police identification of the veiled woman who shot at Thomas Nickerson, the wealthy manager of the Haverhill Gas Light company, at his office Tuesday was made by the police yesterday. She was Margaret Trevor, a Boston chorus girl, known to the theatrical world as "Peggy Love," who recently sued Nickerson for $20,000, alleging breach of promise.

Trace of her from the time she left office after the shooting, protected from arrest by Nickerson himself, was found, and it was declared last night she was in hiding near Rye Beach, N. H., where the Nickerson summer home is located. The police say that, while they have the woman under surveillance, no arrest will be made for the present.

Officers in this city working in conjunction with the Boston police, were bending every effort last night to procure certain letters which the chorus girl wrote and left at the Hotel Brewster, directing certain persons as to how she wished "her clothing disposed of." Until these letters are found, the woman will not be detained.

It was not until noon yesterday, almost 24 hours after the shooting in the gas office, that the police began the investigation, despite the fact the circumstances of the affair and the identity of the woman were known. Mysterious influences were brought to bear on certain authorities and nothing had been done.

During the afternoon, although most of the incident attending upon the shooting were revealed to the police, they learned that the woman entered Nickerson's office and that a long conversation followed with regard to his approaching marriage to Miss Phyllis Sherwood, an actress in the "Alas Jimmy Valentine" company.

Just what led up to the actual shooting the police have been unable to ascertain. George W. Sherwood, janitor of the building and an uncle of Nickerson's fiancée, maintained that the story he told the newspapermen was true. From another witness, Walter Little, a carpenter, who was at work behind a glass partition in Nickerson's office, however, it was learned exactly what transpired in the private office.

No sooner had the shots been fired than Little climbed up and looked down into the office. He saw Nickerson and Miss Trevor struggling desperately in the middle of the office. She held a smoking revolver tightly clutched in her right hand, which Nickerson was trying to wrest from her. His left hand was bleeding profusely, and as they swayed back and forth, her wrists and dress became smeared with blood.

At this juncture Howard S. Clarke, one of Nickerson's clerks employed in the outer office, entered the private room and caught the woman. While both men sought to disarm her, George M. G. Nichols, a close friend of Nickerson and a former city solicitor, entered and wrested the gun from her grasp.

Little stepped down before he had an opportunity to observe anything further in the room, and the police were hurried to secure any information whatsoever from Nickerson. He refused absolutely to answer the questions which were asked at the investigation, and his counsel, John J. Winn, associate justice of the district court here, who was with him, gave but little information.

The efforts of the police to interrogate Mr. Nichols were balked when that attorney left the city as soon as the news of the investigation became public. He still has the weapon which was used by Miss Trevor in his possession and the police as yet have not seen it.

Despite such delayed activity on the part of the police, however, the citizens here are loud in proclaiming that the case is "bottled up" and that Nickerson and his friends will see that nothing comes of it. Everywhere rumors are current to the effect that a thorough probe into the shooting would result in the uncovering of many episodes involving some of the best known persons of the city.

Already scores of stories are being retold of wine suppers and automobile rides in which Nickerson and his friends participated. One tale that was often heard yesterday related to a raffish party given by a woman who at one time acted as his housekeeper. It was declared that this woman became so incensed she frequently threatened to shoot him.

Many stories of Miss Trevor's and her frequent visits to this city were repeated. Also for the first time since the shooting her movements just prior to her meeting with Nickerson became known. She arrived here shortly after 1 o'clock Tuesday morning, going to the Hotel Thorndike. She went immediately to her room and remained there until 11 o'clock, when she went to Willet's restaurant on Main street, and had breakfast. Directly she had finished she walked to Nickerson's office.

A visit Miss Trevor made to Nickerson's house on the evening of Nov. 11 was recalled by City Marshal John J. Mack. Nickerson called police headquarters that night and asked the city marshal to send an officer to his home to eject a woman, stating that he did not wish to have her arrested.

The officer's attempt to make the woman leave was unsuccessful, and Mack went to the Nickerson home himself. He found Miss Trevor there. She refused to go and dared the city marshal to arrest her. After he had talked with her for four hours she finally consented to leave, and he took her to a hotel.

Mack declared that no later than last Friday Miss Trevor called upon him at police headquarters. She talked casually for a time, finally remarking that every visit she made to this city cost her $500. She explained the forfeit was the result of the agreement she entered into with Nickerson at the time her suit for breach of promise was settled out of court.

Shoulder Broken
LIFE SAVER WAS INJURED IN A FALL

Boston, Aug. 15.—With his left shoulder dislocated, and his collar-bone broken as a result of slipping on the wharf in his haste to answer an alarm bell yesterday, John Dever, of the City Point Life Saving station, went to supper, and after asking permission of Capt. Stanwood, walked to the Carney hospital, a distance of a mile.

IS PENNILESS
ONCE TURF HERO CHARGED WITH LARCENY

New York, Aug. 15.—Ranked when a boy as the premier jockey of the American turf, with earnings of $50,000 a year, Grover Cleveland Fuller, who is still only 25 years old, limped before Judge Crain in general sessions yesterday, penniless and friendless, to plead to an indictment charging theft of a watch.

"It's gone, every cent of it," moaned Fuller, in referring to his fortune, "and those I believed my friends got most of it. In two years I spent $250,000. Now I am absolutely down and out, without even a cent to hire counsel. I have appealed to friends, but they won't help. All that I have left is a bad leg, which put me out of the riding business when my mount, Wilful, fell with me at the Excelsior handicap in 1905."

During his prime Fuller was rated as the successor of "Tod" Sloan.

SEVERAL EXCURSIONS

A special car took Daniel Fox of Dracut Center and a party on a fishing trip to Swampscott. They left at 4 o'clock this morning.

A number of people took advantage of the delightful weather today and made a trip to Hampton in automobiles. Among them were James Heary, Thomas F. Duffy, Charles T. McKenzie and Owen J. Carney, with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McDermott. Today was Lowell day at Hampton beach.

THE COTTON BILL

the Wool and Steel Bills by the Latter Body

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—The house will not move further with the cotton tariff bill unless the senate shows a disposition to follow the house's lead and pass the wool and steel bills over the president's veto. The cotton bill passed by both branches of congress is back in the house ways and means committee with the senate amendment to repeal all of the Canadian reciprocity matter except the pulp and paper section. There it is expected to die with the adjournment of congress. Democratic leaders fear the absence of so many of their party from the house might permit passage of the reciprocity repeal if it got to the floor.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Pensions for thousands of veterans, held up by disagreement between the house and senate over the $160,000,000 pension appropriation bill, may be paid Saturday. The house today agreed to the senate's demand to abolish the 18 outlying pension agencies on Feb. 1 and passed the bill with one minor amendment which will be adjusted today. President Taft is expected to sign it immediately.

P. O. MEN ARE ORGANIZED
NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—A good deal of interest was manifested yesterday among the employees of the post office and its branches in this city in the new post office appropriation bill under which the employees are permitted to organize.

The only real concession, however, that they could see in this bill was that it permits them to petition members of congress to vote for measures correcting grievances under which they labor.

As far as organization is concerned the employees are already organized. The new bill prohibits them from joining the American Federation of Labor or any other labor body which would draw them into sympathetic strikes. The present organizations have no such affiliations, with one exception—the Railway Mail Clerks' union.

Assistant Postmaster Thomas F. Murphy said that the bill left the post office employees as if there had been no amendment to the appropriation bill. The post office clerks throughout the country are organized for the most part as the United National Association of Post Office Clerks, of which the New York local is branch No. 1.

The weather man was with the base ball fans this afternoon and, as is usually the case when the merchants decree a half holiday, a goodly crowd was present at Spalding park to see the locals and Jawan O'Brien's ball tossers have it out. A number of the gentler sex turned out to see the boys.

Pfeffer, who has a clean record of seven successive wins, was in the box for Lowell.

The visitors got after him early in the game and greedily accepted his offerings.

GOVERNMENT BLAMED
DETROIT, Aug. 15.—"We are determined that the responsibility for the high prices of meat shall be put directly up to the federal government, where it belongs," said D. J. Haley of Troy, N. Y., chairman of the Master Butchers of America, in session here.

That meat prices have taken their high course because the beef trust had too much influence in Washington is the general tenor of the report of the legislation committee.

The committee reiterated that live animals destined to be used for food should be on the free list instead of having to stand the present prohibitive tariff of two cents a pound.

A point was made by the committee that the federal government should take steps to encourage the raising of food animals.

Banquet Tonight

The first annual reunion of L'Assom- ciation des Anciens Elèves du College St. Joseph, an organization recently founded among the former pupils of this popular place of education, is today being held in this city. Inasmuch as this is the first gathering of the pupils since the college was founded 29 years ago by the late Rev. Andre M. Garin, O. M. I., the celebration is being held on a very large scale.

Invitations were sent out to about

500 of the former pupils scattered all over the states, and one was mailed to the Hawaiian Islands, and a large number of the young men have responded favorably. In the association are represented nearly every trade and profession, while there is also a large number of clergymen. A telegram of regret was received yesterday from Judge Victor Boire of the probate court of Plattsburgh, N. Y., who expresses his regret for not being able to participate in the festivities this

"MOVIES" IN SCIENCE

SHOW DETAIL OF PROCESSES TOO
RAPID FOR EYE TO SEE

The extension of the art of moving pictures from the field of amusement to that of scientific observations is becoming a reality. Several years ago, says Cassier's Magazine, it was noted that the possibilities of continuous film photography indicated a method of investigating movements and operations which occurred too rapidly to be properly studied by the unaided eye.

The microscope permits the examination of things far too minute for study by ordinary vision; the telescope brings distant objects near; the microphone magnifies feeble sounds; the stroboscope permits the study of rapidly revolving bodies and gives instantaneous glimpses of swiftly moving objects.

To these must now be added the practicability of using the moving film for recording the sequence of rapidly moving parts in such a manner as to allow them to be studied subsequently at much slower speeds.

By running a film, for example, at an extremely high speed before a piece of material under test at the moment of yield and then passing the same film much more slowly through the projecting lantern the successive phenomena of rupture may be seen and studied at leisure, all details appearing in correct sequence at a rate slow enough to allow the eye to perceive them.

Recently this method has been used in connection with a glass cylinder to study the scavenging action in combustion engines, and as the apparatus is perfected it is evident that there is here a most valuable instrument and method of scientific research.

BOSTON, Aug. 15.—The first contested case resulting from the recent Boston Elevated road strike was settled today when Frank McCard, charged with throwing sticks at a street car, was found not guilty by a jury in the superior criminal court. OLYMPIC DINNER

GREAT PLANS MADE FOR THE EVENT

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Every effort is being made to have the dinner to the Olympic athletes on the night of Aug. 24 as big a success as the parade in the afternoon. Chairman Jere T. Mahoney of the dinner committee reported at the meeting of the plan and scope committee yesterday that "Victor" J. Dowling had been asked to preside and had accepted. In addition, it is hoped that President Taft, Governor Dix and Mayor Gaynor will be present. All have been invited, together with many other prominent men. The price of the dinner is within the reach of all, and it is expected that, though Terrace garden can accommodate about 2,000 persons, there will be a full attendance. The committee figures on giving one of the best dinners for the price ever put up in New York, because many of the incidentals that usually are included in the cost of the food have been donated. Cigarettes and mineral waters already are assured and some offers of wine also have been made.

Chairman Rubien of the plan and scope committee was pleased at the favorable reports made by all the chairmen of the different sub-committees at the meeting yesterday. There were fifty members of the committee present at the meeting in the Pulitzer building and all were enthusiastic over the results of the work done so far. Although the appeal for funds was sent out only two days ago, the money has come in so fast that Treasurer Victor F. Riddler reported the receipt of $500. The largest contribution yesterday was from J. E. Berwind, who sent his check for $150.

STRUCK BY AUTO

Early this afternoon the ambulance was summoned to 24 Rock street, to remove to the hospital Patrick Bolan, who, according to the story given the driver of the ambulance, by the people with whom he was living, was struck by an automobile in Moody street, this morning. The exact particulars of the accident are not known. How he ever reached the house in his injured condition is a mystery. He was taken to Lowell hospital, where it was said, he was suffering from a sprained back.

WILSON TO HOLD SEAT

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—The house today by adopting the report of the elections committee sustained the right of William W. Wilson, a republican of Chicago, to retain his seat as representative of the third Illinois district.

OUTING OF THE BOARDS OF TRADE HELD TODAY

Of Lowell and the Surrounding Towns—Enjoyable Affair

one and very instructive, too. Four special cars left Merrimack square at 12.15, noon, and the cars were well filled.

On arrival at the park dinner was served on the pavilion and the boys allowed that it was some dinner. It was served by Graves and Ransdell and they did themselves proud. The menu included clam chowder, boiled salmon with green peas, fried cucumbers and radishes, baked bluefish with mashed potatoes, fried clams, lobster salad, ice cream, cake, cigars and other refreshments.

Seated at the head table were: Arthur L. Gray, Rev. C. H. Williams, Dr. H. N. Larrabee, James Quigley, Edward Fisher, esq., Hon. James E. O'Donnell, Hon. Joseph H. Walker, Hon. Samuel W. McCall, Hon. Butler Ames, Harvey B. Greene and Alonzo G. Walsh.

The principal after dinner speakers were Congressman McCall and Hon. Joseph Walker, former speaker of the Massachusetts house of representatives. A outing of this nature would be incomplete without a few words from our mutual friend, Delacy Corkum of Billerica, and he entertained with witty and timely after dinner remarks.

After the good things provided by the caterers had been disposed of and the soul had had its fill of wit and oratory, a ball game was in order and it was followed by a series of athletic events, including horse-step and jump, fat men's races, three-legged races, etc.

Among those noticed on the cars in the square, just before the start to the park was made, were the following: Mayor O'Donnell, Patrick Conlon, Dennis Quinn, Ersen Barlow, Charles Holmes, Daniel W. Shanahan, A. M. Churchill, George H. Taylor, Dr. Hugh Walker, John Erlen, John Buckley, Edward Fisher, John Peabody, Edward F. Canby, Supt. Lees, John J. ACCUSED OF MURDER

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 15.—Mrs. Alva Cave, daughter-in-law of Rev. R. A. Cave, chaplain of the United Confederate Veterans, was murdered last night, and Mrs. J. G. Jones, aged 24, is in jail accused of the killing, which is said to have been impelled by jealousy. The victim was a widow, 30 years old, and well known in southern cities.

Mrs. Jones had filed a suit for divorce, and was living apart from her husband. The killing occurred in Mrs. Cave's home. Mrs. Jones gained admission to Mrs. Cave's room and without preliminaries began shooting.

CITIZENS HOLD A MEETING TO PUT AN END TO GRAFT

Thousands Declare for Law Enforcement at Meeting in New York

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—At an old-fashioned town meeting in Cooper Union last night people in all walks of life set the seal of disapproval on the system of organized graft in the police department as disclosed by the killing of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler.

After listening to speeches by District Attorney Whitman, Emory H. Tucker, who has been one of Mr. Rosenthal's assistants and is now counsel to the aldermen's police investigating committee, the Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott, editor of the Outlook, Rabbi Schuman of the Temple Beth-El, and others, the meeting adopted a resolution by a very determined and noisy chorus of ayes to one ugly sounding and two feeble negatives, calling upon the police department to "put forth additional efforts looking to the arrest of all those implicated in the Rosenthal murder," calling upon the district attorney to continue in the case as he has been doing; urging the board of estimate and appointment to approve the resolution of the board of aldermen appropriating $25,000 for a special investigation into police conditions; calling upon the aldermanic investigating committee to "make a thorough non-partisan and unsparring examination into existing conditions and into the causes which gave rise to systems of blackmail and graft and to propose remedies by which those causes may be removed," and urging citizens having information concerning these conditions to lay it before the district attorney and the aldermanic committee.

In order to make the resolutions effective a committee was appointed to see that the public demands of the citizens assembled in mass meeting "without regard to race, creed or party politics" be made effective.

The committee consists of Eugene H. O'Connell, Jacob H. Schiff, Eugene A. Philbin, Dr. Henry Moskowitz, Allan Robinson, F. S. Tomlin, Raymond V. Ingersoll, Mrs. Charles H. Jerns and George B. Agnew.

It was also decided that the committee shall have power to increase its membership to thirty, including representatives from every borough and that it may solicit funds, engage counsel and do whatever "is necessary to vindicate law and order in the city and to bring about such changes as will make more difficult, if not impossible, the recurrence of conditions like the present."

"The brutal murder of Rosenthal when he was on the point of making important disclosures to the district attorney," the preamble sets forth, indicated that "there has again developed a treacherous connection between some of the members of the police department and organized crime."

The meeting was a remarkable demonstration and gave indisputable evidence that the people are much stirred by the events of the past month and are determined that something shall be done.

Although the night was warm people began to gather outside of Cooper Union nearly two hours before the time set for the meeting. At 7 o'clock the sidewalks on the four sides of the building were thronged with perspiring men and women. When the doors opened at 7:30 there was a great rush to get in and soon orders were given to admit no more. It was then estimated that over 3000 persons were inside and many more than that number outside.

Over a thousand lingered on the sidewalk until after the adjournment. The audience was cosmopolitan. In it were noticed the usual Cooper Union crowd, as well as fashionably dressed people from all parts of the city. There was a fair sprinkling of women in shirt waists, and many made themselves comfortable by removing their coats.

A number of those who had seats on the platform said they had come from their country and seaside homes to lend their presence to the support of the movement and to put graft out of existence.

Charles P. Howland presided and Dr. Henry Moskowitz acted as secretary. In opening the meeting Mr. Howland said it had been called and organized by 100 representatives of different interests in the city. He added:

"It is a solemn occasion. I think we all feel that. I think every one here feels his sense of responsibility at this time. We have an important task before us, perhaps the highest task that conforms to the duty of the citizen—the task of maintaining the fundamental elements of civilization."

"Municipal government, which for many years was on trial in the cities of this country, and which we thought had been saved, is again on a desperate trial, and it is the duty of each of us to do his share, be that much or little, in the work of rescue."

"We come to this task without partisan bias and actuated by no sectarian or racial motives. We do not come here to denounce any man. We do not come here to prejudice any man. We come here to rescue organized society from the clutch of savagery."

District Attorney Whitman was the last speaker and he was received with a tremendous demonstration. The big crowd shouted and whistled and howled, and finally got up and waved their hats to a chorus of cheers.

TO CHANGE GOLF RULES

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 15.—As a result of the unveiling field that swamped the United States Golf association championship here, it is believed that the association will adopt several changes in the conditions for next year's meeting. The changes now being considered are along lines in force in Great Britain, where the open tournament last year attracted 125 starters, a number far too large to be handled under the American system.

The English golf officials allotted five days to the tournament instead of the two days allowed on this side.

The field is divided into three sections, section A playing two rounds on the first day, section B two rounds on the second day, and section C two rounds on the third day. From each of these sections the 20 best scores, including ties for twentieth place qualify to play for the championship proper on subsequent days.

COOLER WEATHER

IS PROMISED BY THE WEATHER CLERK

BOSTON, Aug. 15.—After still another day of heat and humidity, with its record of two deaths and four prostrations, relief is at last promised for today.

Last night, which saw the last of the shower-producing low pressure area in New England, showed an area of high pressure about the Great Lakes, accompanied by temperatures considerably lower than those prevailing in other sections of the country.

Thus, while the maximum temperature yesterday was 88 at Philadelphia, 87 at Boston, and 86 at New York and Albany, at Detroit and Chicago it was only 80, and at Buffalo 74. For this reason, today's local forecast is fair and somewhat cooler. Weather with west to northwest winds.

Great as the heat was in Boston yesterday, and unbearable as was the day, conditions would unquestionably have been much worse and the number of prostrations and deaths greater but for two showers, the first after noon and the second about 5 p.m., both of which caused temporary drops in the temperature.

While on Monday and Tuesday the 30 mark was not reached until 10 a.m. yesterday saw it 50 at 8 o'clock, 55 an hour later, and 57 at noon. Then came the first shower, and with it a sudden drop in the temperature, so that at 1 p.m. it was only 75.

Soon, however, the mercury started up again, and at 3 o'clock it was 85 and going fast. The humidity, too, which at 8 a.m. registered only 72 per cent, had increased to 82 per cent. But the second shower lowered the temperature from 85 at 5 o'clock to 81 at 6, and the day's heat was over.

During the evening, though, the fall of the temperature was very slow. At 8 o'clock it was only down to 79, and at this figure it remained until after 10, making the evening hours far from pleasant.

The total rainfall was only .02 inch, according to the gauge of the weather bureau, though to the man on the street it seemed much greater. The first shower was preceded by clouds so dark that lights had to be turned on in many office buildings.

HOSPITAL FOR ANIMALS

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—The new hospital and dispensary of the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, located on Avenue A in the East Side "hospital district," began today its work of ministering to dogs, cats and horses. The institution is the most complete of its kind in the world. Medicine and professional advice are given free to those who are unable to pay. The building includes a series of wards, private rooms, pharmacies, operating rooms, exercise room, and isolation wards for animals suffering from contagious diseases. The ground floor has a garage equipped with 15 automobile ambulances and wagons.

'IMMENSE CROWD

TO SEE THE CHICAGO-NEW YORK GAMES

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—It is estimated by the officials at the West Side baseball grounds that 50,000 persons will witness the series of three games between New York and Chicago and for this privilege they will pay $70,000.

The old time rivalry between the teams, the closeness of the races for the National league pennant and the suspension of John Evers, the Cub second baseman, by President Lynch, have aroused Chicago fans and the management expressed the opinion that the biggest crowd that has assembled at the park this season will see the game today.

President Murphy of the Cubs was somewhat downcast over the suspension of Evers. He said:

"The suspension of Johnny Evers at this critical time is discouraging. We all realize that as a league head President Lynch is placed in many trying positions. But I am sorry that he should have found it necessary to mete out the penalty he did."

TO DISSOLVE TRUST

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—U. S. Dist. Atty. Wilkerson will file suit within a couple of days for dissolution of the Elgin Butter Board of Trade, the Tribune today says.

The charge will be violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

The government alleged that the board is able to control prices not only in the territory tributary to Elgin but in a large outlying territory.

Mme. D'Almeida's Beauty Hints

(From the Journal of Fashion)

"No woman who prizes true beauty will neglect her eyebrows and eyelashes. Brushing the eyebrows trains them to grow arch-shaped and applying the eye make-up will make them grow thick and silky. Pencil applied to roots will make the lashes grow long and silky."

"To keep the skin clear, smooth, fair and pliant, use a simple complexion beautifier made by dissolving an original package of mayasone in a half-pint of which lard. Gently massage face, neck and arms with this and you will escape freckles, tan and sunburn. It prevents that 'shiny' look and will make the skin soft and youthful complexion."

"Any person desiring abundant, glossy hair should use a dry shampoo frequently. Mix four ounces of powdered orris root with an original package of therax and sprinkle a teaspoonful of this mixture on the head and brush it thoroughly through the hair. Therax makes the hair light and fluffy, and beautifully lustrous."

"Paste made by mixing water with a little powdered talc and applied to a hairy surface will remove every trace of superfluous hair or fuzz. Leave the paste on a minute or two, then remove and wash the surface. This treatment is safe, sure and speedy and leaves the skin hairless, firm and smooth."

THE WORK ESTATE WORTH $14,000,000

Daughter to Have Income of $2,000,000

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Frank Work left an estate valued at $13,568,534, after payment of all administrative expenses. The gross estate is $14,228,808.

The report of the state tax appraiser yesterday shows that of this amount Mrs. Frank Roche, divorced wife of Aurel Batonyi and daughter of Mr. Work, will receive the income of $2,000,000. The present value in cash of her life interest is $1,137,827.

Mrs. Work made elaborate provisions in his will for the distribution of her estate. He wrote for no less than 15 codicils, in which he traced the matrimonial history of his daughter, Mrs. Roche. He at one time cut her off altogether, and later provided that the trustees should have power to give her an adequate income.

The will provided that Edmund and Frank Roche, grandchildren, should become American citizens and change their name to Work. So far as is known neither of the boys has taken steps to change his name. Their share of the estate is $2,716,917 each.

Mr. Work provided in his will that his granddaughter, Cynthia Roche Burden, should not share in the estate if she married a foreigner or visited England during the lifetime of her father, James Jeffery Burke Roche. She is married to Arthur Scott Burden, an American. Her share of the estate is $2,682,202.

Mrs. Peter Cooper Hewitt, another daughter of Mr. Work, inherits $1,117,257.

The share of Ellen Burden, a great-granddaughter, is valued at $578,533. The residue of the estate is appraised at $3,590,154.

The cost of Mrs. Roche's divorce from Batonyi is shown by the report of the appraiser. The detective agency which obtained the incriminating evidence received $30,993. W. M. K. O'Connell, counsel for Mrs. Batonyi, received a fee of $35,000.

Mr. Work bequeathed $1000 a year to Frank Work, a nephew, and a similar annuity to his partner, Charles D. Chapman. His two nieces receive $1,300 a year. He also provided for gifts to his servants.

The only real estate owned by Mr. Work was his home at No. 13 East Twenty-sixth street. This is valued at $255,110. The most valuable room was the library, estimated at $124,000.

SUFFERED EVERYTHING

For Fourteen Years. Restored To Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Elgin, Ill.—"After fourteen years of suffering everything from female complaints, I am at last restored to health."

"I employed the best doctors and even went to the hospital for treatment and was told there was no help for me. But while taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I began to improve and I continued its use until I was made well."

—Mrs. HENRY LEISEBERG, 743 Adams St. Kearneysville, W. Va.—"I feel it my duty to write and say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I suffered from female weakness and at times felt so miserable I could hardly endure being on my feet."

"After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and following your special directions, my trouble is gone. Words fail to express my thankfulness. I recommend your medicine to all my friends."

—Mrs. G. R. WHITTINGTON. The above are only two of the thousands of grateful letters which are constantly being received by the Pinkham Medicine Company of Lynn, Mass., which show clearly what great things Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound does for those who suffer from woman's ills.

All these testimonials are guaranteed genuine and truthful. The original of each came to us entirely unsolicited. They are sincere expressions of gratitude for actual benefits received from the medicine.

MISS KATE CURRY BELIEVED TO BE MORE THAN A 100 YEARS OLD

Miss Kate Curry, who is said to be more than 100 years old, is perhaps the most pleasant, cheerful and interesting person at the City hospital. Miss Curry is one of the occupants of the ward set aside for the old ladies.

Formerly she had been living with Miss Kenny at 577 Lawrence street until about five months ago, following the advice of a doctor, she was taken to the city hospital, where she still is enjoying life in absolute contentment.

The directory places Miss Curry's age at 95 years, but she herself, together with many of those who are acquainted with her, are of the opinion that she has been at least 103 summers. She came from Ireland to this country when she was forty years of age. Of her life in the old country she relates many interesting experiences and has a way of telling a story that holds the listener to the very last word, and her memory seems to fail her but her intervals are of rare occurrence and she is generally as bright and ready of speech as a much younger person.

True Irish wit and a rich brogue make the stories which Miss Curry tells so quick, interesting and so good that one could hardly believe her to be a day over sixty, were it not for the many wrinkles in her face. Her beautiful white hair falls in curls about her neck, and her hands give one a silent story of the hardships endured during her long life. Perhaps it is her inability to read that accounts for the fact that Miss Curry has never been obliged to wear glasses, for her eyesight is truly excellent. When she dwelt in Ireland, there were few clocks and the old sun dial was the most common instrument for determining the time. As a consequence of this the old lady is unable to tell the time by means of the modern chronometer.

Miss Curry came to Lowell, she said, when Mr. Hosford was mayor of the city, and this was in the early sixties. It is quite probable that she came even earlier than this and that Mr. Hosford was the first mayor of Lowell that she knew of. "He lived in a big house in Hosford Square," she said. Although not a scholar, nevertheless this aged lady is highly intelligent and can tell many anecdotes of the Civil war.

A visitor to Miss Kate Curry is always certain of a hearty welcome and she is always ready to tell the story which is so entertaining. She has many callers as her friends are very numerous and extremely fond of the old lady.

Valuable Beauty Aids for the Heated Terni

Tan and freckles can be banished and the skin kept clear, smooth and radiant by daily applications of a sprumax lotion, which is prepared at home for a small sum by stirring 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine into 1-2 pint of water (not hot water), then adding 10 drops of sprumax. This lotion is invisible when on and will not spoil or streak from perspiration. It is especially nice to rub out lines and dispel the oily, shiny condition.

Canthrox shampoos are wonderful aids to keep the hair lovely during summer. Just dissolve a teaspoonful canthrox in a cup of hot water and your shampoo is ready. This creates a wealth of rich, white lather that dissolves every atom of dust, dandruff and excess oil. Rinsing leaves the scalp and hair immaculately clean. After a canthrox shampoo the hair dries evenly and quickly, and takes on a charming lustre and silkiness.

LOWELL BOY MAKES GREAT FLIGHT

William F. Higgins, better known as "Bully," former president of the Eagles, member of the Kitchen Club and general all around man, is at it again. Like most gentlemen of his profession, Billy likes to kick up his heels after working hours, but as he has a reputation to maintain, while in Lowell, he waits until he is many miles from the Spindle City before he makes things sizzle.

Aeroplaning; this is the sport in which W. F. has become interested. Speeding, with plenty of it; high flying, with the sky as the limit—these pastimes are now taking up all his spare time while on a vacation in Fairlee, Vermont, and incidentally taking up all the time of the people of the town in watching him cavort through the air in his new monoplane.

Fairlee is a quiet little burg with a lot of nice sociable folks in it. They're the kind that don't stand off before an introduction, but just wade in on seeing a new face and salute him, or her, with "Howdy, stranger; wail this is a fair to middlin' sort of day, heh'n't it?" Fairlee is not a densely populated community. It follows that affairs in the amusement line come almost as frequently as do sunstrokes in winter.

He Won't Jump Now
No more limping for Tom Moore of Cochran, Ga. "I had a bad sore on my instep that nothing seemed to help till I used Buckle's Arnica Salve," he writes, "but this wonderful healer soon cured me." Heals old, running sores, ulcers, boils, burns, cuts, bruises, eczema or piles. Try it. Only 15 cents at A. W. Dows & Co.

Consequently when the burgomaster decided that the village would conduct a fair this week every one in that section sat up, roll their chaw of tobacco to the other side, and took notice. In fact the village cutups became so excited over the innovation that one evening they did not leave the store for home until eight o'clock. One thing, however, kept the Fairlee folks scratching their heads. They wanted, but did not have, a startling attraction. Now Billy Higgins is a thoughtful sort of man, so, to help the Fairlee fair along, he decided that he'd let its managers exhibit himself, William F. Higgins, sailing through the air; that is, sailing in a monoplane. The fair managers figured it out that the sight of Billy in a monoplane ought to be worth at least a quarter to any fair attendant, and, naturally, they jumped at Billy's kind offer, and immediately "hooked up" with him. After the refreshments had been liquidated, so to speak, W. F. telephoned to his Lowell office and had the monoplane forwarded. In its arrival, however, he noticed that the spectacular car of the motor had been tampered with by some expert mechanic, and as it was one of the Acre boys and as it was necessary to secure the services of an expert mechanic, he asked for aid from his old friend, Capt. Obadiah Ezekiel Lucas, better known as "Ezekiel."

This gentleman bears his title through the fact that in his early days he used to turn an honest dollar by captaining the "Skull and Crossbones Special," a pirate clipper that roamed the Indian seas. As piracy, on the advent of the steam-driven cruisers, became a rather unhealthy profession, the captain had the "Skull and Crossbones Special" insured for full and a half value and then lit the keel. With the insurance money and the dollars and jewels of those he had gently but emphatically urged to walk the plank, Capt. Lucas, a dozen years ago, purchased an estate in Fairlee, where he now occupies his time in bestowing his superfluous change on country libraries, social welfare institutions and other organizations fighting the good fight in the cause of human happiness.

Ezekiel tinkered around the spectacular car for a time, patted some of its joints and ribs with a monkey wrench and made it better'n bran new. Seeing that the "mono" was in ship-shape—being in fact tuned up to high G—our mutual friend William F. Higgins announced to the committee on airships that the flying exhibition would take place at two o'clock in the afternoon. This information was immediately conveyed to Mrs. Miranda Squallperson, a widow lady and head of the Fairlee Ladies' sewing assembly. In fifteen minutes everybody in Fairlee and its suburbs had heard all particulars regarding Mr. William F. Higgins' monoplane flight.

Two o'clock arrived at the Fairlee fairgrounds, and on time, and with fair arrived two thousand women, men and children. Two thousand tongues echoed and re-echoed the name of William F. Higgins, aviator. Four thousand eyes—except the exception of 13 glass ones—centered on the hangar wherein Mr. Higgins was working with a pair of pliers, trying to pull off the stopper from a coco cola bottle. Four thousand feet—with 73 bunions, less a less patted the greenward waiting for the fateful moment.

Finally there was a fanfare of trumpets and at its conclusion William F. Higgins trundled the monoplane from its hangar to the center of the fair grounds. Dignity and confidence marked his bearing. A prolonged buzz of smothered buzzes steamed from the teeth of the thousands rapidly attentive spectators. These child-like people would have cheered and hurraed and yelled, would have rent the air with various brands of whoops but for the lofty deportment of William F., which filled them with awe and with a feeling even akin to veneration.

After the two thousand worshippers at the shrine of Mr. Higgins had used up their individual supplies of breath through continuous buzz-applause the aviator stepped onto the running board of the monoplane and waved a mule but graceful "I thank you one and all to the multitude."

Among these one fair, beautiful face gazed upon that of William with tender yet anxious solicitude. Sympathetic friends nearby adjured her to be calm but vain were their adjurements. More and more agitated grew the fair one. Convulsive tremors swayed the willow-like form. The whiteness of falling snow overspread the Diana-like features. "Excuse me," said one sympathetic miss to another, "evidently there's something between them." "For certain, Lizzie," replied the other gazelle, "it's most possible; for her friend, Mr. Higgins, is a real handsome fellow." Whether any grain of truth lay behind these suppositions it is difficult to determine; certain it is, however, that the fair young creature was visibly agitated at the time of the preparations of Billy. Possibly, though, this may have been brought on by her eating cucumbers and shrimps for luncheon, which would undoubtedly give her the stomach-ache.

But we must not forget the intrepid aviator. That gentleman, after waving the gracious acknowledgment to the multitude, put his feet into the stirrups of his airy steed, and lighted a Turkish Trophy. All was ready for the ascent when the proceedings were halted by the arrival of Lowell boys to bid the daring aviator "Bon voyage." These expressions of good will were delivered in an unusually sober manner, in fact in a tone of voice charged with that quality generally heard at a wake. But this by no means depressed the spirits of the dauntless birdman, for on his "honk," "honking" the horn and pulling the lever, he calmly flew a last drag from the Turkish Trophy and then flicked the butt in the direction of one of the nearby village cutups. And so he left the earth.

The "mono" glided into the atmosphere with swanlike grace. Perfect control was immediately noticeable. One hundred feet it rose; two hundred; three hundred; four hundred. At that stage, so it was afterward learned from Mr. Higgins, the yeast cakes in the thingamajig compartment became slopped rising. However, it climbed along, gliding from the east to the west like a dove, and from the south to the north like a sparrow. A half burnt match that fluttered to earth mutely told a tale—the intrepid aviator was having another drag. Suddenly the "mono" shot through space with the speed of Mercury. The cause was soon noticed. Billy was pursuing a phillao bird. But the chase was a stern one. For several miles the hand-made bird sped after the nature-made one. Slowly but surely it was overhauling its prey. Another mile was covered and then W. F. could be faintly discerned, hitting the huge bird over the head with the butt of a Blackstone. Enraged, the phillao bird swooped at the machine. All was over. The powerful propeller ground it into shreds. Emerging from this conflict with flying colors, Billy headed the monoplane back to the fair grounds zone, where on arriving over the heads of the multitude he varied the entertainment by going through a Turkey Trot. The intricate evolutions of this classic dance were carried out with the grace and precision of a professional danseuse. Then the machine dropped to within twenty feet of the ground, where it skipped around elm trees, telegraph poles and other projections in a truly amazing manner. It seemed to be playing "You're it" all by its lonesome. After these exertions it rose about a hundred feet and turned a sharp, double somersault and other aerial flunts until it had the multitude croaked looking at it. All this, of course, was hot work, and, as ill luck would happen, the only liquid Billy had on board was gasoline. Not caring to wet his whistle with this beverage, yet wishing for a glass of something cool like buttermilk, he decided to end the flight. So, with a warning "Honk, honk," he sailed gracefully through the atmosphere for a minute or two, and then, like a wild duck settling onto a pool, Billy and his "mono" glided back to earth.

Immediately the ship was surrounded by dense masses of people, each and every one fighting for a chance to grasp the hand of the dare-devil navigator. Indeed, some of the fair members of the throng vowed they would not be content with such a lame, matter-of-fact form of salutation. As at may these village beauties were doomed to disappointment, for, after blushingly acknowledging the salutations of a dozen or so of the men folks in the throng, William F. begged to be excused and hurried away to the privacy of the hangar. There he was joined by Captain Lucas, John J. Deigan, Patrick Kelley, F. A. McQuade, Michael P. Crokin, Andrew L. Pendergast and Maurice O'Donnell, who, one and all, drank a glass of cider to the Dauntless Navigator of the Fairlee Air Regions.

Mr. Higgins has agreed to attempt to establish a track record at the auto races at Burlington next week. He will be paced by his manager, Hornidas Gervais, and he is confident he will make fast time.

CHRISTIANS IN JAPAN
LOST THEIR APPEAL

Cannot Call Witnesses to Prove Innocence

SEOUL, Korea, Aug. 15.—In the trial of more than a hundred Christians who are charged with conspiracy against the life of Governor-General Terauchi the judges brought charges against the accused missionaries, refusing, however, to allow the latter to call witnesses or take any other means of clearing themselves.

Counsel for the defense then impeached the judges and demanded a new trial, maintaining that the present trial was merely a farce.

The supreme court yesterday refused the application of the defense and the trial will be resumed Aug. 23.

FINE RECORD AT TARGETS
HONOLULU, Aug. 15.—Five hits out of ten shots were made at Diamond Head yesterday by artillerymen using 12 inch mortars on small targets at a distance of 5500 yards at sea. Major Timberlake of the coast artillery said today that this was an unusually good percentage of hits for mortar fire.

HEALTH DEPARTMENT
REVOKES PERMIT

To Show the Death Chair Victims

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—The health department yesterday revoked the permit issued by Dr. Alonso Blauvelt, sanitary superintendent for Manhattan, to Latone & Guidetti, the Italian undertakers at 236 Mulberry street, which allowed them to keep in their shop for public exhibition until next Saturday the bodies of the five young Italians put to death in the electric chair early on Monday morning for the murder last November of Mrs. Mary Hall in Westchester county.

At the health department offices and at Sing Sing prison it was said yesterday that the officials concerned had no notion until they read yesterday that Latone & Guidetti were displaying the bodies for advertising purposes. Dr. Walter C. Bensen sent Dr. Blauvelt to the undertaking shop to investigate and then summoned Paul Guidetti, the youthful member of the undertaking firm, to the health department.

"Dr. Blauvelt, sanitary superintendent for Manhattan," said Dr. Bensen yesterday that the state prison department, sanitary superintendent of the greater city, revoked it. I told the undertakers that if they do not bury the bodies by tomorrow morning they will be liable to imprisonment of from six months to a year or a fine of $500 and imprisonment. And if they don't bury them by tomorrow my department will go to the shop and bury them."

Shortly after word came from Albany yesterday that the state prison department had begun an investigation of the manner in which Latone & Guidetti had obtained the bodies from the Sing Sing authorities it was announced to inquirers at Sing Sing that Warden Kennedy had "just been called up" by a reporter yesterday that he had obtained the bodies without trouble at Sing Sing upon presenting five printed slips of which only the slip asking for the body of Salvatore Di Marco contained the signature—really a cross mark signed by Di Marco's brother, who cannot write—of a relative of the dead.

"Guidetti came here with five slips all signed by relatives," said a Sing Sing official yesterday who spoke for Warden Kennedy. "At least he said that the signers of the orders for the bodies were relatives." Section 507 of the criminal procedure says that we are to turn the bodies of executed murderers over to relatives upon request. If undertakers use the body of a man for advertising purposes we can't help it. It's up to your city authorities to stop it."

"I told the Sing Sing people plainly," said Paul Guidetti while long lines of persons were filing past the bodies yesterday afternoon and clicking upon the trays resting upon the coffin in which the face had just been placed, "that only Di Marco had relatives in this country, and the other slips were signed by friends."

"It's a damn shame that Dr. Bensen interfered with us. We won't have a chance to raise much money now and so we have to cut out the business. Why didn't Dr. Bensen or Dr. Blauvelt interfere with another Italian undertaker on the East Side who had a 'Black Hand' murder man on exhibition in his store for twelve days? I told Dr. Bensen about that. The undertaker stopped the exhibition a few days ago and then shipped the body to Italy."

When Dr. Bensen's attention was called to the twelve day exhibition at another shop he said he had been told of it by Guidetti but that he had not taken down the name of the undertaker. If the story is verified, he said, he would prosecute the undertaking firm.

Pollmen from the Mulberry street station had to work all day in front of Latone & Guidetti's shop yesterday to help out the undertakers in their advertising scheme by keeping in some semblance of orderliness the men, women and little children who were pressing toward the door from early morning until late at night to see the five dead murderers. The doors were closed in the afternoon for a short time while the bodies were being placed in coffins of oak and while the line waited the crowd swelled so that it blocked the street.

Paul Guidetti says the practice of publicly displaying bodies of men and women who were slain by death caused publicity is common among East Side undertakers in need of advertisement. Guidetti said last night that he would obey orders and bury the five men today.

WOMAN IS HELD

She Has Been Committed to Tombs

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Miss Rosa Zindel, once a $12,000 a year factory manager, then president of the concern where she was once an employee, and now a bankrupt, was arrested yesterday afternoon and put in the Tombs prison on a charge of forgery.

Her arrest followed an indictment in which it is alleged that Miss Zindel forged the name of E. & R. Quinn, Philadelphia manufacturers, to a note for $675.36 and borrowed money on the note from the Century bank.

Miss Zindel, the head of the Zindel Manufacturing Company, shell goods makers of 372 Fourth avenue, was arrested in her rooms at the Schermerhorn apartments, Madison avenue and Eighty-second street.

Despite Miss Zindel's appeal that she was ill the arrest was made, but her physician was called in before the woman was taken away. It was too late to get bail when she reached the prison.

On Aug. 7 last petitions in bankruptcy were filed against the Zindel Manufacturing Company and against Miss Zindel by creditors who alleged that she had obtained loans from banks and individuals on notes to the extent of $50,000, part of which she must have known were bad. She was to have appeared before United States Commissioner Gilchrist in bankruptcy proceedings Tuesday, but sent a certificate from her doctor saying that she was too ill to come.

Yesterday the case was on again and she was still too much indisposed, her physician certified, to appear. A judgment by default was taken yesterday.

The note which Miss Zindel is alleged to have forged was presented to the Century bank on April 11, 1912, and when it was not paid on its maturity in August inquiry was made. E. & R. Quinn denied the signature and the matter was taken before the grand jury. It is charged that in April Miss Zindel informed the bank that her assets amounted to $200,000 and her liabilities were $16,500, although she was indebted to various banks for more than $60,000 at that time.

Miss Zindel has been identified with the business of which she became the head since 1877, when she was first employed there, and on the death of the owner took over the concern, which was incorporated as the Zindel Manufacturing Company, in 1906. She recently moved the business uptown and leased the entire building at 373 Fourth avenue.

Miss Zindel said, when the bankruptcy proceedings were first brought that the drain of fitting out and running a building and exacting sums charged by money lenders put her in financial straits.

THE TRIP TO CALIFORNIA
UNDER SPECIAL CARE

"You feel like sorting out and tying together the memories of this trip and keeping them separate from all other trips." A woman recently said this after a pleasant experience on a Burlington Route Through Tourist Car Excursion party to California. She traveled alone, but met many agreeable people on the car, which was in charge of a special conductor. This good natured official was a well-informed, courteous man who went all the way through with the party, looking after everyone's comfort and attending to all the little details of the trip. If you, a woman or child in one of these parties can travel with perfect safety and freedom from care. If you would like to know more about the Burlington's comfortable and inexpensive personally conducted excursions, please write me a postal and I'll send you maps, booklets, pictures, etc. by return mail. SMITH WAS DEFEATED BY "PORKY" FLYNN

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—By skillful maneuvering for ten rounds, Daniel "Porky" Flynn of Boston set back Gunboat Smith a step in his progress to the heavyweight crown, in their bout at the St. Nicholas A. C. last night.

Flynn showed the way in the first, third, fourth, seventh and eighth rounds, while Smith showed to advantage in the second, fifth and sixth rounds.

The other two rounds were a toss-up. Smith was entirely too wild for the experienced Hub heavyweight. Gunboat failed to land a broadside of blows even once during the bout. His best work was confined to landing a stunning blow every other round or so. In the sixth Smith knocked his clever antagonist into a sitting posture with a long right swing. It was the first time Smith connected with this wallop. Flynn was ready for action again after taking a count of seven. This was the only time Flynn was in imminent danger. Flynn's jaw collided with a snappy right in the tenth, but the visiting boxer came right back at his man and evened accounts by ramming a left to the stomach and a right uppercut to the jaw. Flynn fought in masterly fashion.

He judged Smith's blows to the second and timed his own wallops perfectly. Flynn fought deliberately all the time, and never was confused, as was Smith whenever Gunboat failed to land.

"Ruby Robert" Fitzsimmons was accorded a tremendous ovation when he was introduced. Fitz says he is still the undefeated middleweight and light heavyweight champion, and you would believe it if Fitz said he was ready to defend these titles. He also mentioned the fact that he would like to battle Thomas Sharkey, who is thinking seriously of "coming back."

Willie Beecher forced his way to a victory over Frank Picato in the second ten-round bout. Beecher's aggressiveness and constant punching more than discounted Picato's clean wallops. Picato did little fighting in the first half of the bout, and only in the eighth and ninth rounds did he hold the master hand. Picato's right eye was completely closed at the end of the bout.

Joe Stein, the Harlem lad, and Young McCartney, the Philadelphia floundered through ten rounds in the opening bout, with the honors going to Stein, although McCartney made a grandstand finish. Stein pulled up such an enormous lead in the first seven rounds that McCartney's good work in the last three rounds failed to overcome the advantage.

Stein landed four blows to McCartney's arm in the first seven rounds and became one weary from his own exertion. McCartney closed strong and Stein had all he could do to get away from the visitor's southpaw slams.

JACK JOHNSON

SIGNS TO BOX JOE JEANNETTE IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Jack Johnson and Joe Jeannette, the two foremost heavyweights of the present time, will box ten rounds before the St. Nicholas A. C. of this city on the evening of September 25.

Final arrangements for the meeting of the dusky gladiators were completed in Chicago yesterday afternoon by Jesse McMahon, one of the promoters of the St. Nicholas A. C. McMahon guarantees the champion, Jack Johnson, $25,000, with a privilege of 50 per cent of the first $50,000 of the receipts, and 35 per cent of all over that amount. Johnson was further granted half of the moving picture earnings. Both Johnson and McMahon have posted forfeits with Al Tearnay of Chicago. No referee has been named as yet, though McMahon favors Dan Toner, the club's official.

That Johnson was insincere in his announced retirement a short time ago was proven by the publicity with which he accepted McMahon's offer when the figures assumed satisfactory proportions. Johnson seems to have driven a pretty good bargain, at that. If in any sort of shape, the heavyweight champion is not likely to seriously jeopardize his crown in a ten-round tilt.

McMahon, for the St. Nicholas A. C., has succeeded where others failed. A few days ago Johnson was offered $20,000 to meet Jeannette in this city, but Lill Abner would listen to nothing under $25,000. McMahon went to Chicago with Jeannette already signed up. As soon as he met Johnson's terms the match was on.

INTENT ON SUICIDE

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Selah B. Whitney, son of Dr. D. B. Whitney of East Norwich, L. I., who was a brother of former Mayor Daniel D. Whitney of Brooklyn, is practically committing suicide by starvation, after failing in an attempt to end his life by taking poison. It is expected Whitney will succeed in ending his life if he persists a day or two longer in his refusal to take nourishment.

Whitney, who is 43 years old, is dying at the home of Mrs. Esther Smith, in East Moriches, where he has boarded for many years. For the past forty years he has been totally blind, having lost his sight in a railroad accident. Up to a short time ago he has always seemed cheerful.

On Monday night Mrs. Smith heard him moving about in his room. At daylight, however, the room was empty. Whitney was found in a clump of bushes in the garden, groaning with pain. He had swallowed a large dose of chloral.

BLACK HAND AGENT

WAS ROUTED BY MAN WHO SAT IN WAIT

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Despite the fact that Vincenzo Valentine, let it be known to the "black hand," that they would meet with a warm reception if they attempted to carry out their threat to place a bomb under his home, at 224 East One Hundred and Fourteenth street, a man, presumably a member of the extorting band, sought to test Valentine's assertion. As a result he met a volley of shots which sent him back to his companions with the declaration that Valentine "meant business."

As was told Tuesday, the Valentine home resembles a frontier blockhouse. Behind the closed shutters during every minute of the day there is an armed member of the household. At night the guard is doubled.

Everything went along peacefully until early yesterday morning, when one of the guards saw a man acting suspiciously across the street. A watchful eye was kept on the stranger. Presently he sought to enter the house. Four shots were fired at him. None of them hit their mark, but they served their purpose.

As a result of the visit of the strange man, extra police guards have been placed around the house, to see that no more attempts are made to harm Valentine. But despite the police guards, the family's vigil has not been relaxed.

BULLET IN BRAIN

GIRL OF NINE YEARS FOUND DEAD

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Josephine Nagel, nine years old, was found yesterday afternoon dead in her yard at 349 Linden street, Williamsburg. The child was thought to have fallen from the fire escape of her home. No one heard her cries. Dr. Jaeger was called from the German hospital.

An examination showed that, instead of a fall, Josephine's death was due to a bullet that had lodged in her brain. Detective Woodie of the Hamburg street station went with the doctor and searched the little girl's house. In the yard they found a target with several bullets identical to the one taken from the child's head. They discovered that her brother George, aged 12, had a rifle and had been shooting in the afternoon. Since the death of the girl George had not been seen.

EMERGENCY RAUONS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Alaska has not yet recovered from the effects of the volcanic eruption of Mount Katmai in June and the federal government will be obliged to furnish emergency rations and supplies to many people for some time to come. The people of Kodiak need the quickest aid. Their vegetable crops were ruined. Secretary MacVane has ordered ten tons of potatoes from Seattle to prevent starvation breaking out among the inhabitants.

MAN TOO TALL

TO GET INTO CELL IN MELROSE JAIL

MELROSE, Aug. 15.—The tallest man ever arrested in the police station. So tall is he that the cot or even the cell itself is not long enough for him, and as he lies there his feet stick out through the grating in the cell door.

The man's name is Fred B. Pratt and he gives Lynn as his home. He is 35 years old and 7 feet 2 inches tall. Five years ago he was arrested in Melrose on a charge of drunkenness, but at the time he was allowed to go because he said he had not been arrested before for a year.

Later, however, the Melrose police learned that he had been arrested on the same charge only a few days before, so they got out a warrant and have had their eyes out for him ever since.

Last night he was arrested on Main street by Patrolmen Heaton, Pierce and Hanley, and they had their hands full to march him the half mile to the police station. There the cells are only six feet high, and as Pratt refused to bend his head, the patrolmen had to get assistance from Special Officer Kinness. The four men had all their could do to crowd him through the cell door.

He was arraigned in the Malden court today on the old warrant and on a new charge.

CONDUCTED BY POLICE

He is Accused of Larceny of Funds

WORCESTER, Aug. 15.—The police are searching for John W. L. Bryce of 151 Belmont street, a former bookkeeper in the main bank of the Worcester Trust company. Chief Matthews is authority for the statement that Bryce is wanted on the charge of larceny of a considerable sum of money from the bank.

The search follows the arraignment in the district court yesterday of R. Allen Norton, another former bookkeeper of the company, on a charge of the larceny of $365. This case was placed on file as counsel for the bank and for Norton told the court that Norton was a dummy of Bryce. It was explained that Norton was not guilty of taking the amount alleged, but falsified his accounts so that Bryce got away with the money.

His counsel said that Norton was under obligations to Bryce for small loans. Some time ago Bryce, who had an account in the bank, overdraw his deposits by eight cents. Norton informed him of it and Bryce made that good. It is claimed that Bryce said he did not have that much with him at the time, but promised to bring it in the morning.

Instead of making good he showed Norton how he could manipulate his figures so the shortage would not show through Bryce's account. It is charged that Bryce, once he had Norton in his power, used him to check out a considerable sum of money.

Norton disappeared from Worcester. He was captured in Edgarton on Aug. 4 and brought back to Worcester. The bank officials had been given to understand that Norton was the principal in the case, but an investigation since his return shows them that he was not.

His relatives and friends made good the shortage in his accounts.

Bryce has disappeared and it is reported at his home that he has not been there for several days. The warrant for his arrest was issued at the request of the company that was on his bond. While the bank officials will not say how much is missing through his alleged manipulation, it is reported that the shortage is about $2500.

CASEY AND HORSE KILLED DURING LIGHTNING STORM

ATTLEBORO, Aug. 15.—During a heavy thunder shower yesterday afternoon lightning struck a horse and wagon driven by John J. Casey of Plainville, in Seconk, killing both Mr. Casey and the horse.

Mr. Casey and his wife and two children had attended the clambake at the Rehoboth church at Rehoboth and were on their way home when overtaken by the storm. They drove into the yard at the farm of Charles E. Allen, near Bakers corner. All had left the wagon and were about to seek shelter in Mr. Allen's house when there was a terrific crash of thunder. Mr. Casey was struck by the bolt of lightning and fell dead on the ground.

Mr. Allen, Mrs. Casey and the two children, who were standing near, were stunned to a certain extent, though none were rendered unconscious.

Medical Examiner Holden of Attleboro viewed the body of Mr. Casey. The victim was about 40 years old. For several years he had conducted an overland express business between the Attleboros and Providence.

HOSPITAL TAKES FIRE—DAMAGE AT NORTH WEYMOUTH ABOUT $2000

WEYMOUTH, Aug. 15.—A severe thunder storm passed over Weymouth between 5 and 6 yesterday afternoon. Lightning shattered a large tree near the Hunsb grammar school on Broad street, Weymouth landing, and struck the town hall at East Weymouth, the only damage being the displacement of a few shingles on the roof.

The electrically caused a short circuit of the wires in Weymouth hospital on East street, North Weymouth, and the building took fire.

The roof of the attic destroyed. The fire was confined to that portion of the building, which is of two stories. The damage by fire, smoke and water is estimated at about $2000.

STORM HITS DEDHAM—LIGHT- NING STRIKES IN SEVERAL PLACES

DEDHAM, Aug. 15.—A severe thunder storm visited Dedham shortly before 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon and during its two-hour stay caused considerable damage. Lightning struck in several places. It struck a stable on the estate of J. W. Clark, corner of East and Auburn streets, causing damage of $500.

The house of Moody Potter on Wilton avenue was also struck, the bolt entering a kitchen window and ripping off considerable plaster.

A bolt struck the roof of the house occupied by William Murphy at the corner of Highland and Bates streets. It tore the shingles from a bedroom and going down the side of the house knocked off clapboards, ripped the screening on the kitchen door and caused other damage to the kitchen, the total damage being about $200.

A big tree on Washington street near Vine street was also struck. The fire alarm service was put out of commission, as was the electric light service. Many telephones failed to work and car service on the Westwood and East Walpole lines was interrupted.

CHILDREN STUNNED—SHATTERED CHIMNEY PASSES THROUGH ROOM OF HOUSE

QUINCY, Aug. 15.—A short but vicious thunder storm passed over this city about 5 yesterday afternoon. A bolt of lightning struck a small barn on the estate of John Rose, Center street, West Quincy. The blaze was extinguished by a hand chemical from house 3.

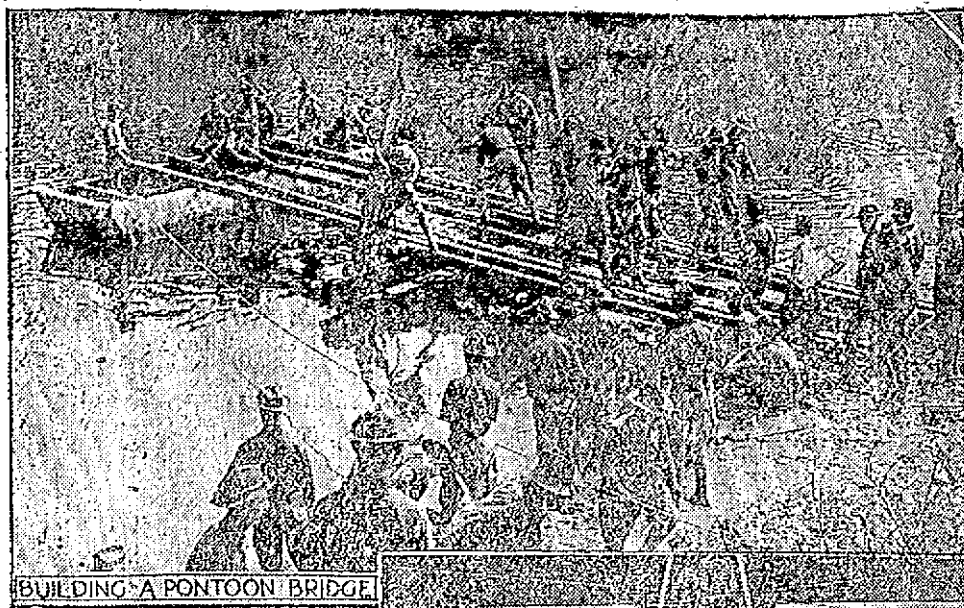

The house of A. N. LaBrecque, Adams street, was struck, and the chimney was shattered, while a hole was torn through the roof. Nobody was home at the time. Across lots on Albatross road a bolt of lightning entered the kitchen of the house of Daniel Worster, Mrs. Worster was overcome by the shock.

The chimney on the house of William H. Shaw, Sea avenue, Houghton neck, was shattered. Two little children playing in one of the rooms through which the chimney passed were stunned for a few minutes.

A bolt went into the Tubular River works in Wollaston, where hundreds of young women are employed. The bolt followed a wire in and burnt out a gong connected with the wire. The girls were greatly frightened, but no one was injured.

BUILDING A PONTOON BRIDGE

STRATFORD, Conn., Aug. 15.—The work of the army aviation squadron and of the engineers' corps is among the most interesting features of the maneuvers being held in this section. Lieuts. Foulis and Milling, U. S. A., have made a number of flights in the new double control biplane. They carried many making apparatus, and while one operated the machine the other obtained records of the positions and movements of the troops. The military authorities are highly pleased with the results as absolutely demonstrating the practicability of the aeroplane as a war scout. Why the engineers' branch of the service ranks high was demonstrated in the construction of a light pontoon bridge with which they spanned the Housatonic river, enabling the troops to push across with little delay after the theoretical destruction of Zoar bridge by the opposing force.

FUR UNION HEADS CALLED SMUGGLERS

Summons Out for the Labor Leaders

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Following several sensational affidavits by Assistant District Attorney Dr. Ford yesterday, Chief Magistrate McAdoo in the Tombs court yesterday issued summonses for Abraham Salkin and Joseph Margolies, both officials of the Furriers' union.

The affidavits charge that the two men employed gangsters to intimidate date workmen who refused to strike. Several of the affidavits are signed by men who allege they were hired by the two union officials to slug workmen. One of the self-confessed slugs gave as far as to charge that Lieutenant O'Connor, of the Fifth street station was present when he received instructions to continue the tactics of intimidation.

Joseph Cohen, who lives in No. 52 Cathedral Parkway, and conducts the Star Fur Manufacturing company, in his affidavit alleges that the labor leaders, in order to compel the furriers to quit work, hired "strong arm" men.

Samuel Goldstein, of No. 23 Stuyvesant place, said in his affidavit that he led a gang to the establishment of Clark & Weisberger, at Fifth avenue and Fifth street, and compelled one hundred men and women to desert their work. Albert Tannebaum, of No. 124 Second avenue, swore that after he had been engaged to help out the union by knocking out the men who stuck to their jobs, he was taken to the Fifth street police station and there introduced to Lieutenant O'Connor. In the presence of the policeman, Tannebaum said, he was instructed how to go about his work.

Both Goldstein and Tannebaum gave details of a dozen or more assaults. They say they got their orders from the headquarters of the union, at No. 64 Fourth street. They assert they received $250 a day. They give the nicknames of several others who worked with them in the "strong arm" squad. They are known as "the Iceman," "Jack the Candy Kid," also "Big" and "Little Louie" and "Kid Hauck."

George Mulqueen, a special deputy sheriff, living at No. 34 Hicks street, Brooklyn, was attacked by striking furriers last night in West Twenty-eighth street when he and Ross Bliss, another sheriff, were escorting a number of strikebreakers to the Sixth avenue elevated station. During the altercation Mulqueen was stabbed in the elbow. Louis Cohen, twenty-two years old, a furrier, of No. 65 Columbia street, was arrested. Abraham Klein, twenty-one years old, of No. 300 Second street, was booked up on a charge of felonious assault.

RECORD PRICE

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—Steers reached the highest price ever paid on the Chicago exchange yesterday, when a load of Indian corn-fed Herefords sold at $16.50 a hundred weight. A number of steers were sold for $10 or better.

Their class of stock is now at the highest level ever reached here. Sellers are of the opinion that prime steers will reach $11 before there is any check.

WM. S. McNARY CHOSEN CHAIRMAN OF THE HAR- BOR BOARD

BOSTON, Aug. 15.—The state harbor and land board organized yesterday with the election of ex-Congressman William S. McNary of South Boston as chairman, in place of George E. Smith of Swampscott.

Mr. McNary is Gov. Foss's most recent appointee on this board, he having displaced Gen. Samuel M. Mansfield of Boston several weeks ago. Since that time Mr. McNary has been abroad, making a tour of foreign ports in connection with his duties as a member of the board of directors of the port of Boston, and the meeting of the board yesterday was the first meeting which he has attended since Mr. McNary became a member.

As a result of his election to the chairmanship of the state board, Mr. McNary becomes, ex-officio, a member of the board of directors of the port of Boston. From this latter office he will receive a salary of $100 a year, and an additional $600 is to be paid to him as chairman of the harbor and land board, making his total salary $1400.

The board also selected Frederick N. Wake as secretary and executive officer, a position which he has held for several years.

SENTENCED TO JAIL MAN TRIED TO PROVE WIFE STOLE MUFF

BOSTON, Aug. 15.—Throwing a muff he had stolen over a fence of the house where his wife lived that she might appear a thief was Joseph E. Wilson's way of getting back at her for refusing to support him.

Wilson is 35 years old, at present has no home, is more than six feet in height and weighs over 200, while his wife, Anna Wilson, is small, frail and thin, and tries to eke out a living by stitching.

She went to 199 Shawmut avenue to live and do housework. Her husband, learning she was there, for several days and nights threw stones at the back door and pebbles at the windows. She complained to the police, who advised her not to have the husband arrested, but talked with him and tried to make him see his naughtiness.

Therefore Wilson one afternoon hurled a muff of fine hock fur over the fence at 430 Shawmut avenue into the yard. Luckily Anna Wilson, looking out of the window, saw the muff come over the fence and fall into the yard. She also saw her husband scampering away.

Officer Charles A. Ochs of the East Dedham street police station discovered that Wilson had stolen the muff and a neckpiece from Sara Campbell, at 23 Gray street, where his wife used to live, and had pawned the neckpiece. Judge Wentworth sentenced Wilson to the Charles street jail for four months.

CANCER GERM

PARIS, Aug. 15.—Prof. Matruel of the chair of botany at the Sorbonne and Dr. Lannois of the Paris school of medicine, yesterday corroborated Dr. Gaston Odine's statement that they have verified his discovery of the cancer microbe and of a vaccine which they believe will prevent the disease and even cure not too far advanced cases of it.

The Paris medical world has heard so many similar announcements, however, in which it has subsequently been disappointed that it declines to become enthusiastic until Dr. Odine definitely proves his claims.

RESCUED FRIEND BROCKTON MAN PROVED HIM- SELF A HERO

NANTASKET, Aug. 15.—To the bravery and courage of his host, John Burke, Leo Monks, of 201 Copeland street, Brockton, owes his life. Monks was visiting Burke, also of Brockton, at the latter's cottage at Nantasket. Together the two went in swimming on the beach.

Monks was several hundred feet from the shore when he was suddenly seized with a cramp and went down. He came to the surface again and was seen by Burke, who was further in. As Monks sank again Burke swam out to him and reached him as he was going down for the third time. After a desperate struggle Burke managed to drag his exhausted friend to the beach, where he was revived by the life savers.

MAN CURED OF PARALYSIS WHILE PRAYING IN CHURCH

At Elevation of the Host the Stricken Man Recovered Use of Limbs

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—For more than three months—ever since he was stricken with paralysis in his office last April—the family of Patrick Jones, superintendent of supplies for the board of education, had offered daily prayers for his recovery.

The devout wife, with her three daughters and two sons, choose as the special recipient of their pleadings the spirit of Saint Rita, "the Saint of the Impossible," to whom the hopeless of many centuries have made supplication.

Even while the condition of the husband and father grew daily grave, even after he had lost the use of his limbs and had to be wheeled about in a chair, the family in devoted faith continued to ask the miracle.

Dr. Alexander Strong, of No. 267 West Fifty-second street, attended the patient regularly, but he found no warrant for encouraging the wife and children to hope for his recovery. In fact, all but those nearest and dearest to him believed that Mr. Jones could never be cured.

The Miracle Performed

His own faith remained firm throughout his months of suffering and helplessness. On the first Friday of this month he insisted on attending the mass in the church of St. Rose of Lima, at Rockaway beach. He had to be almost carried into the office from his chair after the slow trip from his summer home on Oceanus avenue.

Among his beloved ones, who were on their knees, he sat with bowed head at the elevation of the host. He could not kneel.

The priest slowly lifted the holy wafer of the body of Christ. And in that instant the wife of the sick man felt him lean forward and sink gently to his knees.

A sudden fear seized her and the daughters. But as they saw him slowly bow his head upon his hands, their fear changed to joy that was mingled with awe.

The prayer ended, they moved to lift him to his seat. But to their amazement he raised himself with little effort. At the end of the service, he arose and walked unaided from the church.

Has Steadily Improved

Astonished friends surrounded him and clasped his hand. His happy family made him ride home in the wheel chair, but when he had arrived he insisted on walking about the house. Each day since then he has taken longer and longer walks, and is quite able to go about alone.

Dr. Strong went out Sunday to see his patient more for old friendship's sake than with any hope of aiding him. He nearly fell off the steps of the car at the Holland station, for there, smiling and calling a greeting, was Mr. Jones, who had come down to meet him.

Sister Rita of Cascia in Italy was famed in the middle ages for the miracles said to have been brought about by her intercession—especially the healing of the stricken.

As a woman, she had taken holy orders after the murder of her husband and the death of her children. She died in the Augustinian convent of Cascia in 1486. It was in Spain itself, because of the many miracles recorded in her name, she received the title of La Santa de los imposibles.

She was canonized on May 24, 1900. And thus the present case becomes unique as representing to the many who believe in the occult intervention of holy power, a modern miracle by a modern saint.

TWYFORD'S SUICIDE IS SAID TO BE DUE TO GAMBLING LOSSES

PARIS, Aug. 15.—Instructions were received at Aix les Bains yesterday to bury the body of Albert Twyford of New York in the public cemetery there in a lot purchased by Arnold Chenoy & Co. of 31 Mincing lane, London, acting on behalf of friends in America.

Twyford's suicide is now known to have been the result of heavy losses in the Casino. He had been playing and losing heavily for several days, but the crisis came the day King George of Greece paid his first visit to the Casino.

The gambling place was crowded with well known Americans, and Twyford, playing more recklessly than usual, lost all he had. He tried to borrow, but failed. Then, in a dazed condition, he wandered off by the banks of the River Allier and put three bullets in his head.

There he was found last Wednesday, brought back to the hospital and placed in the wing built by J. Pierpont Morgan. The best that medical aid could do was done for him, as Americans are very popular in Aix owing to Mr. Morgan's generosity to the Alpine town, but he never recovered consciousness.

He was egged on to play by numerous well dressed women who frequent such places. On the night in question he was an easy victim, as he had dined well.

STANDS BY HUSBAND WIFE WILLING TO BEAR HER TROUBLES

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—"When I married him it was for better or worse. The way things turned out it was for worse, but I believe that I should bear my troubles and hope for the best." Mrs. Lawrence Pfeiffer, of No. 18 Linden street, Maspeth, made this statement to Magistrate Leach yesterday in the police court at Flushing, where she was summoned as a witness against her husband, who was accused of shooting and seriously wounding her on May 11.

Mrs. Pfeiffer lost the sight of her left eye from the bullet and her jaw is paralyzed. At the present time she is being fed with a tube.

Her husband, who is a printer, walked twenty miles to the Nassau county jail at Mineola to give himself up after the shooting.

After explaining that she did not think her marriage vows would permit her to testify against her husband, she became a reluctant witness, and proceeded to relate her story in a faint whisper, owing to her injuries.

She testified that she was with her husband in the dining room of their home when the shot was fired. But she would not admit that he fired the shot, although on cross-examination she admitted that she saw a revolver in his hand.

The husband was held for the grand jury.

FOOT BROKEN MAN FIRED AT WOMAN TO SHOW HIS SKILL

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—A man, who was overheard by several women to declare that he could, with a revolver, shoot the heels from the shoes of passing pedestrians without injuring them, was last night by detectives from the East 104th street police station on the charge of having fired a shot from the vestibule of 171 East 99th street, which lodged in the right foot of Miss Rebecca Sussman, 18 years old, of 16 East 108th street.

In the reception hospital, where Miss Sussman was later taken, it was said the bullet was of large calibre, and would be extracted with difficulty. It was the opinion of physicians that several bones in the young woman's foot had been broken.

According to the story told by the women, an Italian appeared in the vestibule of the East 99th street tenement a few minutes before Miss Sussman passed on her way home. He flourished, they said, a revolver in the faces of several children, who were playing in the street and laughed heartily when the youngsters, panic-stricken, fled.

OWES BOSTON FIRM

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—Examination of the schedule of liabilities aggregating more than $1,500,000 filed in the United States district court yesterday by Franklin A. Umsted, who listed only $100 in assets, although he sought to organize a $15,000,000 steel company, disclosed that he alleges that he is indebted to the amount of $225,000 to the Union Trust company of Boston.

Umsted sought to combine independent steel companies to fight the United States Steel corporation. His venture was incorporated in 1903 under the laws of Maine. The attempt failed, and memory of it was revived by the filing of the petition for judicial relief from the enormous debt.

"PODGE" MURPHY WON SWIM

Went From Lowell to Lawrence in 4 Hours and 33 Mins.

Over five hundred people assembled at the Centralville bridge this morning to witness the start of the swim from that point to Lawrence, to settle the claim of champion of Lowell. Though it was expected that many would enter the contest, when the starting time arrived there were but two entrants. These were Podge Murphy and Eddie McCormack and while both would much prefer to have a larger number in the race they were in fine fettle. The two swimmers arrived at the bridge at 7.45 o'clock and went under the bridge to the "dressing room" and donned their aquatic costumes.

Each then posted $10 with the sporting editor of The Sun, who acted as starter and stake holder. After receiving a sperm oil rubbing, the Lowell water performers pronounced that they were ready. The start was made at just 8.10 and when the swimmers plunged into the water they were accorded a great cheer. Murphy took the lead and while they continued side by side, for some distance, Podge pulled away from his opponent when Stanley's dance hall was reached and he increased his lead, finishing way ahead of McCormack. He reached the water station at Lawrence at just 12.13 o'clock, and ex-Alderman Daly was at the finishing point with the watch. At that time McCormack was not in sight, but it was learned that he was still in the water and would continue to the end.

"PODGE" MURPHY

Murphy was in excellent condition after the stunt and after receiving a rub down, boarded a car for home and collected the twenty bucks. He said, "Now I claim the title of champion of Lowell and think that I am justified in doing so. Everyone had a chance to enter and while McCormack was the only opponent I had, I am of the opinion that all others were afraid to compete and I still stand ready to defend my claim."

Murphy then paid a high tribute to

McCormack, his opponent, saying that for quite a distance down the stream the latter gave him a good tussle to collect the twenty bucks. He said, "I defeated one of Lowell's best men by winning from Mack."

The time made by Murphy was exceptionally fast, being just four hours and thirty-three minutes. With an official record of former matches he is known to local authorities on swimming.

WOMAN WINS WILL SUIT

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—The will of Alexander Rubel of 5 East Fifty-fourth street, who died at Glen Springs, N. She will get a larger share of the estate than she would have had under the will.

Mr. Rubel executed his will on June 9, 1908, and a codicil on June 9 last, by which he left his wife a trust fund of $150,000 with the provision that if she remarried the income would cease. The rest of the estate was divided among two sons and one daughter.

He is doing more to out the locals from first place than anyone else, but it seems to the writer that if a good stiff fine were tacked onto him he would be made to realize that he is out there to play ball. Briggs for the past week has been in a terrible batting slump, and when he does not get them safe, there's war in the air. If he does not hit them safe now he positively refuses to run to first base, and this was the cause of allowing Haverhill to make an easy double play yesterday and cheat the home team of a possible run. But Briggs didn't care for that apparently. The individual record of Joe Briggs is more to him than the standing of the Lawrence team in the race. Briggs is in all probability getting as much money as any player on the local team this year, but he is not carrying half of what he is getting. During a game he comes to bat on an average of four times. This is four times a day, and it seems as if his "exercise" off the field could not tire him to such an extent that he could not run to first base, a distance of 90 feet, at least four times each day."

JOE PATCHEN WAS BEATEN
AT THE BUFFALO MEETINGKnight Onwardo Turned Trick
—The Favorite Lost in the 2.17 Trot

BUFFALO, Aug. 15.—The Grand Circuit program raced at the Fort Erie track yesterday afternoon was one of the longest seen in the big ring this season, requiring 17 heats to decide the four races. It was featured by the defeat of the supposedly invincible Joe Patchen II, the Winnipeg pacer, which up to yesterday had won six straight races in as many weeks without the loss of even a single heat and is the leading money winner of the season.

Patchen's colors were lowered yesterday, however, by another Canadian, Knight Onwardo, driven by the ex-steeplechase rider, Nat Ray.

There was a six-heat race which brought about all sorts of complications, among which was the fling of the New England trainer, Walter Cox, $200 on the charge of not trying in the first heat, the judges afterwards announcing that they believed they had made a mistake and would recommend that the board of review remit the fine.

A big crowd came out to see the race for the $5000 stake for 2.13 pacers. It was generally believed that Joe Patchen II. would have a very easy time in beating the field. In the auction he sold for $15 against $15 for the field, and plenty of speculators played him at the ridiculous odds. He acted badly in scoring, but got away pacing and took the lead, never being headed in the first heat, which he won from Grand Opera in 2.04.

Going away in the second heat, Patchen II. made a bad break and dropped back to last place before he recovered. In spite of this handicap, Fleming drove him for the heat. He paced the half in 59ths and collared Knight Onwardo, but the hard drive took most of the pace out of him and he was unable to beat the little horse in the stretch away flying in the third heat and had the track to himself entering the back stretch, leading easily to the upper turn, where he suddenly broke and dropped to the rear. Knight Onwardo going to the front and easily beating Grand Opera in 2.17.

In the fourth heat Patchen was well back when they were sent off, but paced very fast on the outside and had them all beaten in the stretch except Knight Onwardo. Again the long mile told and in a whipping finish he was able only to get to the saddle of the little stallion. The winner is owned by J. E. Gray, a retired banker of Toronto.

Annie Kohl, driven by Walter Cox on account of the sickness of her regular driver, Carpenter, was an even money favorite over the field for the 2.17 trotting stake.

The first heat was one of those joke affairs, Queen Worthy leading all the way and winning in the ridiculous time of 2.14, the favorite finishing sixth. She broke and acted badly generally in the second heat, which was won by Dorsh Medium in 2.10. Previous to the start of this heat, Queen Worthy had been drawn on account of lameness.

Cox took Annie Kohl away flying in the third heat and led all the way, winning in 2.07. Immediately Cox was fined $200 for not trying in the first heat. He was leading in the fourth mile when Geers got to him with Dorsh Medium and Annie Kohl left her feet, the heat going to Geers' mare. In the fifth heat she stayed trotting and beat Dorsh Medium in a driving finish. She broke in the final heat when she appeared to have it won, and Dorsh Medium landed the race.

The judges then announced that after questioning the drivers they had discovered that Annie Kohl had made a break in the first heat and would recommend to the board of review that the fine be remitted.

Cheney Distances Gordon Todd The Teasars are Cheney, a strong favorite, although she has not won 2 in the grand circuit this season, won the 2.10 trot. In the first heat she got in a pocket and finished third to Gordon Todd in 2.07, but after that was in the clear at all times and easily beat the field, distancing Gordon Todd in the final heat.

The first race for 2.14 pacers, was easy for the Denver gelding, Denver Jay. Cox's mare, Myrtle Baron, was well played, but was unsteady and

A FAST BOUT

WALSH AND BRANNIGAN FOUGHT

A DRAW

BOSTON, Aug. 15.—Coming fast in the last three rounds, Patsey Brannigan, the Pittsburgh youngster, overcame a big lead that Jimmie Walsh had secured, and earned a draw decision in the main bout at the Piliat A. A. last night. The bout was fast throughout, and the champion fought in his old-time, easy style, piling up round after round in his favor, until the eighth, when the tide suddenly turned, and the Pittsburgh youngster made the old-time clinch to save himself from a steady stream of rights and lefts that were showered upon him.

Walsh was slowed up materially in the fifth and sixth, and was confused by the shifty style of the visitor, who landed some hard blows in the region of the heart, and kept his opponent ducking to cover up. The last round was nearly even, with Brannigan always coming in for more and swapping blows at every opportunity. Walsh was clearly the better boxer, but could not seem to get across any blows that would stop Brannigan for a minute.

The semi-final bout proved a fine one and a hard battle, the clever protegee of Matty Baldwin, had his hands full in winning the decision over Battling Terry of Newcastle, Pa. in ten rounds of hard fighting. Gallant was better at in-fighting, but he found Terry a good game and the possessor of a wicked left jab that he worked considerably.

The first bout was a grueling affair between George Robinson of Cambridge and Joe Nelson of Lawrence. Robinson was awarded the decision after the two men had fought evenly for eight rounds, in the last two, with both boxers badly cut up and weak, Robinson got in some telling jolts that made Nelson hold on desperately. Robinson forced the fighting and gained his lead in the last two rounds. There was little boxing done, both men trying to land a haymaker throughout.

After the main bout the fans were given a chance to see the fight films of the Wolgast-Rivers scrap. They were rather unsatisfactory in that the final round, with the double knockout, was not to be seen clearly, and the majority went away none the wiser as to whether the referee's decision in giving the bout to Wolgast was a just one or not.

GAMBLING CASES
THROWN OUT FOR LACK OF EVIDENCE

the court of special sessions by Detective Hermann Schwartz, recently of Becker's strong arm squad, were thrown out yesterday for lack of evidence by Judges Collins, Forker and McInerney, sitting jointly.

In one case, the evidence was based upon the activities of "John Player" who had disposed of $5 of money among a number of other Johns, "Bartender," "sheetwriter," etc., in a saloon in West Thirti-seventh street

"John Player" had made the bet for him and knew all about the place, Schwartz told the judges. There was mention of Latona, and a horse named Jimmy Gill.

"Where is this man?" snapped Judge McInerney.

"I don't know, but I could identify him if I saw him," said Schwartz.

"Do you mean to say you are building your whole case upon this man and he is not here?" snorted the judge, and forthwith Thomas Stewart, in whose name the liquor tax certificate was made out, and Patrick Clark found themselves discharged.

A witness named Fleming testified

The other case concerned July 9 and horses named Golden Shower and Auto Run, on which Schwartz said he had personally placed $5 and $10 respectively. Both lost when they came to run in Ford's stable.

"You are a very rickety witness," remarked Judge Forker. "You are not positive about anything." So Defendants William Lippe, Leo Ross and Andy Collins were discharged.

Gill, author, manager, producer and leading man of "The Devil, the Servant and the Man," was in court to be identified. He said he was formerly dramatic editor of the Washington Post.

Mrs. Gill testified that they were married seven years ago. Adele La Pierre, 18 years old, an ice skater, told of an affinity and incidentally qualified as a handwriting expert. Some of the letters to this alleged affinity were produced and were identified by her.

STEAMER NOT IN DANGER

MONROVIA, Jan. 15.—A steamer

STONELAZAR, who received today from the Marconi station at Campdown, N. S., said the steamer Erie, which ran ashore yesterday off Sable Island, was in no immediate danger, but her position would be perilous in the event of a storm. The Erie is owned by Turnbull Bros. of Cardiff.

The largest party of immigrants to arrive in this city for some time came here this morning. The visitors came from the old country via New York and Fall River, taking the boat from the Metropolis to the latter city. There they boarded the boat train and continued directly to Lowell, reaching this city at 8.10 this morning.

There were sixty-five in the party, with but two women. The remaining members of the party were men well along in years. They attracted considerable attention, owing to the unique manner in which they were attired, and also for the large assortment of traveling bags that they carried.

All trains carried their complete capacity today, and especially heavy was the baggage, but the latter was capably handled by the employees of the baggage department.

The 10:33 train was 15 minutes late and the 9:56 train 18 minutes behind.

A number of new cards, pertaining to the weighing, checking and recording of baggage were received at the local station this morning with the order that they be conspicuously posted.

Passenger Agent A. B. Smith and state that all persons doing business with the baggage department must have their parcels at the depot a reasonable time before the starting time of the trains.

Rosenthal, denied to his counsel yesterday that he had ever possessed the sum of $35,845 credited to his name or that of his wife in various New York banks. District Attorney Rosen yesterday obtained from the official records of the Chelsea Exchange bank records showing that the police officer had deposited $3500 in that institution during April, bringing the recorded total of Becker deposits up to $62,345.

The securing of this record was another result of the aid which had been promised by powerful banking interests in the district attorney's efforts to expose blackmail in the police force, the bankers having promised to furnish him with the amounts of deposits of any high police official whom he suspected of collecting graft.

The prosecutor heard also yesterday of still another deposit of $500 which was recently withdrawn by Becker's wife. Four more banks are to be heard from. Mr. Whitman had originally intended to subpoena the officials of these banks as witnesses, but this is no longer necessary, as it is understood that the officials have acquiesced in the request made to them by leading members of the clearing house to aid the district attorney in every way.

Rosenthal's alleged slayers will be brought to trial by the district attorney without delay. His present plan is to try them separately and to begin the first trial in September. Lieut. Becker will, probably be the last to be tried.

Mr. Whitman believes that he has an easy case against "Dago Frank" Chronin and "Whitey" Lewis, two of the alleged actual murderers, and that their conviction will be but a matter of a few days.

Transfer Louis Libby
Louis Libby, part owner of the murder car, was transferred yesterday from the Tombs to the West Side prison, where he will be in company with "Jack" Rose, "Bridget" Webster and Harry Wallon, who have confessed their part in the crime. With Shapiro, his partner, who the district attorney believes has not been telling the whole truth, will remain in the Tombs practically in solitary confinement.

Shapiro has said that he was unable to identify the members of the alleged "crew," although the assistant district attorney, Morse, has testified that Shapiro took a part in the management some months ago of an East Side gang dance for which "Lefty" Louis was one of the dance committee and where at least one other of the "crew" was. The district attorney thinks that Shapiro's confinement away from the influence of his partner, will help to refresh his memory. Mr. Morse, however, found two more eye-witnesses to the murder yesterday, making six who are able to identify the men who fired the shots.

Expected Seven Indictments

In response to a telegram from Assistant District Attorney R. G. Rubin, Mr. Whitman wired last night to the authorities in Hot Springs a description of his representative in order that they might be satisfied that he is the proper person to whom they should deliver Sam Schepps, snider, arrest there as a material witness.

Mr. Whitman said he had no objection if Rubin allowed Schepps to remain there until the arrival of his counsel. Bernard Sandler, should Schepps, however, refuse to return voluntarily, steps would be taken. Whitman intimated to inform him in order that he would be extradited.

The district attorney made his statement regarding Schepps before news reached today, it is expected that Schepps had consented to return with Rubin.

The grand jury did not meet yesterday, but after hearing additional witnesses tomorrow, it is expected that seven indictments will be handed down.

WIFE OF SCHEPPS SAYS HE TOLD HER TO STARVE TO DEATH

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Leona Schepps, wife of Samuel Schepps, alleged paymaster of the men who murdered Herman Rosenfeld, charged her husband with being "universally cruel and abusive" in the action for separation she brought against him in the supreme court. Justice Gavegan awarded her $10 a week alimony and $50 counsel fees last July.

Mrs. Schepps stated in her complaint that she was married in October, 1905, and had lived in divers places by reason of her husband's unsettled and roving disposition. The first six months of their married life they resided at No. 912 E. 14th ave., Brooklyn. In this house Mrs. Schepps repeatedly and constantly requested Mr. Schepps to enter some legitimate business. He wholly refused to do so, stating he could not make money working in the millinery business.

In 1908 Schepps was offered a position by one Geschert as salesman of picture frames. He became a salesman at a salary of $65 a week and traveled through Canada, British Columbia and the western part of the United States. Mrs. Schepps went with him.

Lost His Money in West
In June, 1909, they returned to New York. The following October Schepps went west again and in December, 1909, settled in Los Angeles with his wife. He remained there nine months and he told what money he had.

After Mrs. Schepps came to New York to live with her parents. He sent her from $5 to $8 a week. When he returned to New York last January, Mrs. Schepps told the court in her petition for alimony, he said to her: "I hope you will give me another chance so that we can begin all over again."

Mrs. Schepps replied that she had about lost faith in her husband and that she intended to take $400 that she had and start in the millinery business. She rented an apartment at No. 22 Lenox avenue, fitted it out for $250 and moved there with her father and mother. Schepps paid $10 a week board for a while and for two months contributed $20 a month toward the rent. He gave his wife $150 to help her in the millinery business.

Last April, "without cause or provocation" he became extremely abusive and failed to come home to his meals. He admitted he was again in the gambling business.

At that time, Mrs. Schepps informed the court, "my husband was associating with two men, neither of whom had any visible means of support, and both were alleged to be common gamblers."

Schepps said to his wife late in April: "The gambling business is no good. I have no money. I do not care for you. The best thing for you to do is to get another man. I want a divorce."

He used to come home to sleep, but just before the first of June he packed up all his belongings, except two suits of clothes, and told his wife he didn't intend to return. Mrs. Schepps visited the Harlem Casino about this time and found her husband with another woman. She says he called her vile names and said: "I'll get rid of you. I'd like to kill you."

Mrs. Schepps ran home and her father protected her. Later Schepps came to the house and is alleged to have shouted: "I don't want to live with you. I won't give you a cent. I don't care if you croak."

Mrs. Schepps met him in the street a few days later and asked him for money.

He hoped "She'd Choke."

"I'll give you nothing," Schepps retorted. "I don't care if you starve."

On May 19 Schepps told his wife he'd send her $6 a week.

"But I need money to pay the rent," she complained.

"I don't care if they throw you into the street," his wife asserts her husband answered. "I hope you choke."

At that time, according to Mrs. Schepps, she had in her possession a letter from Geschert, offering Schepps $5 a week and his railroad fare to sell picture frames. Schepps, however, refused, and "continued to associate with gamblers and spend most of his time in fourteenth street. He was frequently in a gambling place there when the police entered the place on a so-called raid."

Mr. Whitman said he had no objection if Rubin allowed Schepps to remain there until the arrival of his counsel. Bernard Sandler, should Schepps, however, refuse to return voluntarily, steps would be taken. Whitman intimated to inform him in order that he would be extradited.

The district attorney made his statement regarding Schepps before news reached today, it is expected that Schepps had consented to return with Rubin.

The grand jury did not meet yesterday, but after hearing additional witnesses tomorrow, it is expected that seven indictments will be handed down.

WIFE OF SCHEPPS SAYS HE TOLD HER TO STARVE TO DEATH

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Leona Schepps, wife of Samuel Schepps, alleged paymaster of the men who murdered Herman Rosenfeld, charged her husband with being "universally cruel and abusive" in the action for separation she brought against him in the supreme court. Justice Gavegan awarded her $10 a week alimony and $50 counsel fees last July.

Mrs. Schepps stated in her complaint that she was married in October, 1905, and had lived in divers places by reason of her husband's unsettled and roving disposition. The first six months of their married life they resided at No. 912 E. 14th ave., Brooklyn. In this house Mrs. Schepps repeatedly and constantly requested Mr. Schepps to enter some legitimate business. He wholly refused to do so, stating he could not make money working in the millinery business.

In 1908 Schepps was offered a position by one Geschert as salesman of picture frames. He became a salesman at a salary of $65 a week and traveled through Canada, British Columbia and the western part of the United States. Mrs. Schepps went with him.

Lost His Money in West
In June, 1909, they returned to New York. The following October Schepps went west again and in December, 1909, settled in Los Angeles with his wife. He remained there nine months and he told what money he had.

After Mrs. Schepps came to New York to live with her parents. He sent her from $5 to $8 a week. When he returned to New York last January, Mrs. Schepps told the court in her petition for alimony, he said to her: "I hope you will give me another chance so that we can begin all over again."

Mrs. Schepps replied that she had about lost faith in her husband and that she intended to take $400 that she had and start in the millinery business. She rented an apartment at No. 22 Lenox avenue, fitted it out for $250 and moved there with her father and mother. Schepps paid $10 a week board for a while and for two months contributed $20 a month toward the rent. He gave his wife $150 to help her in the millinery business.

Last April, "without cause or provocation" he became extremely abusive and failed to come home to his meals. He admitted he was again in the gambling business.

At that time, Mrs. Schepps informed the court, "my husband was associating with two men, neither of whom had any visible means of support, and both were alleged to be common gamblers."

Schepps said to his wife late in April: "The gambling business is no good. I have no money. I do not care for you. The best thing for you to do is to get another man. I want a divorce."

Holden's "O Salutaris." At the close of the mass the choir rendered "A-Vallee's 'O Canada'."

The sermon, a forceful one on the occasion was delivered by Rev. Joseph M. Blais, O. M. I., who spoke of the good derived from Catholic schools.

The ushers at the church were: Edmond A. Desmarais, Eugene Ricard, Henri V. Charbonneau, Esq.; Rodrique E. Jodoin, while the servants at the mass were Emilio Bofdeleau and Arthur L. Enn.

At one o'clock this afternoon the party boarded special electric cars and were conveyed to the spacious grounds of Mr. J. Omer Allard in Hudson, N.

II, the out-of-town guests being taken there in automobiles graciously furnished by Messrs. E. S. Desmarais, Charles E. Bournet, Joseph Martin and Joseph Albert.

A varied list of sports and athletics was gone through, while the feature of the afternoon was a baseball game between two strong teams. Over 40 attractive prizes were awarded the winners and everything was done in a very satisfactory manner to all those present.

Refreshments were served and many old acquaintances were renewed during the afternoon. The closing number of the program was a race between Bro. Priscillanus, who by the way has the record at 250, and another member of the order, whose name is omitted on account of his defeat.

The piece de resistance of the event is the banquet which will be held to-night.

The executive committee which is responsible for the success of the fête is as follows: Rev. Henri Watelle, O. M. I., honorary chaplain; Rev. Julien Racette, O. M. I., chaplain; Rev. Brother Chrysseul, S. M., honorary president; Wolfred P. Caisse, Jr., president; Henri V. Charbonneau, Esq., vice president; Joseph F. Montminy, treasurer; William Trotter, secretary; Edmond S. DARROW TRIAL

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 15.—In order to give more time for the final argument of Clarence Darrow in his own behalf, the Darrow bribery trial was convened one hour and a half earlier than usual today. Darrow was expected to speak until noon, when the time allotted the defense expired, and District Attorney Fredericks was scheduled to begin the concluding argument at the opening of the afternoon session. Darrow declared that the blowing up of the Times building was not the result of a plot to destroy lives, but the result of a plot to destroy lives. He absolved the McNamuras of any guilt of murder. The dynamite was placed there criminally, he said, but with no thought of taking human life. "The explosion stopped the printing press," he said. "Unfortunately there was gas or oil that ignited and the fire destroyed the human lives."

"There never was a man charged with crime," said Darrow, "that I was not sorry for; that I could not find motives that moved his poor, weak brain, and I tell you today there will come a time when crimes will disappear, but it will never come by building jails and penitentiaries and scaffolds, but by changes in the conditions of life under which men have lived and died."

THE DOUBLE BOTTOMED LINER

The Titanic disaster will result in stouter vessels, more precaution for safety in case of accident, more life-boats and stricter regulations so that every official will have to be more attentive to duty. The lesson of the great disaster has led the White Star company to fortify the sister ship, the Gigantic, by a double bottom. This will involve the loss of 250,000 cubic feet of carrying capacity and an increased expense of $350,000; but the increased safety will be worth it all. The change will be an additional safeguard in case of a collision such as proved fatal to the Titanic. The double bottom was tried in the Great Eastern, built in 1859, and for nearly fifty years the largest passenger vessel afloat. In 1901 the double bottom was put to a severe test when the vessel struck submerged rocks at Montauk Point. While a rent eighty feet long and ten feet wide was made in the vessel, she made her way to New York. It is believed that the hole in the Titanic was no bigger than that made in the Great Eastern and that thus the double bottom alone saved the latter.

The principle of the double bottom is applied in the construction of battleships and on various occasions it has proved of great value in keeping vessels afloat. This expensive method of securing greater safety is of more importance than the luxurious appointments of the first cabin and the arrangements for amusement. The passengers will willingly forego the amusement features for the greater guarantee of safety.

CONCORD RIVER A MENACE TO HEALTH

The municipal board on motion of Alderman Cummings voted to authorize the board of health to investigate whether the lower Concord river is dangerous to the public health and to report at the next meeting of the council.

The cleaning up of the Concord river is much needed for at present it is choked with filth and rubbish of every kind. It is hinted even that sewage is finding its way into the river, thus making it little better than an open sewer. As a result of the accumulation of filth an island has been formed above the Rogers street bridge and another below. Neither island has been named but they might well be designated "Mud Islands Nos. 1 and 2." The river is in great need of dredging and has been for years past; but as neither the local nor the state board of health acted in the matter nothing was done.

THE UNACCOUNTABLE WATER SURPLUS

The presence in the city water mains of from 6,000,000 to 10,000,000 gallons a month more than is pumped in must be explained in one of two ways. Either the water enters a conduit between the driven wells and the Sixth street station or else the meters indicating the amount pumped do not accurately measure the work of the pumps. Considering the laws of pressure all the probabilities are against the assumption that this surplus water enters the conduit, unless it is forced in by the pressure of a superimposed mass from above or behind. If this be so, the fact should be easily determined by simple tests. The well known tendency in such cases is leakage outward not inward. We are inclined to believe that the discrepancy is due to some defect in the meters that measure the amount of water pumped at one of the stations.

PRESIDENT TAFT'S VETO OVERRIDDEN

President Taft's veto of the wool tariff bill was overruled in the house by the assistance of republican votes. The president has thus been taught a lesson that he should long remember. But it is now too late. He can carry with him to retirement the report of his tariff board on which he placed such reliance. But the people cannot await the further investigations which Mr. Taft had planned to justify delay. For the last eight years the standpat republicans have fooled the people by promising tariff revision downward and then violating their promises. The national house represents popular sentiment on this question, and it is clearly set against Taft and his standpat supporters. The matter is now put up to the senate which will have an opportunity to go on record on the popular side.

THE AUDACITY OF IT

It is now proposed to have the federal government help Lorimer to pay the expenses of his defense. Lorimer has submitted bills aggregating about $125,000 and some of his friends in the senate have proposed to give him $30,000 or $40,000 to help out.

If Mr. Lorimer had money to purchase an election he should have enough to pay his expenses, or if others purchased his election they should now come to his rescue in helping him to foot the bills.

MOTOR BOAT ACCIDENTS

The motor boat when upset in the water is almost as bad as the aeroplane that refuses to work in the air. In Boston harbor, Sunday, a large party was dumped into the water from a motor boat and a score of people would have been drowned but for the prompt assistance rendered by other crafts close by. The drowning in the Merrimack river Tuesday night as a result of a motor boat hitting a floating log will teach motorists that it is not safe to run at high speed in the darkness.

THE BULL MOOSE TICKET

The Roosevelt party is to put up a full ticket in this state, New Hampshire and wherever else the leaders may deem advisable. This will complicate the election of members of the legislature and of congress, helping to defeat the republican candidates and to break up the republican party. This move on the part of the Bull Moose leaders may help to elect a democratic legislature which might make Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston United States senator.

The tax rate of $19, just ten cents more than last year, is not so bad as it might have been, considering the fact that we have recently been paying a much higher rate. But for the overlays from last year, the rate would have been slightly reduced but that is of slight importance. The loss in poll taxes is quite noticeable and is difficult to explain. Have the people left the city or have the collectors failed to collect?

When the federal commissioner of education finds that seventy-five per cent. of the school children of the country show physical defects likely to impair their health in some degree, the need of thorough medical inspection is apparent.

Seen and Heard

Several natives of Indiana, traveling on a railroad train, differed on the question whether a man born in the state could be distinguished at a glance.

They resolved to put it to a test, going through the train with the champion of the affirmative in command. He paused in the first car and looked at a passenger over narrowly. Then he went up to him and said:

"Weren't you born in Indiana?"

"I know I look that way," was the answer, but I've been sick a long time."

John H. Kimble, secretary of the Farmers' National congress, said the other day at Port Deposit:

"This Fourth of July offers the farmer the prospect of unusually fine crops. Such crops as we may hope to have this year brings to mind an Abe Lincoln story."

"A farmer once told Lincoln a whopper big fib about his hay crop. Lincoln, smiling his melancholy smile, drawled:

"I've been cutting hay, too."

"Good crop?" the farmer asked.

"Fine, very fine," said Lincoln.

"How many tons?"

"Well, I don't know just how many tons," said Lincoln earnestly, "but my men stacked all they could outdoors and then stored the rest in the barn."

In Virginia, the state famous for its oratory, pedigrees and pride, their lives of an old man, who, although rather shy on education himself, appreciates the value of culture in others.

He sent his daughter to a Maryland boarding school where the young ladies are taught everything from arithmetic up to how to manage a gown with a train to it. A few months later he received a letter from the daughter telling him that she was simply infatuated with ping-pong.

That was too much for the old man. He indignantly telegraphed to the principal of the school instructing her never to allow his daughter to associate with a chinaman.

Tom McNeal tells of a Kansas man who stutters badly, who visited Chicago and got into the elevator of one of the sky-scrapers. He worked his jaw frantically, but couldn't get the elevator boy to understand what floor he wanted until he had been carried up fourteen stories above where he wanted to go. Then he came down to the lower floor and started up again.

After he had gone through this performance several times, he stopped out in disgust and hunted up the gent who was directing the running of the elevators.

"S-s-say," he stammered, "W-w-would y-you m-m-mind speak-in' t-to t-th-that f-f-feller in t-th-that cage? I I w-w-wa-wa-wa-dant t-to-st-stop at the s-s-say s-s-sixth h-h-ha-me up t-to t-the t-t-twenty-s-seventh."

White Congressman Wm. Kent was campaigning in the mountains of Mendocino county, California, he stopped at the wayside inn one evening, joined the group of mountaineers round the big fireplace, and listened to the general conversation, which in that section is limited to two topics—sheepdogs and deerhounds.

"The best dog I ever knew," observed one of the old settlers, "was a kind of mixture of bound, shepherd and water spaniel; an' an' Injun owned it."

"The Injun used to make good money, hirin' it out to fellers that come from city a-huntin' deer—gettin' his $3 a day. He'd go long with the dog beat up a canon, jump a deer an' chase it up where the fellers could get a shot at it—the Injun yipin' right long with the dog. After while it got old, an' an' an' couldn't run no more; so the Injun used to hire himself out to do it. He wasn't so fast as the dog, but he was surer, 'cause he savvy'd a little better which way to herd 'em."

"I'd like to see that Injun," observed Kent. "Is he round here?"

"No!" The old man shook his head regretfully. "You see, deer got scarce after while an' the Injun got to classin' jackrabbits—so they had to kill him!"

A SUMMER MEMORY
I am gazing through the humid
Stral, sun-drenched rings,
And a sweet face comes to view 'mid
Ghosts of debts and other things.
Roses grace her white gurgle,
Jewels glister in her hair.
When loud waves upon the shingle
year.

How we danced and swam and boated
In peripheries of bliss!
Into fairy realms we drifted
On the shallop of a kiss.
Every vow we pledged, sad rose,
Now sounds rather sad and drear;
She would be my cat's paw,
So, at least, she said—last year.

Home we met for quince I paid her
"Sweetest, don't shirk of aught,
And the presents that I made her
Gave my purse a doleful twist.
That old phrase "Pestina Lente"
Only brought a joyful twist.
With enchanting sweet and twenty
On the shallop strand—last year.

Now her lineaments grow fainter
As the smoke wreaths clear away,
Memory's such a clumsy painter
Its prevailing hues are gray.
That stray shaft from Cupid's quiver
Men call Love is naught, I fear,
But some trouble with the liver—
'Twas my case, I think—last year.

'Twas my case, I think—last year.

'Twas my case, I think—last year.

'Twas my case, I think—last year.

'Twas my case, I think—last year.

HAVERHILL, Aug. 15.—Following the police have been unable to ascertain. George W. Sherwood, janitor of the building and an uncle of Nickerson's fiancée, maintained that the story he told the newspapermen was true. From another witness, Walter Little, a carpenter, who was at work behind a glass partition in Nickerson's office, however, it was learned exactly what transpired in the private office.

No sooner had the shots been fired than Little climbed up and looked down into the office. He saw Nickerson and Miss Trevor struggling desperately in the middle of the office. She held a smoking revolver tightly clutched in her right hand, which Nickerson was trying to wrest from her. His left hand was bleeding profusely, and as they swayed back and forth, her wrists and dress became smeared with blood.

At this juncture Howard S. Clarke, one of Nickerson's clerks employed in the outer office, entered the private room and caught the woman. While both men sought to disarm her, George M. G. Nichols, a close friend of Nickerson's and a former city solicitor, entered and wrested the gun from her grasp.

Little stepped down before he had an opportunity to observe anything further in the room, and the police were unable to secure any information whatsoever from Nickerson. He refused absolutely to answer the questions which were asked at the investigation, and his counsel, John J. Winn, associate justice of the district court here, who was with him, gave but little information.

The efforts of the police to interrogate Mr. Nichols were balked when that attorney left the city as soon as the news of the investigation became public. He still has the weapon which was used by Miss Trevor in his possession and the police as yet have not seen it.

Despite such delayed activity on the part of the police, however, the citizens here are loud in proclaiming that the case is "bottled up" and that Nickerson and his friends will see that nothing comes of it. Everywhere rumors are current to the effect that a thorough probe into the shooting would result in the uncovering of many episodes involving some of the best known persons of the city.

Already scores of stories are being retold of wine suppers and automobile rides in which Nickerson and his friends participated. One tale that was often heard yesterday related to a difficulty Nickerson had with a woman who at one time acted as his housekeeper. It was declared that this woman became so incensed she frequently threatened to shoot him.

Many stories of Miss Trevor's and her frequent visits to this city were repeated. Also for the first time since the shooting her movements just prior to her meeting with Nickerson became known. She arrived here shortly after 1 o'clock Tuesday morning, going to the Hotel Thorndike. She went immediately to her room and remained there until 11 o'clock, when she went to Willet's restaurant on Main street, and had breakfast. Directly she had finished she walked to Nickerson's office.

A visit Miss Trevor made to Nickerson's house on the evening of Nov. 11 was recalled by City Marshal John J. Mack. Nickerson called police headquarters that night and asked the city marshal to send an officer to his home to elect a woman, stating that he did not wish to have her arrested.

The officer's attempt to make the woman leave was unsuccessful, and Mack went to the Nickerson home himself. He found Miss Trevor there. She refused to go and dared the city marshal to arrest her. After he had talked with her for four hours she finally consented to leave, and he took her to a hotel.

Mack declared that no later than last Friday Miss Trevor called upon him at police headquarters. She talked casually for a time, finally remarking that every visit she made to this city cost her $500. She explained the forfeit was the result of the agreement she entered into with Nickerson at the time her suit for breach of promise was settled out of court.

When he returned with his arm in a sling the astonishment of the crew who had not realized that he had been hurt by his fall was great. Dever was one of the life-savers who aided in the rescue of 19 from Pleasure bay, Sunday, when the motorboat "Pippin" was swamped, and two men were drowned.

SHOULDER BROKEN
LIFE SAVER WAS INJURED IN A FALL

BOSTON, Aug. 15.—With his left shoulder dislocated, and his collarbone broken as a result of slipping on the wharf in his haste to answer an alarm bell yesterday, John Dever, of the City Point Life Saving station, went to supper, and after asking permission of Capt. Stanwood, walked to the Carney hospital, a distance of a mile.

When he returned with his arm in a sling the astonishment of the crew who had not realized that he had been hurt by his fall was great. Dever was one of the life-savers who aided in the rescue of 19 from Pleasure bay, Sunday, when the motorboat "Pippin" was swamped, and two men were drowned.

The alarm bell yesterday which caused Dever's mishap proved to be for the drifting of an up-turned boat.

AS MEMBER OF MERRIMACK RIVER COMMISSION

BOSTON, Aug. 15.—Gov. Foss sent a number of nominations to the council yesterday. Lewis R. Hovey of Haverhill is named as a member of the Merrimack River commission and Judge Charles C. Payne is designated as chairman of the same board. Both nominations were confirmed by the council under suspension of the rules, as was also the nomination of Morgan J. McSweeney of Salem to be clerk of 1st district court of Essex.

Daniel H. Bradley of Somerville was confirmed as clerk of the Somerville police court, the nomination having been held up several weeks by the council. It is said Ident. Gov. Luce, who voted against confirmation, had a candidate of his own for the office.

Another nomination that has been held up for some time was that of Dr. Harry M. Cutts of Brookline as medical examiner for Norfolk county. It was confirmed yesterday.

The governor reappointed Francis W. Estey of Boston as a member of the ballot law commission and Warren Dunham Foster of Boston as a member of the Homestead commission. He also made the following reappointments: Mary Stewart Scott, Worcester, trustee Wrentham state school; Edward S. Sears, Winthrop, member state board of education; Nathaniel K. Neve, Duxbury, assistant medical examiner Plymouth county; John F. Croston Haverhill, medical examiner Essex county; S. Chase Tucker, Peabody, associate medical examiner Essex county; Stephen A. Pedrick, Rowley, associate medical examiner Essex county.

The council voted an additional $5500 to the state house commission for expenses in connection with the preparation of plans for the proposed state house Lowell day at Hampton beach.

ONCE TURF HERO CHARGED WITH LARCENY

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Ranked when a boy as the premier jockey of the American turf, with earnings of $50,000 a year, Grover Cleveland Fuller, who is still only 25 years old, limped before Judge Crain in general sessions yesterday, penniless and friendless, to plead to an indictment charging theft of a watch.

"It's gone, every cent of it," moaned Fuller, in referring to his fortune, "and those I believed my friends got most of it. In two years I spent $250,000. Now I am absolutely down and out, without even a cent to hire counsel. I have appealed to friends, but they won't help. All that I have left is a bad leg, which put me out of the riding business, when my mount, Wilful, fell with me at the Excelsior handicap in 1905."

During his prime Fuller was rated as the successor of "Tod" Sloan.

SEVERAL EXCURSIONS

A special car took Daniel Fox of Dracut Centre and a party on a fishing trip to Swampscott. They left at 4 o'clock this morning.

A number of people took advantage of the delightful weather today and made a trip to Hampton in automobiles. Among them were James Hearn, Thomas F. Duffy, Charles T. McKen-Ale and Owen J. Carney, with Mr. Thomas McDermott. Today was of plans for the proposed state house Lowell day at Hampton beach.

A, LITTLE NONSENSE

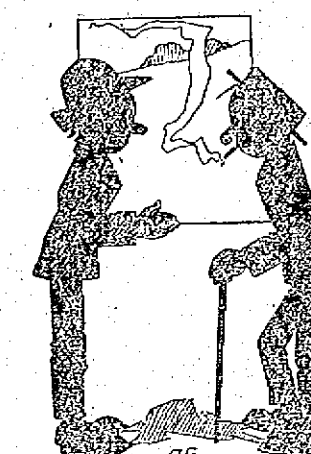

AN ALTERED APPEARANCE
"I know a lady who lost a dog that looked just like that one."
"I doubt it, ma'am. The dog you mean didn't have his ears trimmed or his tail shortened."

MAKING CHANGE

Mr. Flintkicker—They will be a great help to the cause of charity.

HAVING IT SETTLED
Mr. Gushington—Miss Goldlocks! Clara, will you be mine?
Miss Goldlocks—Mr. Gushington, no high-minded modern woman will ever consent to being to any man. But I will marry you, Percy.

A FATAL KNOCK
"Say, we've got to do something right away to save our city."
"What's threatening it?"
"Why, the story's got around that we don't support our ball club."

TOO COMFORTABLE
"I don't believe I'll take that gown, after all."
"Why not?"
"It feels too comfortable on me to be stylish."

TESTS CITY PENSION PLAN

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Joseph O.
Hammit, secretary of the Citizens' union, brought a taxpayers' action in the supreme court yesterday for a permanent injunction restraining the city from paying pensions to retired employees under a law of 1911 which prescribes that when persons have worked for the city more than thirty years and are mentally or physically disabled they may be retired on half pay.

Hammit names as defendants the board of estimates, the comptroller and the city chamberlain. He obtained a temporary injunction from Justice Du-gore restraining the payment of any pensions pending the determination of his suit.

The complaint says the law violates sections of the constitution providing that a city may not give away any of its money or property and prohibiting the granting of extra compensation to any public officer.

Taft today returned to the house with

TARIFF REVISION BILLS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—An effort to reach an agreement to dispose of the steel and wool tariff revision bills already passed by the house over the president's veto failed in the senate this afternoon. Unanimous consent to vote on both measures tomorrow was objected to by Senator Briggs because there was a dispute about the arrangement of pairs.
